Dear Colleagues and Guests:

Welcome to the 150th Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. The theme for this meeting, which reflects the concerns, hopes and visions of every sector of American psychiatry, is:

Strengthening Psychiatry's Dedication and Commitment to: Compassionate Care; Educational Excellence; Creative Research

As we work hard to build a better future for our patients, including children, minorities, the elderly and their families, there are some basics we must keep in mind. Much of the scientific program addresses these issues. There are sessions on confidentiality, psychiatric education, ethics, the doctor/patient relationship, private practice, economic and managed care, as well as many excellent sessions on the latest developments in research and clinical practice.

A forum entitled, "Town Hall Meeting on Reasserting Psychiatry's Control of its Future: The Containment of Managed Care," is scheduled on Wednesday, May 21, at 12 noon. My Presidential Symposium entitled, "The Doctor/Patient Relationship: The Crucible of Psychiatric Care," is scheduled on (Wednesday, May 21, at 2:00 p.m.)

I am delighted that our international registration has grown so considerably over the past several years. That so many colleagues from around the world attend our Annual Meeting is a tribute to its high quality and diversity. At this meeting we will have a number of outstanding international guests, including leaders from the World Psychiatric Association, some of whom will make presentations and many of whom will represent their organizations at the Opening Session. I hope that you will join me at the Opening Session, which will take place on Sunday from 5:00 p.m. - 6:30 p.m. I am once again holding a Town Hall Meeting for international visitors, because the mutual exchange it allowed last year was so valuable.

Those inducted as Fellows into the APA and those receiving awards from the Association will be honored at the Convocation of Fellows on May 19, from 7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Please join me and your colleagues at the Convocation to congratulate these members and friends of the APA.

Helping to plan this meeting has been stimulating and invigorating. It would not be possible without the extensive, dedicated effort of many APA members and staff. Congratulations to the staff and to the Scientific Program and Local Arrangements Committees for this remarkable ending to what has been an extremely effective and successful year for the APA, and a superb beginning of the coming year, in which we will make further advances for our patients, the public and our profession.

Welcome and Enjoy,

Harold I. Eist, M.D.

Dear APA Members and Guests:

Welcome to San Diego and the 150th Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. This exciting city, with its vibrancy, cultural diversity and excitement, provides a fitting setting for the presentations we have planned for you this year. As you read through the Program Book, you will notice we have a number of sessions related to the theme "Strengthening Psychiatry's Dedication and Commitment to: Compassionate Care ♦ Educational Excellence ♦ Creative Research," chosen by our President, Dr. Harold I. Eist, M.D., for this year's Annual Meeting. I would especially draw your attention to the Presidential Symposium scheduled on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

The Local Arrangements Committee, under the excellent guidance of its Chairperson, Dr. Rodrigo A. Muñoz and Co-Chairperson, Alicia Muñoz, has developed a wide array of programs that will help you take advantage of San Diego and the surrounding area. You will notice that a number of activities are designed especially for families and children.

The Business Meeting will be held on Sunday, May 18, from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; all voting members are encouraged to attend. The Opening Session will be held on Sunday evening from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. As in previous years, exhibits will be open until 6:00 p.m., Sunday through Tuesday and 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday. Please note, this is a relatively new closing time for Wednesday.

The Advances in Research session will be held on Monday at 10:30 a.m. This session highlights the latest research findings in psychiatry and summarizes their relevance to clinical practice. This has become an excellent way to start off the Annual Meeting's research programs, in conjunction with the Young Investigators' Poster Session on Monday morning. You will find an expanded number of small group sessions, which include the Discussion Groups, Research Consultations with selected experts in the field and the newly created Master Educator Clinical Consultations, a series of clinically-based seminars with outstanding clinician educators, which will be offered to APA members only. Some Scientific and Clinical Reports, Symposia and Workshops will be simultaneously translated into Spanish at the Convention Center Monday through Wednesday. The Simon Bolivar Lecture will be presented on Monday and simultaneously translated into Spanish.

You will also note in the Program Book that we are continuing with our expanded series of noon Forums. This format allows us to schedule sessions that may not fit in the usual formats or that may focus on late-breaking topics of importance to the field. The centerpiece of the forums will be the Town Hall Meeting, entitled "Reasserting Psychiatry's Control of Its Future: The Containment of Managed Care," which will be held at 12 noon on Monday.

I strongly encourage you to fill out and return the evaluation forms for this meeting. The members of the Scientific Program Committee are interested in the opinions of the members regarding the quality and content of the Annual Meeting. The information we obtain is used to plan next year's program. We would also be happy to hear from you personally and would welcome your suggestions.

Once again, welcome to San Diego. I look forward to sharing a week of exciting and professionally rewarding activities with you.

Sincerely,

Sidney H. Weissman, M.D.

Estimados Miembros de APA y distinguidos Invitados:

Bienvenidos a San Diego y a la 150ma Reunión Anual de la Asociación Americana de Psiquiatras (American Psychiatric Association). Esta ciudad tan excitante, vibrante, estimulante y de gran diversidad cultural sirve de fondo a las presentaciones que hemos planificado para este año. Cuando lea a través de nuestro Programa (Program Book), verá que tenemos un número de sesiones relacionadas con el tema "Fortaleciendo la Dedicación y el Compromiso a la Psiquiatría en: Cuidado Compasivo ♦ Excelencia Educativa ♦ Investigación Creativa." Este tema fue seleccionado por nuestro Presidente, el Dr. Harold I. Eist, para la Reunión Anual de este año. Quiero llamar su atención al Simposio Presidencial planificado para el miércoles a las 2:00 de la tarde.

Nuestro Comité de Arreglos Locales, bajo la excelente dirección del Dr. Rodrigo A. Muñoz, y su mano derecha Alicia Muñoz, ha desarrollado una gran variedad de programas que le ayudarán a tomar ventaja de la ciudad de San Diego y sus áreas adyacentes. Notará, por ejemplo, que un buen número de actividades han sido diseñadas especialmente para familias y niños.

La Reunión de Asuntos Administrativos (Business Meeting) tomará lugar el domingo 18 de mayo, de 12:30 a 1:30 p.m. y se espera la asistencia de todos los miembros votantes. La Sesión de Apertura se llevará a cabo el domingo por la tarde, de 5:00 p.m. a 6:00 p.m. Como en años anteriores, las exhibiciones permanecerán abiertas hasta las 6:00 p.m., de domingo a martes, y el miércoles de 10:00 a.m. a 3:00 p.m. Por favor, tome nota ya que éste es un nuevo horario de cierre para el día miércoles.

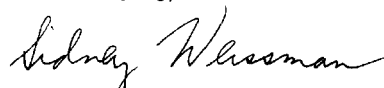

La sesión "Adelantos en Investigación" (Advances in Research) se celebrará el lunes a las 10:30 a.m. Esta sesión trae a la luz los últimos desarrollos en la Psiquiatría y resume la relevancia de éstos en cuanto a la práctica clínica. Esta ha sido una manera excelente de comenzar los programas investigativos de la Reunión Anual, en conjunto con la sesión llamada Young Investigator's Poster Session, el cual tomará lugar el lunes en la mañana. Además encontrará que hemos expandido el número de sesiones de grupo pequeño, incluyendo Grupos de Discusión (Discussion Groups) y Consultas Investigativas (Research Consultations), con expertos selectos en el campo, y la nueva serie de seminarios basados en el cuidado clínico (Master Educator Clinical Consultations), con destacados educadores clínicos. Estos seminarios serán ofrecidos exclusivamente a los miembros de APA. Varios de los Informes Científicos y Clínicos, Simposios y Talleres (Workshops) serán traducidos simultáneamente al español en el Centro de Convenciones desde el lunes hasta el miércoles. La Conferencia Simón Bolívar será presentada el lunes y traducida simultáneamente al español.

También notará en nuestro Programa que hemos continuado con nuestra serie de Foros al mediodía. Este formato nos permite programar sesiones que no se adaptan a los formatos regulares o que pueden enfocar tópicos del momento de importancia a este campo. La pieza central de estos foros lo será el Town Hall Meeting titulado "Reafirmando el Control de la Psiquiatría sobre su Futuro: Refrenar el 'Managed Care'," el cual tendrá lugar el lunes al mediodía.

Le recomiendo que llene y devuelva las formas de evaluación para esta reunión. Los miembros del Comité del Programa Científico están sumamente interesados en las opiniones de los miembros en lo que concierne a la calidad y el contenido de la Reunión Anual. La información que obtendremos de estas formas será usada para planificar el programa del año próximo. Nos gustaría además oír de ustedes personalmente y, demás está decir, sus sugerencias serán bienvenidas.

Una vez más, bienvenidos a San Diego. Espero poder compartir con ustedes de una semana plena de actividades excitantes, a la vez que provechosas, dentro de un marco profesional.

Atentamente,

Sidney H. Weissman, M.D.
Chairman
Comité del Programa Científico

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CREDIT

The American Psychiatric Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians. The APA designates this continuing medical education activity for up to 66 credit hours in Category 1 of the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association and for the CME requirement of the APA.

The content of CME is that body of knowledge and skills generally recognized and accepted by the profession as within the basic medical sciences, the discipline of clinical medicine, and the provision of health care to the public. Sessions not meeting the definition of CME are not eligible for CME credit.

The scientific sessions of the official Annual Meeting program, with some exceptions, meet the criteria for Category 1 CME credit. Sessions in the following program formats are designated as Category 1: these include Advances in Research, Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences, CME Courses, Debate, Forums, Industry Supported Symposia, Lectures, Medical Updates, Research Advances in Medicine, Round Table Discussion, Practice Guidelines Update, Media Sessions, New Research Oral/Slide Sessions, Scientific and Clinical Reports, Presidential Symposium, Review of Psychiatry, Symposia, and Workshops. Other program activities are designated Category 2; these include Research Consultations With, Discussion Groups, Master Educator Clinical Consultations, New Research Poster Sessions, Video Production Clinics, and some Media Sessions, Lectures and Workshops. Discussion Groups, Master Educator and Research Consultations With sessions are limited to 25 participants and are open on a first-come, first-served basis. If there is space available in the room, you may attend. Continuing medical education sessions are open to all Annual Meeting registrants, except for the Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences and the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, which are open to APA members only.

Please note: APA members are required to maintain their own record of CME hours. Reporting of CME credit is on an honor basis.

To document CME credit earned at the Annual Meeting, participants should record the sessions attended on the back page of the Certificate of Attendance found in the front of the 1997 Annual Meeting CME Syllabus & Proceedings Summary Book. Credit is earned on an hour-for-hour basis.

APA members should report their CME activities once they have accumulated 150 hours (with a minimum of 60 hours in Category 1) in a three-year reporting period. CME report forms may be obtained from the Office of Education at the APA. The Certificate of Attendance (or copy) may be forwarded to other organizations requiring verification of participation in the APA Annual Meeting. Staff will be available at the Office of Education booth in the APA Resource Center to answer any of your questions about CME.

ANNUAL MEETING EVALUATION

The Annual Meeting Scientific Program Committee needs your recommendations and evaluations to plan next year's Annual Meeting. A participant evaluation form is enclosed with your registration packet and includes instructions for completing the scannable form. BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE MEETING, PLEASE COMPLETE YOUR FORM AND DROP IT IN ONE OF THE EVALUATION BOXES LOCATED THROUGHOUT THE MEETING SITES. You can receive a Certificate of Attendance at the Annual Meeting by returning a completed form to the APA Staff or Scientific Program Office the Information/Locator Center or the APA Resource Center, all located in the Convention Center.

CME NEEDS ASSESSMENT PROGRAM

Annual Meeting attendees can participate in a computerized needs assessment program, which collects information on members' educational needs and used to plan future CME activities. Those completing the self-administered assessment will receive a CME Certificate of Attendance. The needs assessment project is located at the Office of Education exhibit in the APA Resource Center and is sponsored by the APA Committee on Continuing Education.

SESSION CAPACITY

We expect "sell out" attendance for many of the scientific sessions. So that all in attendance may benefit, we ask your assistance when overcrowding occurs:

- Please find seating as far forward as possible.
- Move to the center of the row and fill all seats so that chairs are available on aisles for additional attendees.
- Store materials under chairs to maximize seating capacity.
- Overcrowding of meeting rooms may subject the session to shutdown by the Fire Marshal; therefore, we urge all attendees to locate seating rather than standing in aisles or against walls.
- If space does not permit you to attend a session, an audiotape of that session may be available. Please check the order form included in your registration packet.

Thank you for your cooperation.

AUDIOTAPES

Audiotapes of most sessions are available shortly after each session concludes and may be purchased at the Mobiltape Booth located in the Convention Center, Grand Lobby, Ground Level.

TAPE RECORDING AND VISUAL REPRODUCTION POLICIES

Audiotape recording is only permitted for personal use. Registrants are welcome to use their own small, portable audiotape recorders to record any session except the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, Clinical Case Conferences and the Continuous Clinical Case Conference, or unless prohibited by the presenters. Larger professional tape recorders, however, are not permitted other than those utilized by personnel representing the professional taping firm authorized by APA to audiotape sessions. The badges of personnel representing this firm will clearly identify them. Registrants are not permitted to videotape any session because the intrusive nature of the recording may disrupt the session.

SMOKING POLICY

There will be NO SMOKING in scientific sessions or in the exhibit hall. Smoking will only be permitted in designated areas.

CHILD CARE SERVICES

For the convenience of meeting registrants and their families, the APA, with assistance from the Local Arrangements Committee, has made arrangements for child care during the meeting. The child care service will be located in the Marriott. Hours of operation will be Saturday, May 17, 12 noon-6:00 p.m.; Sunday, May 18, through Thursday, May 22, 6:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.

FORMAT DESCRIPTIONS

ADVANCES IN RESEARCH

This two-hour session is traditionally chaired by the Chairperson of the Council on Research, and co-chaired by the Chairperson of the Scientific Program Committee. After a brief overview of major advances in research in psychiatry, and a preview of selected research presentations scheduled at the Annual Meeting, leading clinical researchers present the latest developments in four different clinically relevant areas of research.

AIDS EDUCATION PROGRAM

APA's AIDS Project Office presents a clinical update on HIV/AIDS; discussion of neuropsychiatric aspects of HIV disease; and presentations on HIV-related mood disorder and pain in HIV disease, as well as AIDS and Suicide.

CLINICAL CASE CONFERENCES

Clinical material is presented by videotape or the treating therapist. One or more experts then discuss the case. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

CONTINUOUS CLINICAL CASE CONFERENCES

The presenters will review the progress of psychotherapy in two successive three-hour sessions on consecutive days, Monday-Tuesday, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Audience participation will be encouraged throughout. Participants are requested to attend both sessions in their entirety. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

COURSES

Courses are designed to emphasize learning experiences that actively involve participants and include the opportunity for informal exchange with the faculty. Offered in four-hour (half-day) and six-hour (full-day) sessions, courses either review basic concepts in a special subject area or present advanced material on a circumscribed topic. Enrollment is limited, and participants must purchase tickets to attend.

DEBATE

A controversial topic in psychiatry will be debated by experts in the field, including psychiatrists and non-psychiatrists. The debate format allows for members to hear both pro and con views about important, interesting and timely concerns for our members. Each debate is moderated by someone who has expertise in the topic area. A portion of the time is allocated for questions from the audience to the presenters with active participation by participants.

DISCUSSION GROUPS

This format allows small groups to meet informally with selected experts in psychiatry to discuss topics selected by the experts. Several of these are reserved for residents only, and one is reserved for medical students only. These sessions are limited to 25-30 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

FORUMS

These are flexible parts of the program that afford the opportunity to highlight and select topics that are of timely interest to psychiatrists. Speakers and panel members are chosen for their expertise and leadership in the field.

LECTURES

Lectures feature a small number of distinguished speakers on scientific and cultural topics. They extend our understanding beyond the usual limits of clinical psychiatry. Lecturers are invited by the Program Committee.

MASTER EDUCATOR CLINICAL CONSULTATIONS

These are a new series of clinically-based seminars with outstanding educators selected by psychiatry training directors throughout the country. Formats and subject matter will vary, but all will utilize clinical material offered by participants. Presented in conjunction with AADPRT (American Association of Directors of Psychiatric Residency Training). THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

MEDIA PROGRAMS

A media program may involve the showing of a videotape, 16mm film, or computer software demonstration, followed by discussion. Specialized sessions focus on production or consumer/family issues.

MEDICAL UPDATES

These sessions are presented to provide psychiatrists with the latest clinical developments in other areas of medicine. Topics may range from subspecialty areas of adult or pediatric medicine (infectious disease, cardiology, gastroenterology, etc.) to new techniques or procedures in surgery or radiology. The interface between psychiatry and these areas is not necessarily emphasized. The intent is to give participants an update from a physician in a particular specialty.

NEW RESEARCH

This format allows for presentation of the very recent findings obtained from ongoing research. Three types of presentations include: Oral/Slide, twelve-minute presentations with three minutes for discussion; Posters, visual, self-explanatory presentations; and Young Investigators' Sessions, with presentations from young investigators, residents, medical students, and research or clinical fellows.

NIMH WORKSHOP

This workshop clarifies the grant making process for psychiatrists contemplating applying for an NIMH grant. During the first half of the workshop, NIMH representatives present a practical, hands-on approach and description of successful grant writing. The second half of the workshop presents successful recipients of federal grants who discuss their experiences in pursuing federal research and research training grants.

PRACTICE GUIDELINES UPDATE

Title to Come.

PRESIDENTIAL SYMPOSIUM

This three-hour session, organized by the President or a designee, generally highlights an aspect of the presidential theme for the Annual Meeting.

RESEARCH ADVANCES IN MEDICINE

This format presents an overview of cutting-edge research in various aspects of medicine. As opposed to the Medical Update series, which is more clinically focused, this session will help participants keep pace with the rapidly expanding knowledge base and technology in various branches of medicine. Several speakers, authorities in their fields, will present on their topics.

RESEARCH CONSULTATIONS WITH

This format provides an opportunity, in a small group setting, for participants to obtain consultations around problems in research from outstanding senior researchers. Participants should come prepared to present a specific problem in research, whether it's one of research design, methodology, subject selection or data analysis, etc., which could be presented briefly to the consultant. These sessions are limited to 25-30 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

REVIEW OF PSYCHIATRY

There will be six, three-and-one-half hour sessions presented, based on the annual American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry. Each session is chaired by a section editor from the volume, and includes an abridged presentation by each senior author from each of the chapters in each section. The topics were selected by the overall editors of the volume, to represent current areas of new research, new developments in clinical care, and special issues of importance to APA members.

ROUND TABLE

This format is designed to establish a dialogue between psychiatrists and other citizens about controversial issues of special interest to our profession. The moderator presents a panel of experts with hypothetical scenarios that highlight controversial and problematic situations with which psychiatrists interface.

SCIENTIFIC AND CLINICAL REPORT SESSIONS

Scientific and Clinical Reports (formerly Paper Sessions) are oral presentations of papers prepared for submission before publication. In this format reports are grouped by topic, with floor discussion from the audience following the presentation of each paper. There is no specific discussant.

SOCIAL SECURITY WORKSHOP

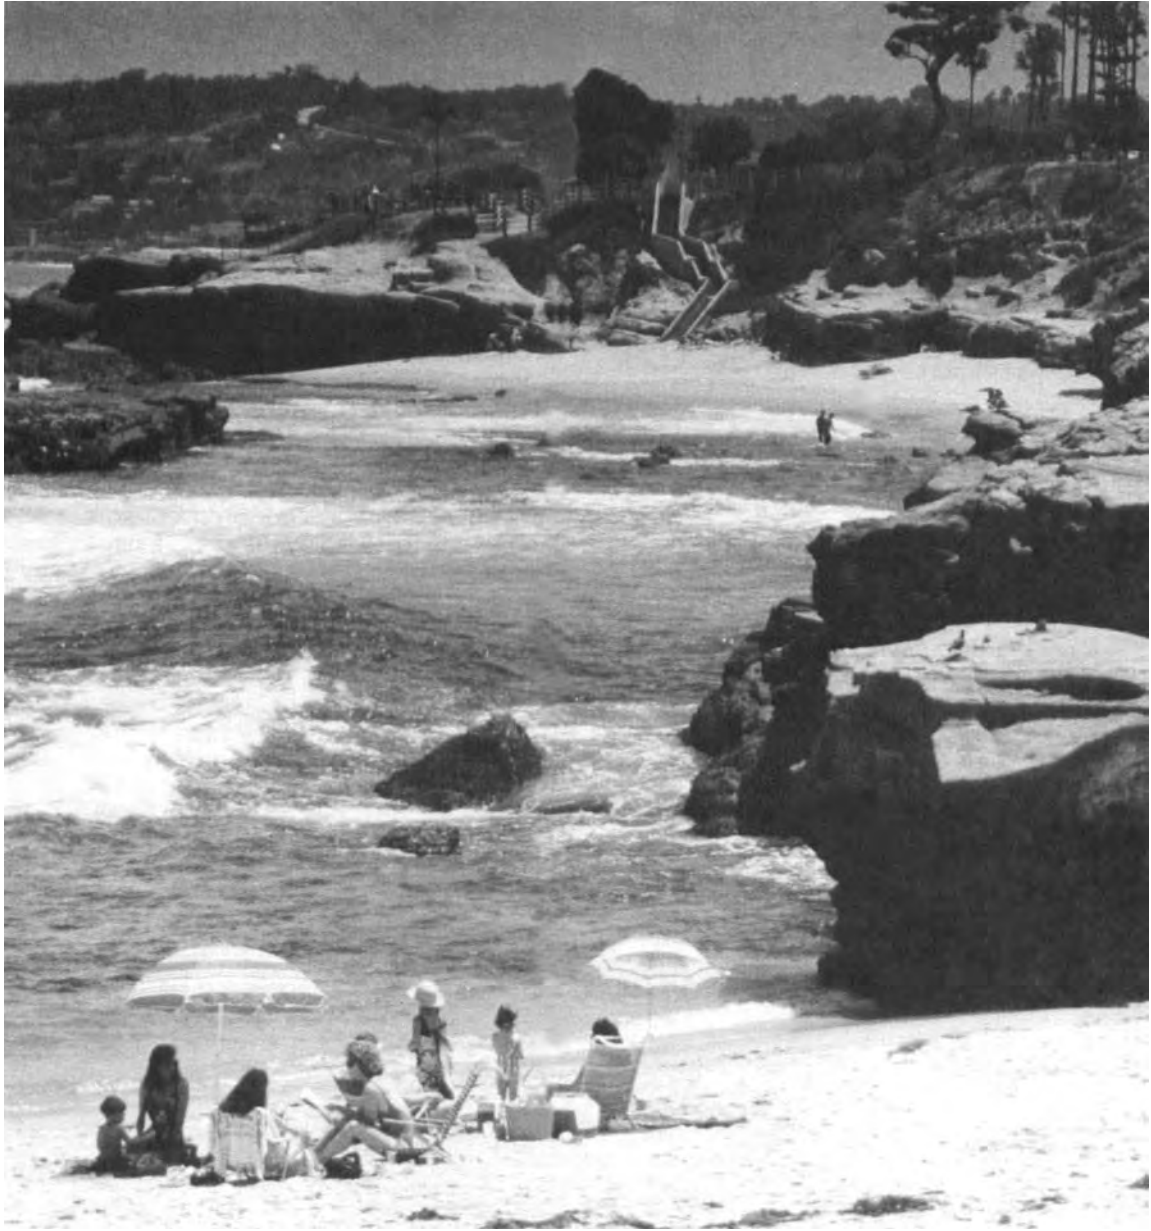

Social Security Administration (SSA) officials present the history/background of SSA disability programs (including new legislative initiatives), describe how psychiatrists can best serve applicants for benefits, and review the clinical information required to expedite the disability determination process. Time is allocated for group discussion of evaluation of impairments, what constitutes adequate evidence to support disability decisions, etc.

SYMPOSIA

Symposia are three-hour sessions consisting of four to six presentations that are thematically linked and focus on a specific topic relevant to clinical psychiatry. They are designed to provide comprehensive treatment of a topic or discussion of the topic from several points of view by the participants and stimulate discussion with the audience. Some symposia are supported by industry and are designated as "Industry Supported Symposium" in this Program Book.

WORKSHOPS

Workshops are one-and-one-half hour sessions, which typically involve brief presentations from individual panel members, followed by the opportunity for lively and informative discussion. This format provides for substantial audience participation and should be highly interactive.

Historians of psychiatry often consider the formulation of the McNaughtan Rules to have been a legal exercise designed to reposition insanity on cognitive, rather than volitional, grounds. Before McNaughtan, the testimony of medical specialists often rested on concepts of volitional impairment, which were thought by the legal establishment to expand both the range of possible debilitating states that could call for acquittal and the professional authority of the specialists. To gauge the success of London's Central Criminal Court in maintaining the criterion of an "inability to know right from wrong" as the only legitimate grounds for an insanity plea, Joel P. Eigen, Ph.D., discusses a series of cases heard ten years after McNaughtan. Three trials are examined in detail to explore how effectively the cognitive standard was reinforced, how medical witnesses confronted legal questioning, and how their patterns of response contributed to their establishing a professional niche in the courtroom. Dr. Eigen, Professor at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, is the author of Witnessing Insanity: Madness and Mad-Doctors in the English Court (1995) and several papers on the history of forensic psychiatry. A recipient of the Legal History Fellowship from the American Bar Foundation, Dr. Eigen received his doctoral degree in sociology from the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

1 Leaving Las Vegas

(111 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.
350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway
Hauppauge, NY 11787

Leaving Las Vegas is a graceful, unrepentant portrait of an alcoholic in the end stages of self-destruction and of the depressing, yet graceful relationship that surrounds that end. Nicolas Cage, as Ben Sanderson, is a Hollywood screenwriter whose alcoholism has affected the loss of relationship with his wife and child, his job and his friends. He burns his belongings and drives to Las Vegas planning to drink himself to death. While there, he meets Sera (Elizabeth Shue), a prostitute whom he initially engages for money, though because of the effects of alcohol, Sanderson's attempt to have sex is a failure. When Sera loses her pimp, Uri (Julian Sands), she and Ben begin a relationship to keep loneliness at bay. She promises never to ask him to stop drinking, and he promises he will never ask her to stop hooking. This couple's love is a "moving, depressing tale in which love redeems but does not save." Directed by Mike Figgis, who also wrote the score and played the keyboard and trumpet on a wonderful, moody soundtrack, the film is an uncompromising picture about alcoholism and "two wounded, desperate, marginal people and how they create for each other, a measure of grace." It won Cage a best-actor Oscar for his performance.

DIAGNOSTIC ISSUES

2 Video Casebook of Psychiatry

(60 minutes)

Distributor: NIJo Software and Video
Box 126-H
Scarsdale, NY 10583

This Video Casebook of Psychiatry contains eight video cases that illustrate a variety of common psychiatric diagnostic categories. Each case is approximately 4-10 minutes in length, and should contain enough information to arrive at a specific DSM-IV diagnosis. The video cases have been taken from the Pass the Boards! set of videotapes which have been used by thousands of psychiatrists preparing for their oral board examination. These video cases can be used for a variety of purposes; they will be useful for teachers who wish to illustrate certain forms of psychopathology and arrive at specific psychiatric diagnoses consistent with the DSM-IV. A specific targeted audience is teachers of both undergraduate and graduate students studying psychology. They will also be useful for the students who may wish to have the diagnoses "come to life" on video so as to illustrate the psychopathology about which they have read in the textbooks. They will remain of value to professionals studying for their specialty examinations, such as the psychiatry boards, where half of the oral examination involves an examination on material contained in a videotape of a patient. An additional suggested use of the videotape is to illustrate interviewing techniques that demonstrate how to elicit historical information important in establishing a diagnosis. The Video Casebook of Psychiatry comes with a manual that includes a brief summary of the patient's history followed by a discussion of the psychopathology and the diagnosis.

3 Ethnocultural Psychotherapy

(30 minutes)

Distributor American Psychological Association for 3 & 4: Order Department
 P.O. Box 92984
 Washington, DC 20090

Two psychotherapy videotapes were selected from a psychotherapy videotape series by the American Psychological Association. The goal of each videotape is to present an unrehearsed session that captures the theoretical approach and clinical style of the particular psychotherapist. Toward this end, a number of steps were taken to ensure that both the therapist and the client were anchored, conceptually and experientially, in the clinical material, each other, and previous sessions. First, therapists provided the type of patient, problem and presentation with which they typically work. Second, a client profile was developed that included demographic data, clinical history and presenting problem, precipitating event, and other background information. The videotaped session will demonstrate ethnocultural psychotherapy, which was developed by Lillian Comas-Diaz and Frederick M. Jacobsen in order to integrate human diversity into clinical practice. This eclectic approach acknowledges the concept of self as an internal ethnocultural representation. The recognition, recovery and use of the client's strengths constitute central tenets in this framework.

4 Cognitive-Behavior Therapy

(30 minutes)

Jacqueline B. Persons, Ph.D., is featured as the therapist on this videotape. Dr. Persons provides clinical and research training to psychologists and psychiatric residents and conducts research on cognitive processes underlying depression and anxiety and on case conceptualization in cognitive-behavior therapy. This psychotherapy approach emphasizes the use of case conceptualization to guide the therapist's use of standard cognitive-behavioral interventions. A case formulation includes a description of the patient's overt problems, as well as hypotheses about some of the core beliefs (schema) that drive and maintain both the overt problems and the patient's mode of responding to and coping with the overt problems.

The Biology of PTSD

Chp.: Steven Lazrove, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Emily B. Newman, M.D.

Studies over the last decade have shown that trauma survivors with PTSD have distinct neuro-endocrine, cognitive and neuroanatomic characteristics. For example, findings about hypothalamic/pituitary/adrenal alterations in trauma survivors with PTSD suggest that their levels of the stress hormone cortisol are actually lower in both the acute and chronic aftermath of trauma, compared with the levels of trauma survivors without PTSD. Rachel Yehuda, Ph.D., summarizes recent biological findings about PTSD and discusses their treatment implications. Recent evidence suggests that trauma exposure alone does not account for the biologic changes observed in PTSD and points to the presence of biologic risk factors for the disorder. Dr. Yehuda is Associate Professor of Psychiatry at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City and Director of the Posttraumatic Stress Disorder Program at the Bronx Veterans Affairs Hospital. She also directs the Specialized Treatment Clinic for Holocaust Survivors and Their Families at Mount Sinai Medical Center. The author of numerous scientific papers and book chapters on the biology of stress, Dr. Yehuda has been awarded the Curt P. Richter Prize in Psychoneuroendocrinology and the David Caul Memorial Award for Excellence in Research from the International Society for the Study of Dissociation. Dr. Yehuda received her doctorate in neurochemistry and neuroendocrinology from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst and did postdoctoral work in biological psychiatry at Yale University School of Medicine.

Belief in Psychic Life

Chp.: George T. Harding IV, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Reverend Clark S. Aist, Ph.D.

When psychiatrists discuss belief, they generally focus on what people believe rather than the function of belief itself. Ana Maria Rizzuto, M.D., discusses believing as a fundamental psychic action, a ubiquitous process present from the beginning of life and connected with the indispensable need to maintain a minimally viable sense of self. As a complex psychic activity, believing avails itself of all psychic abilities and defensive processes. The modalities and contents of belief evolve with the changing needs of the developing psyche and of the transformations of external life. This concept of belief applies to diverse phenomena, from infantile convictions to scientific theories and religious beliefs. Dr. Rizzuto is a Training and Supervisory Analyst at the Psychoanalytic Institute of New England, East, and is in full-time private practice in Brookline, Massachusetts. Her publications include the book, The Birth of the Living God: A Psychoanalytic Study and several papers, book chapters and reviews. Dr. Rizzuto received her medical degree from the Universidad Nacional de Cordoba in Argentina and completed her residency in psychiatry at Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston. She received her psychoanalytic training at the Boston Psychoanalytic Institute.

This series of three clinical programs reveals additions and changes from DSM-III-R to DSM-IV for mood, psychotic and anxiety disorders. Each videotape focuses on a particular area of psychiatric diagnosis and contains enactments of three outstanding clinicians' actual patient interviews. Nancy C. Andreasen, M.D., Andrew H. Woods Professor of Psychiatry, University of Iowa College of Medicine, is the interviewer for Psychotic Disorders; Andrew E. Skodol II, M.D., Associate Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, is the interviewer for Anxiety Disorders; and Ellen Frank, Ph.D., Professor of Psychiatry and Psychology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, is the interviewer for Mood Disorders. Each videotape begins with an introductory discussion between the clinician and the moderator. The clinician conducts three, 10-minute psychiatric diagnostic interviews. Following each interview, the clinician and the moderator discuss the taped segments and comment on issues illustrated during the interviews, including how the DSM-IV diagnostic criteria were utilized in the interview, how diagnostic markers were elicited and how interpersonal issues and diagnostic markers were identified. The interviews use reference data to examine conclusions reached during the patient interviews. Each tape also demonstrates good interviewing techniques and highlights the development of a positive doctor/patient relationship.

Culture, Health and Quality of Life

Chp.: Silvia W. Olarte, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Angela Pedraza, M.D.

Culture informs our understanding and experience of health and life and is a crucial factor in psychiatric diagnosis. Juan E. Mezzich, M.D., describes the work of the Group on Culture and Diagnosis of the National Institute of Mental Health, which he chairs. Building on maturing cross-cultural research and stimulated by a growing multiculturalism in the general population, the work group made innovative contributions to the cultural framework of DSM-IV. Developments are emerging to enhance the cultural validity and sensitivity of health assessment, from the identification of mental problems in primary care to the appraisal of quality of life. Dr. Mezzich is Professor of Psychiatry and Community Medicine and Head of the Division of Psychiatric Epidemiology at Mount Sinai School of Medicine of the City University of New York. He serves as a consultant to the World Health Organization on the Development of ICD-10 and is Chairperson of the Section on Classification, Diagnosis Assessment and Nomenclature of the World Psychiatric Association. He is the author of more than 150 scientific journal articles and book chapters and ten books, including Psychiatric Diagnosis: A World Perspective (1995) and Culture and Psychiatric Diagnosis (1996). Dr. Mezzich received his medical degree from Cayetano Heredia Peruvian University in Lima. He completed his psychiatric residency at Ohio State University Hospital in Columbus and received his doctoral degree in Mathematical and Statistical Psychology from Ohio State University.

Professor Elisabeth Young-Buehl

The Anatomy of Prejudices

Chp.: Carol C. Nadelson, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Emily K. Lee, M.D.

Prejudices can be understood through psychoanalytic characterological theory. People who are obsessional tend to direct their prejudice toward groups considered clannish, infiltrating of the prejudiced person's society, poisonous and intellectual; hysterical types tend to be prejudiced against groups conceived of as lower, darker, primitive and more sexual. Elisabeth Young-Buehl, Ph.D., proposes a theory of narcissistic characterological prejudice and discusses the implications of this approach for coalition building among oppressed groups. Dr. Young-Buehl is a professor in general programs at Haverford College in Haverford, Pennsylvania, and is in the private practice of psychotherapy and psychoanalysis while in training at the Philadelphia Association for Psychoanalysis. She is the author of numerous papers and several books, including two major biographies, Hannah Arendt: For Love of the World and Anna Freud: A Biography. She has also written a monograph on Karl Jasper's philosophy, and an essay collection entitled Mind and the Body Politic. Her seminars on the history of psychoanalysis are offered at three training programs in Chicago and Philadelphia. Dr. Young-Buehl received her doctorate under Hannah Arendt's supervision at the New School for Social Research in New York City and did postgraduate work in psychoanalytic theory at Western New England Institute for Psychoanalysis in New Haven, Connecticut.

10 Little Italy
(58 minutes)

Distributor: Mill Valley Film Group
104 Eucalyptus Knoll
Mill Valley, CA 94941

An eclectic collection of characters and personal anecdotes are the highlights of Little Italy, a rewarding gem of a documentary. Poignant tales of immigration and assimilation; memories of tender mothers with indomitable spirits; and the music, art, and food of Italian-American culture are vividly recounted by men and women who grew up in the Little Italys of North Beach in San Francisco and the Arthur Avenue section of the Bronx, including such personalities as August Coppola, Diane di Prima, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, and Chazz Palminteri. By tackling thorny questions about ethnic identity with candor, passion and pride, the Italian-Americans of Little Italy pay tribute to their forbears and lovingly acknowledge how the traditions of a rich and unique culture have enriched their lives.

11 Stolen Ground
(43 minutes)

Distributor: Stir Fry Productions
470 Third Street
Oakland, CA 94607

In this documentary, Stolen Ground, six Asian-American men describe how racism has impacted their lives. Through these seldom-seen portraits of so-called "model minority's" lives, the men share their pain, anger and struggle for acknowledgment. They talk poignantly and sometimes angrily about the lack of positive media images of Asian men and of their desire for whites in America to become more aware and "unconditionally accept" the experiences that Asian-Americans have had. They talk of their need to endure to survive in this country, of overachieving, of the stereotypes they face and disparaging remarks they hear, of the experiences of gay Asian-Americans and of the risks they face when they confront the racism in today's society. They talk about the need to get rid of racism; to "not let racism slide anymore, to call people on it." There is resolve to confront racism against Asian-Americans and to join as allies with others fighting against racism.

The 1997 National Drug Control Strategy:
 Engaging the Medical Community

Chp.: Sidney H. Weissman, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Steven M. Mirin, M.D.

The National Drug Control Strategy organizes the work of the more than 50 federal agencies involved in the struggle against illegal drugs and substance abuse. It offers a common framework to local governments and community and professional groups for building a unified counter-drug effort in the United States. General Barry R. McCaffrey, Director of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy, discusses the vital role of the medical professions in this effort. He challenges psychiatrists, as experts in human emotions and behavior, to lead the medical professions in recognizing and treating substance abuse problems. In February 1996, General McCaffrey was confirmed by unanimous vote of the U.S. Senate as the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. He formerly was the Commander-in-Chief of the U.S. Armed Forces Southern Command, coordinating all national security operations in Latin America. General McCaffrey served combat tours in the Dominican Republic, Vietnam and Iraq. When he retired from active duty, he was the most highly decorated and the youngest four-star general in the U.S. Army. He twice received the Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest award for valor. He has also received the Department of State's Superior Honor Award for support of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, the NAACP Roy Wilkins Renown Service Award and decorations from the French, Brazilian and Argentine governments. General McCaffrey attended the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and received a master's degree in civil government from American University in Washington, D.C.

Disavowal and the Merely Unhappy

Chp.: Nauttam J. Kothari, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Linda S. Mullen, M.D.

Disavowal, the separation from and denial of a certain aspect of reality, can be seen both in the field of psychiatry and in specific forms of psychopathology. Arnold I. Goldberg, M.D., suggests that disavowal is manifested in psychiatry in the separation of the "merely unhappy" from the "truly sick" and in the separation of pharmacologic therapy from psychotherapeutic effort. Both types of separation distort the field. The narcissistic behavior disorders are presented as examples of severe disavowal, or "vertical splitting," in which one sector of the personality behaves realistically while another engages in a variety of pathologic behaviors. Treating these behavior disorders requires integrating the personality or healing the split. Integration is also needed to address the split on divisiveness in the field of psychiatry. Dr. Goldberg is Professor of Psychiatry at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's School of Medicine in Chicago. He is also in the private practice of psychiatry and psychoanalysis and is a Training and Supervising Analyst at the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago. He is the author or editor of numerous publications, including 18 books, among them The Problem of Perversion: The View From Self Psychology (1995). Dr. Goldberg received his medical degree from the University of Illinois. He completed his psychiatric residency training at Michael Reese Hospital and his psychoanalytic training at the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago.

CHILD AND ADOLESCENT BEHAVIORAL PROBLEMS

Chp.: Richard E. D'Alli, M.D.

12 Restless Minds, Restless Kids
 (32 minutes)

Distributor: Duke University School of Medicine
 Division Audiovisual Education
 Box 3087
 Durham, NC 27710

Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) is the most commonly diagnosed neurobehavioral problem in childhood and adolescence. Various workers have suggested that as many as one in 10 American youngsters may have symptoms (principally inattention, distractibility and psychomotor hyperactivity) severe enough to impair normal social and academic development. Untreated, ADHD is often associated with school or vocational difficulties, substance abuse, affective disorders, antisocial behavior, or other significant psychological disability. Despite an extraordinarily large research base documenting ADHD as a neuropsychiatric disorder that responds to appropriate treatment, public and even professional controversy surrounds ADHD. A spirited debate cyclically appears in the media regarding the prevalence and treatment approaches to the disorder. In Restless Minds, Restless Kids, Drs. C. Keith Conners and John S. March, both specialists in childhood externalizing and internalizing disorders, discuss the state-of-the-art approach to diagnosing and treating ADHD. They are joined on tape by four mothers of ADHD-affected children who share their experiences, especially the effects of this disorder on family life. Restless Minds, Restless Kids was produced in broadcast style, and is appropriate for a wide-ranging audience, from medical students to parent support groups.

13 The Trouble with Evan
(90 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

As early as age four, Evan was exhibiting serious behavior problems. Now at age 11, he has been caught drinking beer, smoking, stealing money and committing arson. His parents and teachers cannot control him and fear that he is on a criminal path. With the family's permission, cameras were placed in Evan's home to record three months of painful and intimate moments of family conflict. The footage in The Trouble with Evan details intense verbal and emotional abuse of Evan, revealing that his troubles can be traced back to his parents. We see the raw emotions of an enraged father, as he yells, cuffs, swears at his son, and tells him he is no longer part of the family. Rarely have scenes like this been captured on camera. Intercut with these scenes of family strife are excerpts of therapy sessions of five young offenders at a juvenile correction center. Their memories of emotional abuse have much in common with Evan's experience.

The Color of Fear is a film about the state of race relations in America, as experienced and described by eight men of African, Asian, Latino and European descent. One by one the men reveal the pain and anguish that racism has caused them. Out of these confrontations and struggles toward understanding and trust emerges an emotional and insightful portrayal of the type of discussion most of us fear, but hope will happen sometime in our lifetime.

Our Scientific Revolution in Psychiatry:
Pitfalls and Caveats

Chp.: Stuart C. Yudofsky, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Michael J. Devlin, M.D.

Despite advances in understanding the molecular basis of major psychiatric disorders, the affective disorders remain a heterogeneous group of conditions that still await a decisive "genetic" breakthrough. With the recent changes in therapy for affective disorders, the number of questions about their etiology and course has*(Continued on next page)*

actually increased. David J. Kupfer, M.D., outlines a research agenda for the next decade that includes a carefully thought through mix of clinical and basic science endeavors. Research must improve the therapeutic options for patients who are currently suffering, and preclinical studies must be informed by what is being learned clinically. Basic brain science is most likely to yield significant breakthroughs when it is informed by in-depth knowledge of disorder manifestation. Dr. Kupfer is the Thomas Detre Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry, and Professor of Neuroscience at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. His more than 600 scholarly publications have examined the use of medication in recurrent depression, the causes of depression and the relationship between biological rhythms, sleep and depression. Dr. Kupfer has received the William R. McAlpin, Jr., Research Achievement Award and the American Psychiatric Association Award for Research in Psychiatry. He was elected to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences in 1990. He received his medical degree from Yale University and did his postgraduate clinical and research training at the Yale New Haven Hospital and at the National Institute of Mental Health.

Miles F. Shore, M.D.

Psychiatry in a New Key:
Assuring the Future of Our Profession

Chp.: Arthur T. Meyerson, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Adella T. Wasserstein, M.D.

Miles F. Shore, M.D., outlines strategies for assuring the future of psychiatry as a profession in the reorganized health care system. Psychiatrists must move beyond "brainless psychiatry" and "mindless psychiatry" and learn to function as members of the encompassing mental health profession. They must establish legitimacy by offering expertise in the biological and psychosocial aspects of mental disorders and proficiency in exploring and intervening in complex problems. Psychiatrists must also prepare themselves for leadership roles in organized systems of care. To fulfill these essentials, training in psychiatry must be reorganized in both its content and its style. Dr.

Shore is Bullard Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Division of Mental Health Systems of the Consolidated Department of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School. Since 1991 he has been Visiting Scholar at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, where he is studying the impact of managed care on the organization and delivery of clinical services and on psychiatric teaching and research. He is the immediate Past President of the American College of Psychiatrists. His awards and honors include the APA Award for Administrative Psychiatry, the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill Exemplary Psychiatrist Award, and the Arthur P. Noyes Award in Schizophrenia. A graduate of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Shore was a psychiatric resident at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center and at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. He also graduated from the Boston Psychoanalytic Institute.

APA'S BENJAMIN RUSH AWARD LECTURE

Jerry M. Lewis, M.D.

For Better or Worse: Interpersonal Relationships and Individual Outcome

Chp.: Dorothy Bernstein, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Janet E. Ordway, M.D.

Drawing on his experience as an individual, couples and family therapist and his 30 years of research on the characteristics of healthy families and effective marriages, Jerry M. Lewis, M.D., explores the interpersonal perspective on the development and course of individual psychopathology and the processes of growth and maturation. He discusses the importance of several common dyadic processes that influence outcome in infant-mother attachment behaviors, marital relationships, and the psychotherapeutic alliance. The interpersonal perspective emphasizes the importance of systems theory, the balance of separateness and connectedness in dyadic systems, the concept of subjective reality and the joint construction of life narratives. Dr. Lewis is Senior Research Psychiatrist at Timberlawn Psychiatric Research Foundation, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry and Family Practice and of Community Medicine at Southwestern Medical School of the University of Texas at Dallas and Consultant in Psychiatry at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas. He is the author or coauthor of more than 100 professional papers and several books, including The Monkey-Rope: A Psychotherapist's Reflections on Relationships (1996). A Past President of the American College of Psychiatrists and the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry, Dr. Lewis was honored in 1992 with the dedication of the Jerry M. Lewis, M.D., Building at Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital in Dallas. Dr. Lewis received his medical degree from Southwestern Medical School of the University of Texas and completed postgraduate training in psychiatry at Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital and at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

APA'S PATIENT ADVOCACY AWARD LECTURE

Otto F. Wahl, Ph.D.

Media Madness:
Public Images of Mental Illness

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Paul J. Fink, M.D.

Images of mental illness are being presented to a vast audience through books, music, cartoons, advertising and newspapers, as well as movies such as Psycho, Silence of the Lambs and Seven, and television shows such as Kojak, Melrose Place and ER. Unfortunately, these omnipresent portrayals tend to be insensitive, inaccurate and stigmatizing. Otto F. Wahl, Ph.D., examines the prevalence, nature and impact of these depictions, using numerous visual examples from a variety of media. He discusses the damaging consequences of such stereotypes, including discrimination, loss of self-esteem, and reluctance to seek, accept or acknowledge receiving psychiatric treatment. He also describes current efforts to combat negative stereotypes and to encourage more accurate and sympathetic attention to mental illnesses. Dr. Wahl is Associate Professor of Psychology at George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. He is the author of Media Madness: Public Images of Mental Illness (1995), as well as numerous scholarly publications on public attitudes and the stigma of mental illness. He is a member of the Public Relations Committee of the National Mental Health Association and the National Advisory Board for the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill's campaign to end discrimination against persons with severe mental illness. Dr. Wahl received his doctorate in clinical psychology from the University of Pennsylvania. THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

COMPUTERIZED MEDICAL RECORDS IN PSYCHIATRY

Chp.: Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

- 16 Computerized Medical Records in Psychiatry
Gerald Segal, M.S.

Integral to the success of psychiatric health care delivery is the development of electronic medical records. A psychiatric electronic medical record system should encompass the special attributes of psychiatric treatment and be relevant to research, which plays an important role in the improvement of clinical care. An electronic medical record system must also be able to share medical data effectively within the home institution and have the ability to communicate medical information to systems in the city, state, national and international arenas. At the same time, proper security must be provided to maintain patient confidentiality. These requirements present a challenge to the developer and user.

17 Computerized Record Keeping in Psychiatry

Theron C. Bowers, Jr., M.D.

Although the computer is a common tool in many psychiatric practices, its use remains confined to primarily administrative jobs such as billing and scheduling. Since psychiatrists are in a cognitive-based specialty with a primary task of collecting and evaluating patient information, electronic database management has numerous potential benefits for the profession in all areas of practice. This presentation will explore issues regarding computerized clinical database management in psychiatric practices. It will examine potential barriers and challenges to maintaining electronic records. The presentation will also illustrate the benefits and goals of an efficient computerized clinical system by demonstrating a patient-tracking computer program based on a relational database. Using this program, the basic requirements of a patient-tracking system will be shown, including records of progress notes, mental status examinations and medications. More advanced and specialized features such as tracking a patient's progress and monitoring medication side effects also will be addressed.

SOCIAL ISSUES PERTAINING TO WOMEN

Chp.: Cheryl A. Kennedy, M.D.

18 From Danger to Dignity: A Fight for Safe Abortion
(57 minutes)

Distributor: Women Make Movies
 Distribution Service
 462 Broadway, Suite 500D
 New York, NY 10013

From Danger to Dignity: A Fight for Safe Abortion weaves together two parallel stories: the evolution of underground networks that helped women find safe abortions outside the law, and the intensive efforts by activists and legislators who dedicated themselves to legalizing abortion. Archival footage brings history alive by documenting the actions of those who broke the silence and challenged the laws.

19 South Asians and Domestic Violence
(32 minutes)

Distributor: Sudha Prathikanti, M.D.
 Department of Psychiatry
 University of CA at San Francisco
 1001 Potrero Avenue, Suite 7M
 San Francisco, CA 94110

In the past 20 years, the battered women's movement in the U.S. has been successful in raising public awareness about domestic violence and in establishing a nationwide network of shelters for survivors. However, women of color, including South Asian women, continue to be significantly underrepresented at service agencies for battered women. Through interviews with Indo-American survivors of domestic violence as well as several staff members of a South Asian crisis line, this video elucidates some of the cultural factors that correlate with spousal abuse in the South Asian community. To provide culturally competent diagnosis and treatment, clinicians must take into account the following issues that are salient for South Asian women: arranged marriage as a permanent alliance of families; protecting the family/cultural group from outsiders; saving the family from shame within the cultural group; importance of social/familial duties and responsibilities over individual rights; religious/spiritual paradigms (e.g., law of karma); and severe social stigma attached to divorce.

Discussant: Sudha Prathikanti, M.D.

20 Rape by Any Name
(60 minutes)

Distributor: Fanlight Productions
 47 Halifax Street
 Boston, MA 02130

A woman is raped every six minutes in the United States. Acquaintance rape constitutes more than 60 percent of all rapes, yet it is rarely reported and difficult to prosecute. Rape by Any Name, a powerful documentary, explores this complex issue. Weaving the stories of three acquaintance rape survivors with the views, attitudes, biases and understandings of experts and professionals, as well as with those of ordinary people, it exposes a number of underlying beliefs that heighten the divisiveness surrounding acquaintance rape. Also included is a very effectively staged mock trial based on a real case of acquaintance rape. The discussions in this video raise hard questions about how different elements of our society play into the problem: male and female socialization, inadequate legal recognition, and assumptions about the victim's culpability.

MULTI-CULTURALISM

Chp.: Nina K. Auerbach, M.D.

21 Round Eyes in the Middle Kingdom
(52 minutes)

Distributor: Films Transit
 402 East Notre Dame
 Montreal, PQ, Canada H2Y 1C8

Round Eyes in the Middle Kingdom is a documentary that tells the story of the Caucasian residents of China from the 1930s to the present. It follows a family of Westerners who fled China as the revolution spread in 1949, but focuses on one Caucasian man who stayed: a Russian Jew who joined Mao's revolution and decided to become a Chinese citizen. Why Israel Epstein joined the communist revolution that forced most foreigners to flee, why he remained in China after five years of solitary confinement in the 1970s, and what his life is like today as China's leading foreign journalist are central questions this film answers. As a personal documentary, Round Eyes is narrated by a filmmaker who was born in China but taken to America at age 10. Compelled to understand the motives of a man who was his father's closest friend, he returns 45 years later to discover Epstein's fate, to make his film, and to reconcile his own comfortable, colonial childhood with the famines and suffering that led to the Chinese revolution in the first place.

22 Suzanne Bonnar: The Blacksburg Connection
(29 minutes)

Distributor Filmmakers Library
for 22 & 23: 124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

Suzanne Bonnar was the first black baby to be born in a small seaside town on the west coast of Scotland. Her mother lived near an American military base and fell in love with Suzanne's father, an African-American serviceman. She was brought up in an all-white community, and had not seen her father since she was two years old. Twenty-six years later, longing to meet her father, she contracted with an organization that specializes in uniting families of servicemen. Her unique and moving voyage of discovery began in a railroad station in London where, for the first time as an adult, she met her father. Together with her father she journeyed to South Carolina to meet her extended family, including three half brothers she never knew existed. Suzanne felt immediately at home with her black family as they welcomed her into their lives. In Scotland she was known as a blues singer with a powerful, vibrant voice. Now, in a stirring scene, we see her singing in a Southern church with all the fervor that spiritual music inspires.

23 None of the Above
(23 minutes)

None of the Above is a documentary about people of mixed racial heritage based on the filmmaker's own search for identity and community. Erika Surat Andersen, whose mother is (Asian) Indian and father is Danish-American, explores her "own personal hang-up" by finding others in the same ambiguous category. Through her journey into the multiracial world, we are given an inside view of the emotional reality of what it's like to be racially unclassifiable in a society obsessed with race. We meet Leslie, a young woman of Native-American, African and European ancestry; Curtiss, whose mother is Japanese and father is African-American; and Henrietta, whose family has been mixed for at least six generations and defies all categorization. The filmmaker's openness about her own experience makes this film emotionally compelling and particularly relevant in today's multicultural society.

The Neurobiology of Reading and Dyslexia

Chp.: Bonnie T. Zima, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Stephen J. Millman, M.D.

Why some very bright people should experience difficulties in learning to read, has long puzzled scientists. Sally E. Shaywitz, M.D., and Bennett A. Shaywitz, M.D., discuss conceptual and technological advances that have provided a model of reading and dyslexia and a tentative architecture for the functional organization of the brain for reading. A growing consensus implicates the linguistic system, in particular the phonologic component, as central to understanding reading and dyslexia. In this model, a circumscribed deficit in phonological processing impairs rapid word identification, while the higher-level cognitive and linguistic functions involved in comprehension are not affected. Initial studies using functional MRI indicate that phonological processing is generally highly lateralized in males and represented bilaterally in females, and that brain activation patterns predict particular reading strategies. Sally E. Shaywitz, M.D., is Co-Director of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development at the Yale Center for the Study of Learning and Attention. She is also Professor of Pediatrics at the Yale University School of Medicine. A member of the editorial boards of the Journal of Learning Disabilities and Learning Disabilities Quarterly, Dr. Shaywitz is the author of several scientific papers and book chapters and the coauthor with Bennett A. Shaywitz, M.D., of Attention Deficit Disorder Comes of Age: Towards the 21st Century. She received her medical degree and completed a residency in pediatrics and a postdoctoral fellowship in developmental and behavioral pediatrics at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. Bennett A. Shaywitz, M.D., is Professor of Pediatrics and Neurology and Director of Pediatric Neurology at the Yale University School of Medicine. He is also Co-Director of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development at the Yale Center for the Study of Learning and Attention. The author of more than 240 scientific publications, Dr. Shaywitz is a member of the Editorial Boards of Learning Disabilities Quarterly and Child Neuropsychology. He graduated from the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis and completed his pediatric training and a postdoctoral fellowship in child neurology at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

Urban Mental Health Care: Challenges and Opportunities

Chp.: Melvin Sabshin, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Lesly T. Mega, M.D.

In less than 30 years more than 80 percent of the world's population will be living in cities, many in Third World countries. The health problems of these cities are likely to be similar to those seen in any megalopolis in developing countries today, including the breakdown of communal services, the consequences of violent behavior and diseases of the homeless. Norman Sartorius, M.D., reviews trends in the health of urban populations and discusses the role of psychiatrists and other mental health workers in developing strategies for improving health in cities. Dr. Sartorius is a Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Geneva and holds professorial appointments at the Universities of Prague and Zagreb and at several other universities in Europe, the U.S.A. and China. He was with the World Health Organization from 1967 to 1993, where he was principal investigator for several major international studies on schizophrenia, depression and health service delivery, and he served as Director of the Division of Mental Health from 1977 to 1993. In June 1993 Dr. Sartorius was nominated President-Elect of the World

Psychiatric Association and became President in August 1996. Dr. Sartorius has published more than 250 articles in scientific journals, co-authored several books and edited a number of others. He received his medical degree in Zagreb (Croatia), specialized in neurology and psychiatry and subsequently obtained a doctorate in psychology.

Targeting Aggressive and Addictive Behavior Using Serotonin Receptor Knockout Mice

Chp.: Susan A. Van Meter, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Jay A. Gingrich, M.D.

Disorders of impulse control have been associated with deficits in the central serotonin system. René Hen, Ph.D., discusses recent studies using mutant mice that lack individual serotonin receptor subtypes to investigate which of the 15 known serotonin receptors might be involved in impulse control. Compared with mice that have 5-HT_{1B} receptors, mutant mice that lack those receptors are more active when placed in a novel environment, are more aggressive against intruders, acquire cocaine self-administration faster, consume more alcohol and respond faster in an operant learning test, all characteristics that point toward increased impulsiveness. Current research is examining the possibility that mutations in the 5-HT_{1B} gene might underlie conditions such as childhood hyperactivity, susceptibility to abuse of drugs and impulsive violence. Dr. Hen is Associate Professor at the Columbia University Center for Neurology and Behavior in New York City and a member of the National Institute on Drug Abuse study section. He has been awarded the Howard Hughes Fellowship and the Bristol-Myers Squibb Neuroscience Award. He received his doctorate in molecular biology from Université Louis Pasteur in Strasbourg, France.

THE STRUGGLE WITH SERIOUS MENTAL ILLNESS

Chp.: David W. Preven, M.D.

24 Out of My Mind

(27 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

Out of My Mind is an intimate portrait of 23-year-old John Cadigan, the film maker's brother who became seriously mentally ill while he was an art student at college. Soon after his first psychotic break, John asked his sister, the filmmaker and his primary caretaker, to document his story. Filmed over three years, the siblings narrate the story of painful deterioration despite various therapies. Rarely has the family experience with the early stages of schizophrenia been articulated so clearly. John's acute self-awareness and his intense art work make him the ideal subject. He describes what it is like to be labeled psychotic, to become catatonic, and to feel like part of your mind is working against you. Day to day, John struggles with a steady stream of paranoid and violent thoughts. John continues to battle his illness, which has now been diagnosed as Schizoaffective Disorder. Obtaining an accurate diagnosis, medical benefits and housing were part of the arduous process of searching for help. Despite multiple hospitalizations he tries to lead as normal a life as possible, relying on the love and support of his family.

25 Back from Madness: The Struggle for Sanity

(54 minutes)

Distributor: Films for Humanities & Science
P.O. Box 2053
Princeton, NJ 08543

Back from Madness provides a view of the world of insanity that few ever see, a world that is not traditionally dealt with in television. It is a chronicle of four psychiatric patients and contextualizes their present-day treatments with footage gathered from the archives of the American Psychiatric Association and the Netherlands Institute for Mental Health. The film follows each individual for one to two years, from the time they arrive at Harvard's Massachusetts General Hospital and the affiliated Erich Lindemann Mental Health Center. On one level, it's a film about psychiatric treatment at a great medical center. On another level, it's about the patients and the inner strength that is required of them as they search for some relief from their insanity. This film was made to provide an accurate document of psychiatric treatments and to depict the plight of patients in clear, albeit sometimes painful, detail. It suggests that severe mental illnesses like schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, OCD and severe unipolar depression are due, in large measure, to a biological dysregulation of the brain. The film also documents the great struggle faced by patients, their families and their doctors. This struggle is most difficult in light of the lack of clear-cut remedies, the social stigma and blame associated with the illnesses and the diminishing resources available for the mentally ill.

JAZZ OVER LUNCH

Co-Chps.: Edward K. Rynearson, M.D., Edmond S. Klausner, M.D.

26 Jazz Masters Vintage Getz, Volume 2 (52 minutes)

"The Lush Life--Jazz and Addiction. Stan Getz." For so many years Stan Getz was at the top of the jazz polls for his tenor saxophone playing, yet was abusing alcohol and narcotics almost continuously. How could he be so drugged and inebriated and out of control one day, and then go on to preform a series of beautiful, balanced and creative masterpieces the next? This question, as well as the music itself, will be discussed after viewing a video (1983) of Stan Getz playing standard jazz and bossa nova pieces for which he was renowned. The quartet includes Victor Lewis (drums), Marc Johnson (bass), and Jim McNeely (piano).

Discussant: Edward K. Rynearson, M.D.

27 Joe Pass in Concert (40 minutes)

Distributor: Stefan Grossman's Guitar Workshop, Inc.
P.O. Box 802
Sparta, NJ 07871

Joe Pass (1929-1994) was called "The Art Tatum" of the guitar for his dazzling combination of virtuosity and harmonic invention. It was only during the last 15 to 20 years of his career that his genius was recognized as an acoustic guitarist. His uniqueness can be best appreciated when he plays by himself — when you can witness his blazing technique and delight in the multiplicity of his themes and counterpoint. His solo performance sounds like a blending of an entire trio or quartet. This recording presents an uninterrupted solo concert in Europe where he is considered to be "American standards." You will recognize all of the tunes, but you will be surprised and delighted by what Joe Pass hears and conveys.

A Life in Moods

Chp.: Paula G. Panzer, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Tana A. Grady, M.D.

Kay Redfield Jamison, Ph.D., reviews the regrets and pleasures of living a life in moods, based on her 20 years of research, teaching and clinical practice in the field of mood disorders, as well as her more than 30 years of experience with manic-depressive illness in herself and in her family. She addresses the role of mood disorders and extreme mood states in the lives and works of writers and artists. She also describes the difficulties of functioning as a clinician and teacher while experiencing episodes of mania and severe depression, and she examines the consequences of having written and lectured about these issues in public settings. Dr. Jamison is Professor of Psychiatry at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. She is the author of Touched with Fire: Manic-Depressive Illness and the Artistic Temperament (1993) and coauthor of the standard medical text on manic-depressive illness. Her most recent book, An Unquiet Mind (1995), received the 1995-1996 Critics' Choice Award and was on The New York Times best-seller list for seven weeks. She is the recipient of the American Suicide Foundation Research Award, the Jan Fawcett Humanitarian Award from the National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Association, the Steven V. Logan Award for Research into Brain Disorders from the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the William Styron Award from the National Mental Health Association. She was a member of the first National Advisory Council for Human Genome Research and is now the Clinical Director for the Dana Consortium on the Genetic Basis of Manic-Depressive Illness. COMPUTER SOFTWARE DEMONSTRATION

Chp.: Michael B. First, M.D.

28 Bedside Clinical Databasing: Using the Hand-Held Pen Entry Computer

James J. Strain, M.D.

More effective methods of collecting, documenting and recording clinical data are required in today's medical/surgical setting. Notes need to have more pedagogic value and be more legible. A software package for a hand-held computer with pen-entry capacity which follows a protocol, has been developed for the psychiatric setting. This software system allows accurate documentation and mandates key variables that must be included, e.g., employment, education and previous illnesses, and it decreases data collection time by 75 percent. In addition, a legible, computer-generated medical record chart note is automatically printed. Letters to the referring physician, family and insurance carrier can be produced, as well as the patient record (on a diskette in a text file) for the patient at the close of the consultation. Pertinent literature selected from the database can augment the chart notes and serve as an additional pedagogic tool. This system has been field tested in 30 international sites and is available in Spanish.

29 GAF Report: Computer-Assisted GAF Assessment

Michael B. First, M.D.

The GAF Report is a Windows-based expert system that assists a clinician in making a rating on the Global Assessment of Functioning Scale (DSM-IV, Axis V). Its increasing importance in determining eligibility for, and level of care has made an accurate, well-documented GAF rating essential. The first step is to select the time frame (e.g., lower level last week, highest past year). The second step is to narrow the GAF to a specific 10-point range by presenting questions that follow the algorithmic logic of a decision-tree designed to make a rating using in the minimum number of questions. The answers to the questions continually set an upper limit to the GAF rating until the final 10-point range is determined. For each question, precise definitions of terms as well as illustrative examples are provided. The process concludes with the user selecting the final GAF rating according to provided guidelines. By making multiple ratings over time, the GAF Report is used as means of tracking a patient's clinical progress. The GAF Report documents each rating with a detailed report containing the clinical evidence supporting the rating as well as an explanation of why a lower rating was not justified.

30 Consultant for the Medical Treatment of Depression

David N. Osser, M.D.

This is an expert system for the medical treatment of depression. It is programmed in HTML language. The enclosed files require an Internet browser such as Netscape 2.0 or Microsoft Navigator in order to be viewed. This program is a virtual psychopharmacology consultant: it asks the consultee questions about a patient and then, when enough information is supplied, displays detailed recommendations. Most question screens have "help" sections with definitions, criteria, differential diagnosis, or related advice. "Comment" screens appear at crucial points with additional explanations. References are numerous and are found on each screen. The consultee can go back and change previous answers to explore what the program recommends for other situations. With the advantages of HTML, there are links to accessory information for the prescribing clinician including tables of drug costs, cytochrome enzyme interactions, dosing instructions for adequate trials of specific drugs, and suggested strategies for tapering off old medications and starting new ones. Users on the Internet can check to see when changes and additions to the algorithm have occurred, and click on links to see the changes immediately. They can send comments and critiques to the developers at any time. All instructions for use are on screen.

WOMEN'S ISSUES

Chp.: Nina K. Auerbach, M.D.

31 Rosa Parks: The Path to Freedom
 (20 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
 124 East 40th Street
 New York, NY 10016

It has been only 40 years since the fateful day that Mrs. Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on the bus, yet the chain of events that she set in motion has changed the world forever. In honor of this anniversary, Kingberry Productions (which produced The Freedom Train) has compiled a biography of this dynamic but quiet woman, whose demand for her civil rights led to the social changes of the 1960s. This documentary contains an overview of the events that took place in Montgomery, Alabama: Mrs. Parks' arrest, the bus boycott and the segregation laws that were finally overturned. It also tells the story of the Rosa Parks that few people know, the former seamstress whose life continues to be committed to social justice for all people.

32 Fiction and Other Truths: A Film About Jane Rule
 (60 minutes)

Distributor: Cinema Guild, Inc.
 1697 Broadway, Suite 506
 New York, NY 10019-5904

This film profiles the life and work of novelist, essayist, teacher and political activist Jane Rule. Blending interviews with archival footage and dramatic evocations of Rule's writings, the documentary examines the author's lifelong interest in the intricacies and complexities of human relationships and communities, her continuing involvement in the struggle against censorship, and her conviction that we must all be able to live and love truthfully. The film traces Rule's formative years in the U.S., her move to Canada during the McCarthy era with her lifelong companion Helen Sonthoff, the sensational impact of the 1964 publication of her first (and openly lesbian) novel, The Desert of the Heart, (filmed 20 years later as Desert Hearts), her outspoken defense of The Body Politic newspaper throughout its many years of legal harassment, and her important contributions to the public debate about sexuality and representation. In recounting Rule's four decades of creative writing and political activism, the film allows us to share the evolution of her art and thought and the development of sexual, political and ethical principles that are necessary for any compassionate and enlightened society.

33 Out for a Change: Addressing Homophobia in Women's Sports
 (28 minutes)

Distributor: University of California Extension
 Center for Media and Independent Learning
 2000 Center Street, 4th Floor
 Berkeley, CA 94704

Produced by Dee Mosbacher, this important documentary explores the devastating emotional impact homophobia has on all female athletes, regardless of their sexual orientation. It features interviews with college athletes, coaches, students and administrators; NCAA officials; and prominent professional athletes including Martina Navratilova and Zina Garrison-Jackson. The video shows how fears of being labeled a lesbian or a "dyke" prevent many young women from even participating in athletics. It also demonstrates that homophobia is a political tool used to retain male control over the multibillion-dollar women's sports industry

34 Old Bags' Club
 (24 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
 124 East 40th Street
 New York, NY 10016

A middle-age woman abandoned by her husband for someone younger often has the sense that her future has been stolen from her. After long years of marriage, the prospect of being alone can be terrifying. When Sally Moon, an English aristocrat, discovered that her husband was flagrantly cheating with a much younger woman, her first reaction was to take spectacular revenge. Her mischief made local headlines. Then she founded the Old Bags' Club for the legions of women worldwide, like herself, on the slow path back to self-esteem. Wary of male companionship, many have rediscovered the kinship they felt with other women before their marriage. These women share a determination not to be victims no matter how tough things get. Old Bags' Club is an inspiring and sometimes humorous look at women who share a common marital disaster.

35 Depression and Manic Depression
 (28 minutes)

Distributor: Fanlight Productions
 47 Halifax Street
 Boston, MA 02130

Depression affects over 17 million Americans each year, but it has been estimated that only one-third of them get any treatment, largely because of stigma and fear. That lack of treatment results in a high number of suicides, making this illness as fatal as any other illness and a serious epidemic. This program explains the disease through the experiences of several people, including CBS reporter Mike Wallace; Dr. Kay Redfield Jamison, psychiatrist and author of a book on her life with manic-depressive illness; artist Lama Dejeni; and State Department official Robert Boorstin. An overview of medications and therapy and a list of resources are also provided.

36 Beyond Stigma
 (50 minutes)

Distributor: Christian Hageseth III, M.D.
 1113 Stoney Hill Road
 Fort Collins, CO 80525-1275

ECT's effectiveness has been documented in psychiatric literature, yet the treatment is underutilized. Often its life-saving potential is not made available to patients because of the adverse stigma associated with the procedure. Beyond Stigma follows a patient and her family through ECT treatment. Her family is present throughout, including during the procedure itself. The patient and her family concur regarding the effectiveness of ECT and comment how this setting has made it more psychologically positive and less stigmatizing. This video concludes that it is a simple matter for treating psychiatrists to undertake physical and structural changes in the treatment setting. It demonstrates the benefits and ease of family involvement. These changes argue forcefully for extinguishing the stigma that has plagued ECT for 40 years. These concepts should open a new epoch in which the providers of ECT are viewed as merciful, kind and caring professionals who sacrifice neither skill nor adherence to ethical standards.

37 Harbor of Hope
 (37 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.
 5 Powderhouse Lane
 Sherborn, MA 01770

Narrated by Susan Sarandon, Harbor of Hope is a film that explores the essential role hope plays in healing. A young mother who was struggling with a devastating and progressive disease, reached out to others who were living with AIDS, cancer and MS to find some sense of hope and understanding. This video follows her journey into the darkest of places, as well as to the discovery of one's belief system and the power of healing one's own body. Now two years later, this same mother has stopped the progression of the disease and continues to heal.

FILM CLIPS FROM HOLLYWOOD

Chp.: Glen O. Gabbard, M.D.

39 Psychotherapy in the Hollywood Cinema

(35 minutes)

Distributor: The Menninger Clinic
P.O. Box 829
Topeka, KS 66601-0829

In this session, a number of film clips will be shown that illustrate the way Hollywood movies have portrayed the psychotherapy process. These films range from the 1930s to the 1990s. The portrayals rarely match what psychiatrists know to be a typical psychotherapy session. Screenwriters and directors have constantly struggled with ways to make psychotherapy more entertaining and more cinematic. The results are often hilarious, but also may be confusing to the public.

MEDIA SESSION 20

7:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.

Columbia Room, Lobby Level, Marriott

SOCIAL DYNAMICS

Chp.: Roy G. Fitzgerald, M.D.

40 South Central Los Angeles: Inside Voices

(46 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

This is a powerful documentary that honestly and directly exposes issues of prejudice, racism and class as they effect multicultural communities. Filmed by people living and working in the areas affected by the L.A. riots, it is a vivid portrayal of the complex urban tapestry where violence and hope live side by side. This videotape has been broadcast all over the world to critical acclaim. Activist filmmaker Maxi Cohen decided the weapon of choice among the protagonists should be a video camera with which to film their lives. Their honest voices and strong images bring out issues of race and class with compassion.

41 Frantz Fanon: Black Skin, White Mask

(50 minutes)

Distributor: California Newsreel
149 9th Street, Suite 506
San Francisco, CA 94103

Frantz Fanon: Black Skin, White Mask explores, for the first time on film, one of the most influential theorists of the 20th century's anti-colonial movements. Fanon's two major works, Black Skin, White Mask and The Wretched of the Earth, were pioneering studies of the psychological impact of racism on both the colonized and colonizer. Jean-Paul Sartre hailed Fanon as the figure "through whose voice the Third World finds and speaks to itself." This innovative film biography restores Fanon to his rightful place at the center of contemporary discussion around post-colonial identity. Frantz Fanon (1925-1961) was born in Martinique into a lower-middle-class family of mixed-race ancestry and received a conventional colonial education. When he went to France to fight in the Resistance and receive his psychiatric training, Fanon's assimilationist illusions were destroyed by the specter of racism. The European intellectual tradition, he recalls, "had at first been a liberation returning me to a likeness I thought I had lost. By taking me out of the world, it returned me to it. But at the point I began to rise, I stumbled. The Other, with gestures and looks, fixed me in my place."

9:00 a.m.-10:30 a.m.
Room 6D, Upper Level, Convention Center

Steven M. Mirin, M.D.

Mental Health Care in the Next Millennium:
 What Does the Future Hold?

Chp.: Alan M. Elkins, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Lisa B. Dixon, M.D.

Growing pressure to reduce the cost and manage the delivery of mental health care has fostered the spread of managed care and has led to capitulated reimbursement and development of integrated delivery systems. Reconfiguration of the mental health care delivery system is also shaping estimates of the future need for psychiatrists and placing federal support for psychiatric training in jeopardy. Steven M. Mirin, M.D., the Medical Director designate of the American Psychiatric Association, discusses key initiatives that organized psychiatry can pursue to confront these trends. Dr. Mirin is currently President and Psychiatrist-in-Chief at McLean Hospital in Belmont, Massachusetts, and Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School. He also maintains a clinical practice focusing on the psychotherapeutic and pharmacologic treatment of patients with severe or persistent mental illness. He has served on the APA's Assembly, Board of Trustees and numerous task forces and committees, including the work group that developed the Practice Guideline for the Treatment of Patients with Substance Use Disorders, which he chaired. He is also Chair-Elect of the Governing Council of the Section for Psychiatric and Substance Abuse Services of the American Hospital Association. Well known for his research on the biological and psychosocial aspects of substance use disorder, Dr. Mirin is the author of approximately 130 professional papers and the author or editor of seven books. He received his medical degree from the State University of New York, Upstate Medical Center, in Syracuse, and completed his psychiatric residency at Boston University Medical Center.

NEW PERSPECTIVES ON MENTAL ILLNESS

Chp.: Elmore F. Rigamer, M.D.

43 The Physical Causes of Mental Illness
 (17 minutes)

Distributor: Mr. Gene Souter
 NIMH
 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 789
 Rockville, MD 20857

Introduced by NIMH Acting Director Rex Cowdry, M.D., this videotape offers a glimpse into the exciting NIMH-supported research bringing new hope to the one in ten sufferers of mental illness in America. Abnormalities in the brain can now be seen. Stunning animations of brain circuits thought to be involved in mental illnesses like schizophrenia and obsessive-compulsive disorders show that these disorders have physical causes.

44 Out of the Shadows and into the Light: From Stigma to Unity
 (29 minutes)

Distributor: NY AMI
 260 Washington Avenue
 Albany, NY 12210

This videotape reaches out to minorities and families of all people with mental illness, seeking to bring mental illness into the light of reason. Effective coping skills are discussed, stressing the importance of support groups and the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

45 Families Coping with Mental Illness
 (22 minutes)

Distributor: Mental Illness Education Project Videos
 22-D Hollywood Avenue
 Hohokus, NJ 07423

This videotape shows people talking about their experiences with the mental illness of family members. It conveys, as no textbook can, their struggles and their wisdom. One theme is the profound importance of respectful, informative and sensitive professional response, and it's too frequent absence. Professionals in training should see this tape. It is a powerful learning tool, particularly for social workers and others attempting to help families cope with mental illness. Many professionals, unfamiliar with what families experience, want more guidance in their relationships with families of their patients. Students in a variety of health professions will find the insights eye-opening.

46 A Brush with Life
 (52 minutes)

Distributor: First Run/Icarus
 47 Halifax Street
 Boston, MA 02130

A Brush with Life is a compelling and powerful portrait of Diane, a gifted artist struggling to free herself from mental illness through her art. The film, codirected by Martin Duckworth and Glen Salzman, was shot over two years at Montreal's largest psychiatric hospital, where an innovative art therapy studio was established for a small number of patients. For Diane, the studio was a door leading out of hell. The year she spent there dramatically changed her life. Diane discovered a way to liberate her inner-self and to deal with multiple personality disorder brought on by a childhood of abuse. The ebb and flow of Diane's struggle invites the viewer to question his or her own insight into the delicate balance of the human condition. With haunting images and empathy, A Brush with Life is a moving portrait of an exceptional individual's search for well-being.

THE HUMANIZATION OF ILLNESS, DISABILITY AND WANTING TO DIE

47 The Ten Commandments of Communicating with People with Disabilities
 (26 minutes)

Distributor: Excellence in Training Corporation
 11358 Aurora Avenue
 Des Moines, IA 50322-7979

The key message of this videotape is to "lighten up" when communicating with people with disabilities. Even though the narrator has cerebral palsy, the video uses humor appropriately. By using him as host, the message is clearly conveyed that we can competently interact with people with disabilities just as we learn to interact with anyone. The humor extends to showing the video outtakes at the end and continues the learning point by showing persons with disabilities behaving in the same way anyone else would when recognizing bloopers. The 10 tips/commandments are: 1) speak directly to the person rather than through a companion or interpreter; 2) always offer to shake hands when introduced; 3) always identify yourself and others who may be with you when you are with someone who is blind; 4) if you offer assistance, wait until the offer is accepted and you receive instructions from the person; 5) treat adults as adults; 6) do not hang or lean against someone's wheelchair or cart or distract a working animal; 7) listen attentively when talking with people who have difficulty speaking. Don't pretend to understand; 8) place yourself at eye level when speaking with someone in a wheelchair; 9) tap a person who is deaf on the shoulder or wave your hands to get their attention; and 10) don't be embarrassed if you use a common expression that may relate to a person's disability, such as "I see."

48 Funny, You Don't Look Sick
(64 minutes)

Distributor: Cinema Guild, Inc.
1697 Broadway, Suite 506
New York, NY 10019-5904

An intimate documentary self-portrait, told with humor and compassion, of Susan Abod, a young woman living with chronic fatigue immune dysfunction syndrome (CFIDS) and multiple chemical sensitivities (MCS), or environmental illness. Susan describes in detail, the nature of her illness (often disparagingly referred to as the "yuppie flu"), illustrates her daily routine, and gives us a guided tour of her environmentally "safe" apartment. Comments from Susan's numerous doctors and a visit with her CFIDS support group offer further insights in this illuminating, first-hand report on a baffling, late 20th century disease.

49 Who Owns My Life? The Sue Rodriguez Story
(47 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

This moving documentary has generated widespread public debate over the bioethical issue of doctor-assisted suicide, illegal in North America. It follows Sue Rodriguez, an attractive young mother, in her battle with, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS). This disease was destroying her nervous system, causing her pain, and would ultimately lead to death by suffocation. This death, in her own words, was a "gruesome and unfair way to go." She made up her mind that when things became intolerable, she would commit suicide. In Canada suicide is legal. However, Sue knew she would lose the physical ability to end her life as she became increasingly handicapped. With the support of the Right to Die Society, she and her lawyer mounted a legal challenge that quickly made her a symbol of the right to die cause. This documentary goes behind the scenes to portray a gracious, yet determined, woman who allowed her personal pain to become public. Her case was debated and appealed before the Supreme Court of Canada. Although the plea lost by a narrow margin of 5 to 4, Sue had the satisfaction of putting the issue of how and when and who controls the way we die on the public agenda. In 1994, Sue had a peaceful, although illegal, doctor-assisted death.

Louis Jolyon West, M.D.

Psychiatric Reflections on the Right to Die

Chp.: Jeremy A. Lazarus, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Tia P. Powell, M.D.

The debate about "the right to die" has important implications for psychiatry. Scenarios for physician-assisted suicide, such as the Dutch model, require that the patient being assisted must not be depressed. If a psychiatrist finds that the patient is depressed, should the psychiatrist cure the depression so that the patient can be put to death? The model also requires that the patient must be suffering from a terminal illness that causes great pain or disability, a condition in which some depression could be expected. Would such depression affect the decision about assisted suicide? Louis Jolyon West, M.D., examines these and other psychiatric considerations in debates about refusal of vital medical care, termination of life-sustaining medical care, euthanasia and assisted suicide. Dr. West is Professor of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences at the School of Medicine of the University of California, Los Angeles. He is the author or editor of eight books and more than 180 articles. A Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr. West has been a member of the APA Board of Trustees and Chairperson of the Council on Research. His long list of awards includes the APA's Seymour D. Vestermark Award for his contributions to medical and psychiatric education and the Leo J. Ryan Award of the Cult Awareness Network. Dr. West was educated at the Universities of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota and completed his residency in psychiatry at Cornell University Medical Center in New York City.

APA'S ADOLF MEYER AWARD LECTURE

Professor Robin M. Murray, M.B.

The Developmental and Physiological Basis of Schizophrenic Symptoms

Chp.: Richard Balon, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Eugene J. Schneider, M.D.

Early-onset schizophrenia appears to originate in neurodevelopmental impairment that may result from genetic defects or early environmental hazards such as perinatal hypoxia and prenatal exposure to viral infections. Children who later develop schizophrenia may show delayed developmental milestones, low I.Q., poor peer relations and minor psychomotor and language problems. However, whether these abnormalities are an intrinsic part of the development of schizophrenia or risk factors for it, is not yet clear. Professor Robin M. Murray, M.B., discusses recent functional imaging studies suggesting that auditory hallucinations result from the patient's mislabelling his or her own "inner speech" as external voices, an interesting problem for children who had difficulty acquiring language skills. Dr. Murray is Professor of Psychological Medicine and Head of the Joint Department of Psychological Medicine at the Institute of Psychiatry and King's College School of Medicine and Dentistry in London. A Past President of the Association of European Psychiatrists, Dr. Murray was awarded both the Clinical and Research Medals of the Royal College of Psychiatrists, the Royal Society Senior Research Fellowship and the Kurt Schneider Prize for Schizophrenia Research. He received his medical degree from the University of Glasgow, Scotland, and trained in psychiatry at the Institute of Psychiatry and Maudsley Hospital in London.

Marvin J. Miller, M.D.

The Internet provides for easy distribution of mental health software in addition to the more widely known features of providing discussion groups, professional journals, literature searches, consumer education, advertising and education for professionals. Powerful search engines allow rapid location of software around the world on the World-Wide Web. Many of the Internet access services provide a browser so that a clinician can travel throughout the Internet easily. Some free browsing services are available to clinicians through Physicians Online. After locating a piece of software with potential interest, it is a very rapid process to download this to the individual's own computer. The software then usually needs to be unpacked and set up. It then needs to be evaluated for suitability to intended tasks and for evidence of utility. After suitable evaluation the software can often provide a distinct additional dimension in the evaluation of a psychiatric patient. Many pieces of software have distinct clinical value and are not suitable for commercial marketing. This type of software can be shared easily across the Internet.

51 Touch of Evil
 (93 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.
 350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway
 Hauppauge, NY 11787

Touch of Evil, which Orson Welles directed and stars in along with Charlton Heston, is the smoky, sleazy and powerful story of a narcotics officer and his bride who fall under the spell of a corrupt and fascinating sheriff in a seedy Mexican-American border town. The conflicts of ethics and morality between the narcotics officer and the sheriff set the stage for a most perverse confrontation of good and evil, conscience and corruption: a labyrinthian journey into a nether world where the law is the criminal. The genius of Orson Welles is immediately apparent in the film's opening sequence, an uninterrupted, three-minute tracking shot that establishes the relationships of major characters, the perilous nature of the environment, and the incident that is the catalyst of the narrative. Touch of Evil is considered by many film historians to be the end piece of the film noir movement.

52 Adventures in the Gender Trade: A Case for Diversity
 (40 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
 124 East 40th Street
 New York, NY 10016

Kate Bornstein, writer and performer, was born a man. This documentary presents her frank account of her journey from unhappy boy into liberated transsexual lesbian. Interspersed with her satiric night club act, called "Hidden: A Gender," are the stories of a wide-range of people who refused to have their identity defined by whether they were born male or female. We are thus presented with a spectrum of colorful gender anomalies: drag queens, transsexuals, cross-dressers, and those who refuse to be categorized. They want the right to be not "male" or "female," but whatever they choose in between. Why, they ask, must we have a bipolar gender system, when some other cultures can accommodate diversity?

53 The Blank Point: What is Transsexualism?
 (60 minutes)

Distributor: Cinema Guild, Inc.
 1697 Broadway, Suite 506
 New York, NY 10019-5904

This program examines the widely misunderstood nature of transsexuals, people who psychologically identify with the opposite sex and undergo reassignment surgery, and offers meaningful insights into this rare condition. The program focuses on two male-to-female transsexuals and one female-to-male transsexual. The subjects candidly discuss their old identities, the transition to their new lives, and the scientific and psychological processes that enable them to change genders.

Management of HIV Infection for the Year 1997

Chp.: Robert S. Stasko, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Paula G. Panzer, M.D.

New technologies for measuring HIV in plasma and new antiretroviral therapies have dramatically changed the outlook for patients with HIV infection, making long-term survival a probability. J. Allen McCutchan, M.D., reviews recent developments in the understanding of the epidemiology, neurological and psychiatric manifestations, and management of HIV infection. He also discusses how treatment advances are affecting psychiatric care and research. Neurocognitive impairment and psychiatric morbidity and mortality among HIV-infected patients may become more prevalent as survival improves and barriers to effective treatment, such as noncompliance with medications, have emerged as important areas for psychiatric research. Dr. McCutchan is Professor in the Division of Infectious Diseases of the Department of Medicine at the University of California, San Diego, and Director of the California Collaborative Treatment Group, a consortium of four academic medical centers that study treatment of HIV infection and its complications. He serves on several committees of the AIDS Clinical Trials Group, funded by the National Institutes of Health, and directs the medical section of the NIH-funded HIV Neurobehavioral Research Center at UCSD. He is the author or coauthor of more than 160 research articles in peer-reviewed journals and 15 book chapters. Dr. McCutchan received his medical degree from Yale University School of Medicine and completed a Master of Science degree in epidemiology from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine of the University of London. He completed residencies in internal medicine at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine in Nashville and Yale-New Haven Hospital and was a research fellow in infectious diseases at UCSD.

Translating Schizophrenia Research into Patient Advantage

Chp.: Steven I. Alitchuler, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Lesly T. Mega, M.D.

Advances in schizophrenia research are occurring in all areas of its study, including diagnosis, genetics, in vivo imaging, drug treatments, psychosocial interventions and in the relevant basic neurosciences. Carol A. Tamminga, M.D., presents clinical and preclinical data from animal model studies and brain imaging studies that have identified areas of the brain related to psychosis and have shown abnormalities in regional cerebral blood flow in these areas among persons with schizophrenia. She also discusses the application of these findings to antipsychotic drug development, to localization of clinical symptoms in the central nervous system and to the potential for long-term rehabilitation. Dr. Tamminga is Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Maryland School of Medicine in Baltimore and Deputy Director and Chief of the Inpatient Program at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center. She has authored or coauthored nearly 200 scientific papers and is the editor of two books. She is a member the editorial boards of several journals, including the American Journal of Psychiatry and Schizophrenia Bulletin. Dr. Tamminga's numerous honors and awards include the Dean Award from the American College of Psychiatrists and the Established Investigator Award from the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression. Dr. Tamminga received her medical degree from Vanderbilt University School of Medicine and completed her residency in psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

Jonathan F. Borus, M.D.

The Three "Rs" of Psychiatric Education

Chp.: Jerald Kay, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Troy L. Thompson II, M.D.

The three "Rs" of psychiatric education must be rethought to increase their relevance for the 21st century. Jonathan F. Borus, M.D., suggests that reading, the prototypic method of gaining new knowledge, must be supplemented by active learning strategies, including supervised clinical encounters in diverse settings and use of computer databases and other technological learning tools. Writing, to communicate knowledge, must be joined by new faculty roles, including mentoring of trainees in how to convey ideas through teaching and publishing. The changing arithmetic of diminished financial rewards, fewer students entering psychiatry, and decreased funding for psychiatric education call for mobilization of psychiatrists and collaboration with non-psychiatric physicians to alert payers, insurers and health system administrators about the cost-effectiveness of integrated health and mental health care. Dr. Borus is Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, Psychiatrist-in-Chief at Brigham and Women's Hospital, and Senior Psychiatrist at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He is the co-developer of the Harvard Longwood Psychiatric Residency Program, which consolidated the residency training efforts of several Boston area health care organizations. Dr. Borus is a former president of the Association for Academic Psychiatry and has received the organization's Outstanding Psychiatric Educator Award. A graduate of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, Dr. Borus completed postgraduate training at Cook County Hospital and the University of Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute in Chicago and at the Associated Faculties Program in Community Psychiatry in Washington, D.C.

54 Psychiatry Residents' Use of the Internet Resources

Waguih W. Ishak, M.D., Tal Burt, M.D.

Psychiatry residents use Internet resources mainly for education and communication. There is a growing number of psychiatry-related sites on the World-Wide Web and a growing number of psychiatry residents using them. Computer skills will enable residents to keep updated with the latest advancements in the field, participate in discussions concerning new developments and patient care issues, and communicate with other colleagues around the country and around the world. These residents could become an integral part of the psychiatric political arena and join the health care debates at a time when their informed and educated opinion is most needed. Psychiatry resources on the Internet can be divided into five domains: text, e-mail, news groups, software and interactive resources. With the help of a computer that is directly connected on-line and a projector, the skills required for navigating the Internet will be taught and a number of resources exemplifying each of the above five domains will be explored in real time. Participants will have the opportunity to acquire skills, ask questions, and participate in a debate about the future role of computers in psychiatric education.

55 Anatomy of Desire (48 minutes)

Distributor: Cinema Guild, Inc.
 1697 Broadway, Suite 506
 New York, NY 10019-5904

What makes us gay? Straight? Bisexual? Is sexual orientation a lifestyle choice, as many insist? Or is scientist Simon LeVay correct when he argues that a part of the brain determines sexual orientation? These and other issues are examined in this provocative documentary on the long-standing debate, as well as science's history of attempting to define, control, and sometimes even eradicate, same-sex desire. Incisive interviews with leading historians, psychiatrists and writers are blended with rare archival footage to illuminate the growing debate on the origins of sexual orientation.

Gay Lives and Culture Wars is a thoughtful look at gay and lesbian youth and their relationships with their families, set against the harsh propaganda being delivered by the religious right. Combining interviews of grown children and their parents with footage tracing Oregon's anti-gay rights measures, the videotape illustrates the pain and tragedy that results from prejudice. By showing young people telling their personal stories about coming to terms with their sexual identity, the videotape refutes common myths and misinformation spread about the gay and lesbian community. This work also shows the range of difficulties experienced by parents of gay and lesbian youth as they learn to accept their children's sexual orientation. It stresses that the support of the family is crucial to the survival of gay and lesbian youth. This piece reaches out to people who don't know much about what it is like to be lesbian or gay and puts a human face on the stereotypes promoted out of ignorance and fear of the unknown.

57 Gay Cuba (57 minutes)

Distributor: Media Frameline
 346 Ninth Street
 San Francisco, CA 94103

Gay Cuba takes a candid look at one of Cuba's most controversial human rights issues: the treatment of gay and lesbian people in Cuba since the Cuban Revolution of 1959. This documentary from journalist and photographer Sonja de Vries takes the viewer through three decades of conflict and transformation, providing insight into Cuban culture and society rarely seen. With a dynamic cast of characters, including a radio show host, a union leader, a drag queen and a musician, Gay Cuba shows us the personal experiences of family, society and political institutions. Gay and lesbian Cubans tell their stories of police harassment and gay-positive psychologists, and give accounts of expulsion from political organizations and election to political leadership, while stunning archival footage provides a telling historical context.

This brilliant documentary explores eight months in the life of a broken family in Seattle and powerfully depicts the cycles that keep families tied to poverty and violence from one generation to the next. The film focuses on a young girl, Barbara, who lives with her mother, brother, and sister in homeless shelters and cheap motels. They spend their days stretching welfare checks and shuttling between shelters while they wait for public housing and a future that never seems to arrive. Barbara's mother recounts a childhood of abuse and violence and a period of imprisonment as an adult. As Barbara tells her story (trying to make sense of a legacy of domestic violence, poverty and abandonment), she emerges as the primary target of her own anger. At age 10, she's "tired of moving, tired of packing...tired of everything." She speaks dispassionately of being beaten by her father, of homelessness and the fears it engenders, and of her mother's prison time. Her eerie calm belies the dangers she faces, and it is clear that her home is only the latest in a long series of losses. Her resignation, her acceptance of the unacceptable, is heartbreaking. The film makes no pretense of providing easy answers, but it clearly shows through the eyes of one young girl, what the crucial questions are.

59 Troublesome Creek: A Midwestern
(88 minutes)

Distributor: West City Films, Inc.
153A Mt. Auburn Street
Cambridge, MA 02138

Jeanne Jordan and Steven Ascher's chronicle of a crisis on Jordan's family farm in southwest Iowa plays, in Jordan's words, "like a Reader's Digest condensed version of the farm crisis." Jordan's parents owe large amounts of money from their yearly operating loans and, despite years of business, have been labeled a "troubled" account by the new, corporate owners of the bank. The family makes the hard decision to auction their belongings in a gamble to pay off the bank and save the land. With a chatty, first-person narration, Jordan surrounds the auction at the center of the film with a patchwork of facts, personal details, corrections of misconceptions about modern farm life, colorful family anecdotes, and comparisons to Hollywood Westerns. Her moving evocation of her childhood and sympathetic depiction of her stoic, poker-faced father combine with exquisite images of the Iowa countryside's cornfields and stormy skies to give weight to the potential loss of a way of life that teeters on the brink of oblivion. Troublesome Creek skillfully balances the personal and the universal. It succeeds as both a vivid illustration that the economic realities behind the farm crisis are far from gone and a lovingly stitched memory quilt to protect against the cold.

SUICIDE THEMES IN ROCK MUSIC

Chp.: Keith Cheng, M.D.

Discussants: Laura A. Proud, B.A., Robert E. Litman, M.D., Cynthia R. Pfeffer, M.D.

This media presentation is composed of 18 songs with suicidal themes. Eight songs will be shown on videotape and 10 songs will be played on compact disc. Suicidal feelings are explicitly expressed in these rock music works, with the following common themes: 1) unrequited love or romance failure; 2) existential angst; 3) being a victim of abuse or neglect; 4) drug/alcohol abuse; 5) assisted suicide; 6) pathologic grief; 7) self-endangering behavior; and 8) antisuicide pleas. The first song in the collection is "Gloomy Sunday," from the jazz era. Billie Holiday's rendition is an example of a precursor to suicidal themes in rock music today. The remaining 17 songs which will be presented in chronological order, represent various rock music categories. They include works by Simon & Garfunkel, Elton John, The Police, Pink Floyd, Ozzy Osbourne, Suicidal

Tendencies, Depeche Mode, Megadeth, Metallica, Pearl Jam, 10,000 Maniacs, Nirvana, R.E.M., S.O.D., Pete Drogé, Self, and the Suicide Machines. There is a preponderance of heavy metal and alternative rock included in the program, as these two genres of rock music seem to be the most common preferences among suicidal youth.

Atlanta, GA 30348-5366

One researcher makes a conservative estimate that twenty percent of women and seven percent of men have been molested as children. How does this happen? Why is this happening and who are the culprits that are stealing the innocence, trust and security of our children? In this presentation, CNN's medical unit correspondent Rhonda Rowland looks for answers to these and other disturbing questions about this major public health epidemic, child molestation. In this in-depth documentary, Rowland speaks with experts, sex offenders and child victims. The program begins by looking into the background of a child molester. Is it a genetic defect or is it a learned behavior caused by some problem during his/her childhood? Rowland searches for answers to why adults molest children. The program concludes with a look at intervention, prevention and social responsibility. Rowland delves into ways experts are attempting to stop child molestation. What actions can be taken for intervention and prevention and how much responsibility society bears for not stopping this epidemic are issues that she also explores.

Stuart B. Silver, M.D.

Psychiatrist as Director in the Public Mental Health System

Chp.: William H. Reid, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Philip E. Veenhuis, M.D.

Psychiatry as a discipline permeates public mental health, but the position of state mental health program director is often filled by a non-psychiatrist. Stuart B. Silver, M.D., who has been Director of the Maryland Mental Hygiene Administration since 1988, discusses the advantages of having psychiatrists in leadership roles in public mental health. Psychiatrists have experience listening and interpreting, are aware of the links between mental and physiological processes and can rapidly assess enormous amounts of data to make decisions that have far-reaching effects. In the competitive market place, however, psychiatrists must earn the opportunity to use these skills in leadership positions. In addition to being Maryland Mental Hygiene Director, Dr. Silver is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Maryland School of Medicine and Instructor in Psychiatry at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. He is also in private practice in Towson, Maryland. Dr. Silver is the current President of the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors. He has received the Distinguished Service Award from the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Maryland and the President's Award from On Our Own of Maryland. He is the author of several articles and book chapters on forensic psychiatry and has made numerous presentations to professional and community audiences. A graduate of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Dr. Silver trained in surgery at Baltimore City Hospitals and completed his psychiatric residency at the Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Recurrent Unipolar Major Depression Is a Lifelong Illness That Requires Lifelong Treatment: Yes, No, Maybe and If Only There Were One More Study

Martin B. Keller, M.D.

Chp.: Marvin I. Herz, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Andrew J. Cutler, M.D.

In the past 15 years scientific understanding of the long-term course and treatment of recurrent unipolar major depression has changed dramatically. In the mid-1980s the dominant teaching was to treat most patients with antidepressant medication for four to six months after recovery from an episode of depression, then taper them off medication. Today the prevailing belief is that most should be treated with a regimen of maintenance antidepressant pharmacotherapy, with or without adjunctive psychotherapy, for a minimum of three to five years or for the remainder of their lives. Martin B. Keller, M.D., critically evaluates the research findings which are the basis for recommending long-term treatment for recurrent unipolar major depression and suggests directions for further research to resolve unanswered questions, including why depression remains such a vastly under-treated illness. Dr. Keller is the Mary E. Zucker Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Human Behavior at Brown University School of Medicine and Executive Psychiatrist-in-Chief at the eight Brown University-affiliated hospitals. The author of more than 185 articles published in peer-reviewed journals, Dr. Keller is coeditor of the International Journal of Clinical Psychopharmacology and a member of the Editorial Boards of the Journal of Clinical Psychiatry and Acta Psychiatrica Scandinavica. He is also Chairman of the Scientific Advisory Board of the National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Association. Dr. Keller received his medical degree from Cornell University and completed his residency in psychiatry at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

MEDIA SESSION 33 9:00 a.m.-12 noon

Room 8, Upper Level, Convention Center

WEST MEETS EAST

Chp.: Gopalakrishna K. Upadhyya, M.D.

62 Pather Panchali
(115 minutes)

Distributor: New Yorker Films
16 West 61st Street
New York, NY 10023

Satyajit Ray is by far India's greatest filmmaker and, with Renoir and De Sica, one of the supreme masters of humanist cinema. The hallmarks of Ray's style are simplicity and subtlety. Made with extraordinary clarity, his films can be enjoyed by working-class audiences in his native Bengal, yet on closer examination reveal inexhaustible layers of psychological insight and evocative symbolism. His naturalistic, understated approach was unprecedented in an Indian cinema based on theatrical bombast. No director has displayed a comparable genius for quiet moments, those charged stillnesses that reveal infinitely more than any amount of melodramatic sound and fury. Ray achieved a synthesis that integrates Western concepts of realism and psychology into an Eastern framework of dualism and spirituality, enabling him to make films both essentially Indian and broadly universal. Pather Panchali, Ray's first film, was voted one of the ten greatest films of all time in the 1992 Sight and Sound poll. This dense mosaic of village life introduces Apu's dreamy father; fretful mother; and tempestuous older sister; with the child Apu, a wide-eyed observer. Beautifully balancing the prosaic and poetic, it depicts harsh poverty and childhood raptures with unsentimental compassion.

ARTS AND HUMANITIES

Chp.: Elmore F. Rigamer, M.D.

63 The Art of Being Human: A Portrait of Frederick Franck
(28 minutes)

Distributor: Bullfrog Films
P.O. Box 149
Oley, PA 19547

This is an inspirational portrait of the artist Frederick Franck, author of The Zen of Seeing. Born on the border of Holland and Belgium, where both World Wars began, Franck has seen first hand the horrors of modern warfare. Now living in upstate New York, his life's work—through painting, sculpture and books—has been to help people see the humanity in others, so that they will not be able to tolerate or be involved in violence towards others. It's a message with particular significance in the wake of Bosnia, Rwanda and Oklahoma City.

64 Tibor Jankay: The Art of Survival
(43 minutes)

Distributor: Tell-Tale Productions
Attn: Harlan Steinberger
P.O. Box 101
Topanga, CA 90290-0101

This charming film documents the life of a 94-year-old Hungarian-born artist who used his artistic skills to survive the Holocaust. In one instance, Tibor escaped death using a sculptor's chisel to dig a hole in the bottom of a train bound for Auschwitz. Although he suffered during the war years, when the war was over he was ready to start a new life in a new country. His irrepressible nature drew him towards Venice, California, where he painted exuberant images of love and beauty. Among the threads running through Tibor's life as a widower, he found new friendships among young artists, inspiring them with his incredible survival stories and philosophy of forgiveness.

65 African-American Artists: Affirmation Today
(28 minutes)

Distributor: Crystal Productions
Attn: Amy Woodworth
P.O. Box 2159
Glenview, IL 60025

This program investigates the historical influence and continuing significance of African-American art and culture and the ways in which five contemporary artists have tapped the spiritual and social underpinnings of black American life. This video features Lois Mailou Jones, Fred Brown, Keith Morrison, Sam Gilliam and Leroy Almon speaking on camera about their work and their early decisions to become artists. A 40-page study guide relates key works of art from the National Museum of American Art's African-American collection to themes in history and social studies and to literature written by African Americans. A 208-page reference book, Free Within Ourselves, highlights 31 artists and their work represented in the museum's collections. Twenty slides provide visuals for reference and reinforcement of information learned.

HOLLYWOOD'S PORTRAYAL OF GAYS IN FILM: COVERING SIX DECADES

Chp.: Dan H. Karasic, M.D.

66 Celluloid Closet
(102 minutes)

Distributor: New Yorker Films
16 West 61st Street
New York, NY 10023

Based on Vito Russo's pioneering history and directed by the team responsible for the Oscar-winning documentaries The Times of Harvey Milk and Common Threads. The Celluloid Closet is a sexy, funny, infuriating and instructive overview of one hundred years of largely inadequate depictions of homosexuals in Hollywood movies. Clips from 120 films are lucidly and wittily presented, covering not just the obvious highlights but also rarities and eyebrow-raising second looks. They are accompanied by sometimes sardonic and often movingly personal commentary from sympathetic Hollywood insiders (such as Whoopi Goldberg, Tom Hanks, Susan Sarandon) and skeptical gay spectators (including Susie Bright, Quentin Crisp, Harvey Fierstein), the latter group reliving both the sting of insulting stereotypes and the hunger with which crumbs of self-recognition were appropriated and consumed. The survey covers the "sissy" stereotypes of the 1930s (as well as the still provocative androgyny of Marlene Dietrich and Greta Garbo), the heavily disguised gay characters of the restrictive Hays Code period (Rebecca, Rebel with a Cause, etc.), and the dubious emergence of screen homosexuals as suicidal neurotics and vicious predators in the 1960s and 1970s. The unsteady progress toward more positive images is illustrated by such landmarks as The Boys in the Band, Cabaret, and The Color Purple, and the film ends on a warily triumphant note with the recent surge of unapologetically gay-themed indies. Neither narrowly sectarian nor toothlessly diplomatic, The Celluloid Closet is good history, good politics and good entertainment.

ISSUES ON DYING

Chp.: John M. Dluhy, M.D.

67 Living Fully Until Death
 (29 minutes)

Distributor: Films for Humanities & Science
 P.O. Box 2053
 Princeton, NJ 08543

This is an inspirational account of three people faced with terminal illness who find courage and new meaning while living their final months. Their willingness to face and deal with the unknown has lessons for people of all ages.

68 Tired of Living, Feared of Dying
 (54 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
 124 East 40th Street
 New York, NY 10016

Dutch doctors are now legally able to accede to a patient's request for medical help so that they can die with dignity and without pain when their sufferings have become unbearable. This remarkable film follows seven people who have registered a request for euthanasia when they judge the time to be right. Each patient talks about the reasons for choosing this way of death and tries to define the specific trigger that will cause him or her to decide when the time has come to ask the doctor for the lethal injection. Members of their families add their own comments, and five doctors with experience in the practice of euthanasia speak eloquently about the ethical questions and the practical problems that euthanasia poses for them. By the end of the film, several of the subjects had died without expressing apprehension or regret about their decision.

THE LAST VOLUME OF A

American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry

Volume 16

Edited by Leah J. Dickstein, M.D.,
Michelle B. Riba, M.D., and John M. Oldham, M.D.

In this 16th volume in the Review of Psychiatry series, editors Leah J. Dickstein, M.D., Michelle B. Riba, M.D., and John M. Oldham, M.D., continue an ongoing commitment to making this series a vital reference for the practicing clinician. More than 40 contributors share their expertise in the areas of cognitive therapy, repressed memories, obsessive-compulsive disorder across the life cycle, psychopharmacology across the life cycle, psychological/biological testing issues for psychiatrists, and computers, the patient, and the psychiatrist.

Following the successful format of past volumes, each section includes a foreword and afterword by the section editor(s) that summarize key points, and each chapter features an extensive bibliography. These volumes are top sellers at the APA annual meetings...and all year long.
