May 30, 1998

Dear Colleagues and Guests:

Welcome to the 151st Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. The theme for this meeting, which reflects our determination, vision and concern for every sector of American psychiatry, is:

New Challenges for Proven Values: Defending Access, Fairness, Ethics, Decency

As we work hard to build a better future for our patients, including children, minorities, the elderly and their families, there are some fundamentals we must keep in mind. Indeed, much of the scientific program addresses these issues. There are sessions on confidentiality, psychiatric education, ethics, the doctor/patient relationship, private practice, economics and managed care, as well as many excellent sessions on the latest developments in research and clinical practice.

Two special "Days of Creation" have been planned for Monday and Tuesday, during which several sessions will highlight creativity. On Wednesday, selected sessions will examine "A Time of Violence."

I am delighted that our international registration has grown so considerably over the past several years. That so many colleagues from around the world attend our Annual Meeting is a tribute to its high quality and diversity. At this meeting we will have a number of outstanding international guests, including leaders from the World Psychiatric Association, some of whom will make presentations and many of whom will represent their organizations at the Opening Session. I expect you to join me at the Opening Session, which will take place on Sunday from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Those inducted as Fellows into the APA and those receiving awards from the Association will be honored at the Convocation of Fellows on June 1, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Please join me and your colleagues at the Convocation to congratulate these members and friends of the APA. Our Convocation speaker will be Justice Richard Goldstone.

Helping to plan this meeting has been stimulating and invigorating. It would not be possible without the extensive, dedicated effort of many APA members. Congratulations to the Scientific Program and Local Arrangements Committees for this remarkable ending to what has been an extremely productive and successful year for the APA. For the coming year we are off to a superb beginning which will ensure further advances for our patients in need and our profession.

We hail the Olympian efforts of our Annual Meeting staff in organizing and making coherent, a complex flow of daily challenges. Orchestrating the requirements set by your President and the Scientific Program Committee, and working in concert with the staff in the Meetings and Exhibit Management Office, their dedication has made possible this extraordinary meeting.

Welcome to Toronto!

May 30, 1998

Dear APA Members and Guests:

Welcome to Toronto, Canada and the 151st Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. This exciting city, with its vibrancy, cultural diversity and excitement, provides a fitting setting for the presentations we have planned. As you read through the Program Book, you will notice a number of sessions related to the theme "New Challenges for Proven Values: Defending Access, Fairness, Ethics, Decency," chosen by our President, Dr. Herbert S. Sacks, M.D. I draw your attention to the Presidential Symposium scheduled on Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., "Paparazzi and Snoopers: New Threats to Confidentiality."

The Local Arrangements Committee, under the excellent guidance of its Chairperson, Dr. D. Raymond Freebury has developed a wide array of programs that will help you take advantage of Toronto. You will notice that a number of activities are designed especially for families and children.

The Business Meeting will be held on Sunday, from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; all voting all voting members are encouraged to attend. The Opening Session will be held on Sunday from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Exhibits will be open 11:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. on Sunday, 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, and 10:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. on Wednesday.

The Advances in Research session will be held on Monday at 10:30 a.m. This session highlights the latest research findings in psychiatry and summarizes their relevance to clinical practice. This has become an excellent way to start off the Annual Meeting's research programs, in conjunction with the Young Investigators' Poster and Oral/Slide Sessions also on Monday. You will find an expanded number of small group sessions, including Discussion Groups, Research Consultations with selected experts in the field, and the newly created Master Educator Clinical Consultations, a series of clinically-based seminars with outstanding clinician educators, which will be offered to APA members only.

A special aspect of our 1998 scientific program will be a series of collaborative sessions supported in part by the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Special offerings in each of the various program formats will present exciting research discoveries elucidating various biological and psychological aspects of addiction and recovery. Floyd E. Bloom, M.D., distinguished psychiatrist and editor of Science, will present the Decade of the Brain as part of this series. For registrants desiring to attend these sessions for an update on various aspects of substance abuse ranging from basic neuroscience to novel treatments and outcome studies, each session in this special track is identified throughout this book as a "Collaborative Session with the National Institute on Drug Abuse."

You will also note in the Program Book that we are continuing with our expanded series of noon Forums. This format allows us to schedule sessions that may not fit in the usual formats or that focus on late-breaking topics of importance to the field.

I strongly encourage you to fill out and return the evaluation forms for this meeting. The members of the Scientific Program Committee are interested in the opinions of the members regarding the quality and content of the Annual Meeting. The information we obtain is used to plan next year's program.

Once again, welcome to Toronto. Hook forward to sharing a week of exciting and professionally rewarding activities with you.

Duil Kluider

Sincerely,

Daniel K. Winstead, M.D. Chairperson Scientific Program Committee

APA PERIODICALS

The American Journal of Psychiatry and Psychiatric Services will be located in the APA Periodicals Exhibit in the APA Resource Center and staffed during Resource Center hours. Staff of both journals will be available to answer authors' questions and to receive papers submitted for publication. Each journal publishes only original material not published elsewhere in any form and not being considered for publication elsewhere. Five copies and a disk are required for The American Journal of Psychiatry, six copies are required for Psychiatric Services. Persons who wish to contact editors or reporters of Psychiatric News should inquire at the APA Administrative Office, Rooms 201C/D, Street Level, Convention Centre, where an editor can be paged. They may also leave written announcements, suggestions for articles, or letters to the editor for the newspaper's consideration.

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CREDIT

The American Psychiatric Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

The APA designates this education activity for up to 66 credit hours in Category 1 credit towards the AMA Physician's Recognition Award and for the CME requirement of the APA. Each physician should claim only those hours of credit that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Please note: The entire scientific program at the Annual Meeting, as outlined below, has been approved for CME credit. The scientific sessions of the official Annual Meeting program, with some exceptions, meet the criteria for Category 1 CME credit. Sessions in the following program formats are designated as Category 1: Advances in Research, Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences, CME Courses, Debate, Forums, Industry-Supported Symposia, most Lectures, Medical Updates, Research Advances in Medicine, Round Table Discussion. Practice Guidelines Update, Media Sessions, New Research Oral/Slide Sessions, Scientific and Clinical Reports, Presidential Symposium, Review of Psychiatry, Symposia, and Workshops. Other program activities are designated Category 2; these include Research Consultations With, Discussion Groups, Master Educator Clinical Consultations, New Research Poster Sessions, a Video Production Clinic, and some Media Sessions, Lectures and Workshops. Discussion Groups, Master Educator and Research Consultations With sessions are limited to 25 participants and are open on a first-come, first-served basis. If there is space available in the room, you may attend. Continuing medical education sessions are open to all Annual Meeting registrants, except for the Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences and the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, which are open to APA members only.

Please note: APA members are required to maintain their own record of CME hours. Reporting of CME credit is on an honor basis.

To document CME credit earned at the Annual Meeting, participants should record the sessions attended on the back page of the Certificate of Attendance found in the front of the 1998 Annual Meeting CME Syllabus & Proceedings Summary Book. Credit is earned on an hour-for-hour basis.

The Certificate of Attendance (or copy) may be forwarded to other organizations requiring verification of participation in the APA Annual Meeting.

The APA requires participation in a total of 150 hours of CME activities within a three-year reporting period. At least 60 hours must be in Category 1 activities.

CME report forms may be obtained from the Office of Education at the APA. Staff will be available at the Office of Education booth in the APA Resource Center to answer any of your questions about CME.

ANNUAL MEETING EVALUATION

The Annual Meeting Scientific Program Committee needs your recommendations and evaluations to plan next year's Annual Meeting. A participant evaluation form is enclosed with your registration packet and includes instructions for completing the form. BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE MEETING, PLEASE COMPLETE YOUR FORM AND DROP IT IN ONE OF THE EVALUATION BOXES LOCATED THROUGHOUT THE MEETING SITES. You can receive a Certificate of Attendance at the Annual Meeting by returning a completed form to the APA Administrative or Scientific Program Office, the Information/Locator Center or the APA Resource Center, all located in the Convention Centre.

SESSION CAPACITY

We expect "sell out" attendance for many of the scientific sessions. So that all in attendance may benefit, we ask your assistance when overcrowding occurs:

- Please find seating as far forward as possible.
- Move to the center of the row and fill all seats so that chairs are available on aisles for additional attendees.
- Store materials under chairs to maximize seating capacity.
- Overcrowding of meeting rooms may subject the session to shutdown by the Fire Marshal; therefore, we urge all attendees to locate seating rather than stand in aisles or against walls.
- If space does not permit you to attend a session, an audiotape of that session may be available. Please check the order form included in your registration packet.

Thank you for your cooperation.

AUDIOTAPES

Audiotapes of most sessions are available shortly after each session concludes and may be purchased at the Mobiltape Booth located in the Convention Centre.

TAPE RECORDING AND VISUAL REPRODUCTION POLICIES

Audiotape recording is only permitted for personal use. Registrants are welcome to use their own small, portable audiotape recorders to record any session except the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, Clinical Case Conferences and the Continuous Clinical Case Conference, or unless prohibited by the presenters. Larger professional tape recorders, however, are not permitted other than those utilized by personnel representing the professional taping firm authorized by APA to audiotape sessions. The badges of personnel representing this firm will clearly identify them. Registrants are not permitted to videotape any session because the intrusive nature of the recording may disrupt the session.

SMOKING POLICY

There will be NO SMOKING in scientific sessions or in the exhibit hall. Smoking will only be permitted in designated areas.

CHILD CARE SERVICES

For the convenience of meeting registrants and their families, the APA, with assistance from the Local Arrangements Committee, has made arrangements for child care during the meeting. The child care service will be located in the Royal York Hotel. Hours of operation will be Sunday, May 31, to Thursday, June 4, 7:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Staffing will be available for children ages six months to 12 years.

GUIDE TO THE PROGRAM BOOK

Below, you will find the table of contents for ease in locating information about this meeting. A topic index is included to assist you with finding sessions of interest. The individual program for each day's sessions is listed by start time with the formats listed alphabetically under those times. NOTE: To make it easier for you to plan your day, we have prepared a separate "Days-at-a-Glance," which is included in your registration packet.

If you have any questions about this book or the scientific sessions, please feel free to stop by the Scientific Program Office in the Convention Centre, and we will be glad to help you. Also, all central office APA staff members will be wearing green ribbons on their badges. Please feel free to direct your questions to them.

FORMAT DESCRIPTIONS

ADVANCES IN RESEARCH

This two-hour session is traditionally chaired by the Chairperson of the Council on Research, and co-chaired by the Chairperson of the Scientific Program Committee. After a brief overview of major advances in research in psychiatry, and a preview of selected research presentations scheduled at the Annual Meeting, leading clinical researchers present the latest developments in four different, clinically-relevant areas of research.

AIDS EDUCATION PROGRAM

APA's AIDS Program Office presents a two-day clinical update on the neuropsychiatric and psychosocial aspects of HIV disease and AIDS.

CLINICAL CASE CONFERENCES

During these 90-minute sessions, clinical material is presented by videotape or the treating therapist. One or more experts then discuss the case. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY, BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

CONTINUOUS CLINICAL CASE CONFERENCES

The presenters will review the progress of psychotherapy in two, successive, three-hour sessions on consecutive days, Monday-Tuesday, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Audience participation will be encouraged throughout. Participants are requested to attend both sessions in their entirety. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

COURSES

Courses are designed to emphasize learning experiences that actively involve participants and include the opportunity for informal exchange with the faculty. Offered in four-hour (half-day) and six-hour (full-day) sessions, courses either review basic concepts in a special subject area or present advanced material on a circumscribed topic. Enrollment is limited, and participants must purchase tickets to attend.

DEBATE

A controversial topic in psychiatry will be debated by experts in the field, including psychiatrists and non-psychiatrists. The debate format allows for members to hear both pro and con views about important, interesting and timely concerns for our members. The debate is moderated by someone who has expertise in the topic area. A portion of the time is allocated for questions from the audience to the presenters with active participation by participants.

DISCUSSION GROUPS

This 90-minute format allows small groups to meet informally with selected experts in psychiatry to discuss topics chosen by the experts. Some of these are reserved for residents only. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

FORUMS

These are flexible presentations that afford an opportunity to highlight and select topics that are of timely interest to psychiatrists. Speakers and panel members are chosen for their expertise and leadership in the field.

LECTURES

Lectures feature a small number of distinguished speakers discussing scientific and cultural topics, many of which will extend our understanding beyond the usual limits of clinical psychiatry. Lecturers are invited by the Program Committee.

MASTER EDUCATOR CLINICAL CONSULTATIONS

These are a series of 90-minute, clinically-based seminars with outstanding educators selected from psychiatry training directors throughout the country. Formats and subject matter will vary, but all will utilize clinical material offered by participants. They are presented in conjunction with the American Association of Directors of Psychiatric Residency Training. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

MEDIA PROGRAMS

A media program may involve the showing of a videotape, 16mm film, or computer software demonstration, followed by discussion. Specialized sessions focus on production or consumer/family issues.

MEDICAL UPDATES

These 90-minute sessions are presented to provide psychiatrists with the latest clinical developments in other areas of medicine. Topics may range from subspecialty areas of adult or pediatric medicine (infectious disease, cardiology, gastroenterology, etc.) to new techniques or procedures in surgery or radiology. The interface between psychiatry and these areas is not necessarily emphasized. The intent is to give participants an update from a physician in a particular specialty.

NEW RESEARCH

This format allows for presentation of the very recent findings obtained from ongoing research. The three types of presentations include: Oral/Slide, twelve-minute presentations with three minutes for discussion; Posters, visual, self-explanatory presentations; and Young Investigators' Sessions, with presentations from young investigators, residents, medical students, and research or clinical fellows.

NIDA/NIH WORKSHOP

This three-hour workshop clarifies the grant making process for psychiatrists contemplating applying for an NIDA grant. General information about applying for NIH grants will also be included.

PRACTICE GUIDELINES UPDATE

This two-hour format will provide an update concerning the development of APA practice guidelines. The APA practice guidelines project has moved forward according to a previously approved process designed to result in documents which are both scientifically sound and clinically useful to practicing psychiatrists. On the basis of nationally-recognized standards for the development of practice guidelines, the APA practice guidelines reflect the following: comprehensive literature reviews; classifications of supporting evidence and the nature of recommendations; and a series of revisions based on input from the Board of Trustees and several related APA components, psychiatric consultants, non-psychiatrist experts, and representatives from related organizations.

RESEARCH ADVANCES IN MEDICINE

This two-hour format presents an overview of cutting-edge research in various aspects of medicine. In contrast to the Medical Update series, which is more clinically focused, this session will help participants keep pace with the rapidly expanding knowledge base and technology in various branches of medicine. Several speakers, authorities in their fields, will present on their topics.

RESEARCH CONSULTATIONS WITH

This 90-minute format provides an opportunity, in a small group setting, for participants to obtain consultations around problems in research from outstanding senior researchers. Participants should come prepared to present a specific problem in research, whether it's one of research design, methodology, subject selection or data analysis, etc., which could be presented briefly to the consultant. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

REVIEW OF PSYCHIATRY

There will be six, three-and-one-half hour sessions presented, based on the annual American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry Series. Each session includes an abridged presentation by the senior author from each of the chapters in each volume. The topics were selected by the overall editors of the series, to represent current areas of new research, new developments in clinical care, and special issues of importance to APA members.

ROUND TABLE

This 90-minute format is designed to establish a dialogue between psychiatrists and other citizens about controversial issues of special interest to our profession. The moderator presents a panel of experts with hypothetical scenarios that highlight controversial and problematic situations with which psychiatrists interface.

SCIENTIFIC AND CLINICAL REPORT SESSIONS

Scientific and Clinical Reports (formerly Paper Sessions) are oral presentations of papers prepared for submission before publication. In this 90-minute format, reports are grouped by topic, with floor discussion from the audience following the presentation of each paper. There is no formal discussant.

SOCIAL SECURITY WORKSHOP

Social Security Administration (SSA) officials present the history/background of SSA disability programs (including new legislative initiatives), describe how psychiatrists can best serve applicants for benefits, and review the clinical information required to expedite the disability determination process. During this three-hour session, time is allocated for group discussion of evaluation of impairments, what constitutes adequate evidence to support disability decisions, etc.

SYMPOSIA

Symposia are three-hour sessions consisting of four to six presentations that are thematically linked and focus on a specific topic relevant to clinical psychiatry. They are designed to provide comprehensive treatment of a topic or discussion of the topic from several points of view by the participants and stimulate discussion with the audience. Some symposia are supported by industry and are designated as "Industry-Supported Symposium" in this Program Book.

WORKSHOPS

Workshops are 90-minute sessions, which typically involve brief presentations from individual panel members, followed by the opportunity for lively and informative discussion. This format provides for substantial audience participation and should be highly interactive.

AMERICAN PSYCHIATRIC ASSOCIATION CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION POLICY ON FULL DISCLOSURE

The American Psychiatric Association requires disclosure of the existence of any significant financial interest or other affiliation a presenter has with any commercial product(s) and/or providers of any commercial services discussed in an educational presentation. The existence of such relationships does not necessarily constitute a conflict of interest, but the prospective audience must be informed of the presenter's affiliation with a commercial sponsor by way of an acknowledgment printed in this Program Book. This policy is intended to openly identify any potential conflict so that members of the audience in an educational activity are able to form their own judgements about the presentation.

The following presenters have indicated a significant financial interest or other affiliation with a commercial supporter of the session and/or with the manufacturer(s) of a commercial product(s) and/or provider of commercial service(s). The presenter's name, the manufacturer's name, and the page number(s) the presenter appears on in this Program Book are listed below:

Two Hats Revisited: Contexts, Complications and Compromises Between Clinical and Forensic Roles

Chp.: Robert L. Sadoff, M.D. Co-Chp.: Brain Crowley, M.D.

For the treating psychiatrist, the role of expert (forensic) witness is fraught with clinical, ethical and legal conflicts. Larry H. Strasburger, M.D., Thomas G. Gutheil, M.D., and Archie Brodsky, B.A., review these conflicts using a case example from the patient's perspective. They also examine clinical pitfalls of treating a patient who has previously been involved in litigation, offer guidelines for situations where separation of clinical and forensic roles is impossible and discuss specific challenges posed by so-called "recovered memory" cases. Dr. Strasburger is Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and a past president of the American Board of Forensic Psychiatry. He has been extensively involved in setting standards for the practice of forensic psychiatry and has written extensively on the prevention of sexual misconduct by psychotherapists.

the duties of expert witnesses and other topics. Dr. Gutheil is Professor of Psychiatry and Co-Director of the Program in Psychiatry and the Law at Harvard Medical School and the Massachusetts Mental Health Center. He is the author or coauthor of some 150 publications. Mr Broasky is Senior Research Associate in the Program in Psychiatry and the Law at Harvard Medical School and Massachusetts Mental Health Center. He is the coauthor of Love and Addiction, Decision Making in Psychiatry and the Law and a dozen other books, as well as numerous journal articles on clinical ethics, risk management and health policy

TOWARDS HEALING OF RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS DIVISIONS

Chp.: Elmore F. Rigamer, M.D.

1 Blacks & Jews (85 minutes)

Distributor: California Newsreel

149 9th Street, Suite 420 San Francisco, CA 94103

The fault line between blacks and Jews is one of the most visible symbols of America's racial divide. Now a new film, Blacks & Jews, made collaboratively by Jewish and black filmmakers, goes behind the headlines and the rhetoric. It was acclaimed at the 1997 Sundance Film Festival for initiating a frank yet constructive nationwide dialogue to overcome the mistrust. Blacks & Jews reexamines key conflicts including the Crown Heights riots; "block busting" in Chicago and the interracial coalition that opposed it; the controversy around Louis Farrakhan and the Nation of Islam; and the press frenzy over a group of black students who laughed during a screening of Schindler's List. Blacks & Jews offers no assurances of easy racial harmony, but screenings of this film can cut through the anger and emotion on both sides by demonstrating that dialogue and cooperation must be based in a serious effort to understand and value the experience of others.

2 Daughters of the Troubles: Belfast Stories

(56 minutes)

Distributor: Derry Video Productions

Attn.: Marcia Rock 100 Blecker Street, 13E New York, NY 10012

Daughters of the Troubles provides a personal narrative of the lives of two working-class Belfast women, told against the backdrop of the last 25 years of political turmoil in Northern Ireland. Women have been forced to transcend the traditional roles assigned to them by a conservative male-dominated society in order to meet the challenges of their shattered country. They painfully piece together different lives for themselves and their children as they tackle new problems today such as teenage pregnancy, drug use and alienated youth caught in the inexorable cycle of dependency. With wit and humor, the women, Catholic and Protestant, convey a sense of hope.

Mordecai Richler

Making Things Up

Chp.: D. Raymond Freebury, M.D. Co-Chp.: Donna E. Stewart, M.D.

An eminent Canadian writer, Mordecai Richler has authored such acclaimed novels as The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz, Cocksure, Stick your Neck Out, and Joshua Then and Now. He has also earned high praise for nonfiction as the editor of The Best of Modern Humor and as the author of Images of Spain, The Great Comic Book Heroes and Other Essays, and Home Sweet Home: My Canadian Album. His most recent novel, Barney's Version (Knopf Canada, 1997), marks his return as a novelist after eight long years. One of the most versatile authors today, Mr. Richler has penned two books for children, Jacob Two-Two Meets the Hooded Fang, which was hailed as "one of the funniest rampages in all literature," and its sequel, Jacob Two-Two and the Dinosaur. He later adapted both works for the stage. Mr. Richler was the screenwriter for the film versions of Duddy Kravitz (for which he eamed an Academy Award nomination) and Joshua Then and Now. Mordecai Richler has received a great variety of awards and honors during the course of his career including the Writers Guild of America Award, the Paris Review Humor Prize and the Commonwealth Writers Prize. He has been short listed for the Booker Prize and has twice received the Governor General's Award for Fiction. Mr. Richler attended Sir George Williams University from 1948 to 1950 and was a Guggenheim Fellow in 1961. His latest work, Belling the Cat: Essays, Opinions and Reports, is due out this June. THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

Services Effectiveness Research: Relevance, Challenges and Future Directions

Chp.: Burton V. Reifler, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Marian I. Butterfield, M.D.

Research advances in treatments for major mental disorders are often difficult to apply in clinical practice because of the heterogeneity of patients outside research settings, providers' reluctance to adopt manualized treatments and limits on treatment regimens imposed by managed care. Barbara J. Burns, Ph.D., explores challenges to determining the clinical effectiveness of promising interventions and discusses strategies for disseminating effective treatments, monitoring the fidelity of interventions and documenting outcomes. Dr. Burns holds academic appointments at Duke University Medical Center as Professor of Medical Psychology in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Associate Research Professor in the Center for Health Policy Research and Education and Senior Fellow in the Center for the Study of Aging and Human Development. She is a Research Fellow at the Cecil G. Sheps Center for Health Services Research at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (UNC) and an Adjunct Professor at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences. Dr. Bums directs the Services Effectiveness Research Program at Duke and co-directs the Postdoctoral Research Training Program in Mental Health Services and Systems at Duke and UNC. A nationally recognized mental health services researcher with more than 140 publications in this specialty area, Dr. Burns has received the Carl A. Taube Award for Excellence in Mental Health Services Research from the American Public Health Association and a Special Presidential Commendation from the American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Burns received her doctoral degree from Boston College.

Floyd E. Bloom, M.D.

Substance Abuse and Reward Systems in the Brain

Collaborative Session with the National Institute on Drug Abuse

Chp.: Herbert D. Kleber, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Marianne T. Guschwan, M.D.

Over the past decade, neuroscientific research has identified several important synaptic sites which underlie the reward sites in the brain where drugs that are abused by humans (opiates, psychostimulants, alcohol and nicotine) are known to act. These drugs act by various primary mechanisms to activate the ventrotegmental dopaminergic projections to the nucleus accumbens, and in particular the shell of this nucleus, known to maintain substantial interconnections to the amygdaloid complex. Floyd E. Bloom, M.D., reviews these findings and discusses current research to clarify the long-term changes that cause humans to become tolerant of commonly abused drugs. Dr. Bloom is Chairman of the Department of Neuropharmacology at the Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California, and Editor-in-Chief of Science. One of the major architects of modern neuroscience. Dr. Bloom was the first to appreciate the need for in-depth study of comprehensive neurotransmitter systems at the anatomical, physiological and pharmacological levels. A member of the National Academy of Sciences and the Institute of Medicine, he has received numerous awards, including the Pasarow Award in Neuropsychiatry, the Hermann von Helmholtz Award, the William R. McAlpin, Jr., Award from the National Association of Mental Health and the Distinguished Research Award from the American Society of Addiction Medicine. He is a Distinguished Fellow of the American Psychlatric Association, a Fellow and former president of the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology, and the former president of the Society for Neuroscience and the Research Society for Alcoholism. A graduate of the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Dr. Bloom trained in pharmacology at the National Institute of Mental Health's Clinical Neuropharmacological Research Center in Washington, DC, and completed a postdoctoral fellowship in anatomy at Yale University School of Medicine.

COMPUTERIZED PATIENT RECORDS: STATE-OF-THE-ART

Co-Chps.: Tal Burt, M.D., Waguih Ishak, M.D.

3 Computerized Patient Records Russell F. Lim, M.D., Zebulon C. Taintor, M.D.

This all day session will focus on the use of computer technology in psychiatric practice. Waguih Ishak, M.D., of New York University, and Tal Burt, M.D., of Harvard University, will demonstrate state-of-the-art software specifically created for psychiatry. Participants will have the opportunity to appreciate how user-friendly and comprehensive the new age of software is. Emphasis will be placed on the specific ways in which the use of specialized software can improve the quality of psychiatric care, administration, education, research and communication. There will be some power strips available for attendees who bring their own laptop computers to "plug in." No pre-registration is required.

REMARKABLE COURAGE OF THE PHYSICALLY CHALLENGED

Chp.: John M. Dluhy, M.D.

4 Breathing Lessons: The Life and Work of Mark O'Brien

(35 minutes)

Distributor: Fanlight Productions

47 Halifax Street Boston, MA 02130

According to the poet-journalist Mark O'Brien, "The two mythologies of disabled people break down to: one, we can't do anything, or two, we can do everything. But the truth is, we're just human." This awardwinning documentary offers a challenging look into the mind of a man who can't do a lot of things that most of us take for granted, but who does other things superbly well. Mr. O'Brien writes regularly for Pacific News Service and contributes to National Public Radio. He is the author of a collection of poetry entitled Breathing and has had poems featured in numerous literary publications and anthologies. Mark O'Brien contracted polio in childhood. Due to post-polio syndrome as a young adult, he now spends much of his life in an iron lung. Yet for more than 40 years he has fought against illness and bureaucracy for his right to lead an independent life. By presenting life from Mr. O'Brien's point of view, this documentary provides an intimate window into the reality of a life with severe disability, as well as an illuminating portrait of a remarkable artist.

Best Short Documentary, South by Southwest Film Festival Juror's Choice Award, Charlotte Film and Video Festival

Audience Award, Aspen Shortsfest Golden Gate Awards, Silver Spire, San Francisco International Film Festival

5 Untold Desires

(53 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Untold Desires highlights the struggle that people with disabilities face in their quest to be recognized as sexual beings, free to express their sexuality and lead sexually active lives. In the sometimes sensitive area of sexuality, people with disabilities find that their own needs are often subverted by the conservative values of those who provide essential care. They are also sharply conscious of how they are seen by others. Untold Desires allows these people to speak about issues that confront them: choice, privacy, the right to have sexual relationships, and the right to have children. They speak frankly about their experiences in search of sexually fulfilled lives. Their honesty is sometimes raw, but always deeply moving. The film offers positive images for people with disabilities and breaks down stereotypes that render the disabled person nonsexual in the eyes of the nondisabled world.

TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION IN SOUTH AFRICA

Chp.: J. Charles Ndleia, M.D.

6 Cry, The Beloved Country (108 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.

> 350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787-4305

On attending the world premier of Cry, The Beloved Country, President Nelson Mandela made an astounding statement, "A monument to the future. I enjoyed every moment of it. Cry, The Beloved Country and its message reinforce our friendship across the oceans and add value to the treasure house of culture. It vividly captures Alan Paton's eloquent faith in the essential goodness of people." The first feature film from the new democratic South Africa shows the healing process of forgiveness and reconciliation. Based on a 1946 worldwide best-selling novel, it depicts the sociopolitical forces that were already in existence in the pre-apartheid era; blacks and whites existed in diametrically opposed worlds yet were completely oblivious to one another. The two main protagonists are played magnificently by James Earl Jones and Richard Harris; from the tragedy of one son killing the other's son arose compassion and forgiveness. Cry, The Beloved Country demonstrates parallels with the current process of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in South Africa. Both the film and the Truth and Reconciliation Commission can be regarded as guideposts in the history of South Africa spanning the pre-apartheid, apartheid, and post-apartheid periods. The rest of the world may yet learn how the deep wounds of division and racism can be healed through forgiveness.

Wolf Kahn

Artists' Inspiration: Sentiment, Sentimentality or Neither of the Above

Chp.: Herbert S. Sacks, M.D. Co-Chp.: Eve Leeman, M.D.

To explore how artists are inspired to create their work, one must first put aside the superficial, sentimental ideas that dominate conventional thinking about this topic. Drawing on a lifetime of practice as an artist, Wolf Kahn discusses the sources of his appetite for work and explores the deeper motivations that may be the basis of the artist's endeavor. He questions the popular idea that equates inspiration with a momentary excess of feeling and examines whether art is of value to mental health and whether contemporary art reflects the current culture. Art practiced on a serious level invariably aims at transcendence of the every day, and opens the mind to unconventional thinking and feeling. Mr. Kahn travels extensively and has painted landscapes in such diverse locales as Mexico, Italy, Egypt, Greece and Kenya. He has had solo exhibits at numerous galleries in the United States, including the Beadleston Gallery and the Grace Borgenicht Gallery in New York City, as well as in Canada and England. His work has been displayed at major museums across the United States and is included in major corporate and public collections. Mr. Kahn has received a Fulbright grant and the John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship. He has been elected to membership in the National Academy of Design, the National Board of the College Art Association, and the National Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters. He is the author of several articles for periodicals in the art field. Mr. Kahn was born in Stuttgart, Germany, in 1927, and came to the United States in 1940. A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Kahn studied painting with Hans Hofmann in New York and Provincetown, Massachusetts.

Paul E. Garfinkel, M.D.

Integrating New Knowledge in Treating the Eating Disorders

Chp.: Michael J. Devlin, M.D. Co-Chp.: Lesly T. Mega, M.D.

The past 30 years have seen dramatic changes in approaches to treatment of eating disorders. Paul E. Garfinkel, M.D., discusses empirical research that has increased the understanding of anorexia and bulimia nervosa and has improved clinical care. Multifactorial models for conceptualizing these illnesses have become accepted, although each factor that contributes to the model must stand up to independent empirical scrutiny. In both anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa, depression avoidance of a normal body size is related to fears of being able to control oneself independently. This problem in turn is rooted in other events in the individual, family and culture, including difficulties in emotional separation and selfperception, genetic factors and styles of family interaction, as well as the culture's idealization of thinness. Our new level of understanding has helped us move towards a goal of step care, which involves providing interventions that have proven effective beginning with the least costly, least intrusive form and working up to more intensive care as the patient's need requires. Dr. Garfinkel is Professor and Chair of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Toronto and President and Psychiatrist-in-Chief of the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry. Particularly well respected for his clinical and research expertise in the field of eating disorders, Dr. Garfinkel established a comprehensive eating disorders program at Toronto General Hospital and has received numerous research and clinical awards in support of his work, including the Gold Achievement Award for an outstanding program from the American Psychiatric Association and the Canadian Psychiatric Research Foundation Annual Award. In 1996, he was elected Fellow in the Royal Society of Canada. He is also a Fellow of the Canadian College of Neuropsychopharmacology and the American College of Psychiatrists and a member of the Canadian Institute of Academic Medicine. Dr. Garfinkel is the author of Anorexia Nervosa: A Multidimensional Perspective and has edited seven other books on eating disorders. He has contributed numerous articles to the professional literature and lectures widely in his areas of expertise. He is a member of the editorial boards of several journals and is an Associate Editor of the Canadian Journal of Psychiatry and the Journal of Eating and Weight Disorders. He received his medical degree from the University of Manitoba and completed his psychiatric residency at the University of Toronto.

7 Girls Like Us (60 minutes)

Distributor: Women Make Movies, Inc.

Distribution Department 462 Broadway, Suite 500 E

New York, NY 10013

In Girls Like Us, a documentary on female teenage sexuality, a fluid hand-held camera follows an ethnically diverse group of four working-class teenage girls over a period of four years (ages 14 to 18). Filmed in South Philadelphia, Girls Like Us exposes the conflicts of growing up female and the impact of class, sexism and violence on the dreams and expectations of teenage girls. Exploring the intersection of cultural values and pop culture, family pressures and personal identity, Girls Like Us stimulates dialogue between youth, adults and educators.

"My life is no different from, I don't know how many, billions of people, who the hell am I?" asks Oscar Berliner. "You're my father" his filmmaker son answers. So begins a fascinating, if reluctant, partnership to create a portrait of a family by sifting through myth, memories, fact and fiction—the cautious exchange of information and affection between father and son.

AN INNOVATIVE PSYCHOLOGICAL MUSICAL: PENNIES FROM HEAVEN

Joint Session with the Forum for the Psychoanalytic Study of Films

9 Pennies from Heaven

(120 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.

350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787-4305

Songs of the Great Depression momentarily offered hope and possibility to many who were otherwise filled with despair as they went from soup kitchens to apple stands. So did escapist movies such as those made by Astair/Rogers, Rooney/Garland, and Busbee Berkeley.

Dennis Potter, the British TV dramatist, wrote a six-part series for the BBC called Pennies From Heaven which MGM made into an American musical directed by Herb Ross and starring Steve Martin, Bernadette Peters, and Cristopher Walken. The movie Pennies From Heaven stands escapism on its head and offers the audience a musical tour into the unconscious lives of its characters. In a highly entertaining yet bleak comedy about a down-and-out liar and philanderer, we see how the unconscious is always active and experiencing the material world simultaneously with conscious experience. In classical psychoanalytic therapy, one digs into the past, lifting repression, ultimately hoping to reveal psychic drives which underlie disturbed defenses. When characters burst into song we in the audience get a different view of how the mind works, as songs from the distant past suddenly illuminate the present while they simultaneously offer ways of escaping. Suddenly the past feels alive in the present, something which puts therapists more in the mind of Betty Joseph's ideas about "the total situation" than Freud's of peeling an onion. Music offers immediate recall, reaction and interpretation of events hitherto hidden. Discussion at the end of this film will examine new ways to think about the unconscious process and means of accessing it. Too often films depicting the painful realities of the 1930s lend themselves merely to sociological interpretation. In this film, however, the audience can explore the individual psychology of the leading characters and how they are each shaped in unique ways by overtly common cultural experiences.

A Musical Presentation by The Guarneri String Quartet

2:00 p.m. - 3:30 p.m. Room 107, Lower Level, Convention Centre

Chairperson: Herbert S. Sacks, M.D.

The Guarneri String Quartet is one of the most revered quartets in the world today. During the 1994-95 season the four members celebrated their 30th year together. Violinists Arnold Steinhardt and John Dalley, violist Michael Tree and cellist David Soyer have circled the globe countless times together, playing the world's most prestigious halls in North and South America, Mexico, Europe, the Far East and Australia. In their home town of New York City, they have maintained their two special series: "Guarneri and Friends" at Lincoln Center since 1973, and recital programs at the Metropolitan Museum of Art since 1965. They have been the subject of the fulllength critically acclaimed film "High Fidelity the Guarneri Strina Quartet" and several books, including Quartet by Helen Drees Ruttencutter and The Art of Quartet Playing: The Guameri in Conversation with David Blum. The Guarneri String Quartet records exclusively for the Philips Classics label. Many of their recordings have won international awards on both RCA Red Seal and Philips.

Michael J. Vergare, M.D.

Follow the Leader: From Institutions to Systems of Care

Chp.: William H. Reid, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Paul A. Rodenhauser, M.D.

In the last 50 years, delivery of psychiatric care has shifted from large state institutions to smaller, often private psychiatric hospitals, general hospitals and outpatient facilities. At the same time, the community mental health center movement has evolved to its present state where psychiatric involvement in management is rare. Michael J. Vergare, M.D., examines the role of psychiatric management and administration as care and education move away from defined locations to more abstract networks. Dr. Vergare is Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at Albert Einstein Medical Center, Associate Vice President of Belmont Behavioral Health and Medical Director of Jefferson Behavioral Health Network in Philadelphia. He is also Chair of the Section of Psychiatry at Chestnut Hill Hospital as well as Professor and Senior Associate Chairperson of the Department of Psychiatry at Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. Dr. Vergare is Vice Chairperson of the APA Committee on Medical Student Education and APA Assembly Liaison with the Editorial Review Panel. He is also a Fellow of the American College of Mental Health Administration and serves on the Governor's Advisory Committee for Mental Health and Mental Retardation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Vergare received his medical degree from Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital of Pennsylvania and completed his psychiatric residency at Hannemann Hospital.

THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

Andrew Chess, M.D.

Olfaction As a Window into Brain Function

Chp.: Ellen Leibenluft, M.D. Co-Chp.: Ron M. Winchel, M.D.

One percent of the human genome, more than 1,000 genes, is devoted to a single task: making sure humans can distinguish among a vast number of odorant molecules. Although it is often overlooked in analyses of human behavior, the sense of smell developed very early in evolution and is vital to the function and survival of most animals. Understanding how we respond to the vast array of odors is not only interesting in its own right, it also provides information about how the human brain operates more generally. Andrew Chess, M.D.,

discusses insights about the functioning of the olfactory system that have come from recent studies using the tools of molecular biology. He also examines the impact of these findings on the understanding of the rest of the nervous system. Dr. Chess is the Robert A. Swanson Career Development Professor in the Department of Biology and an associate member of the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1993 he received the Clinical Investigator Development Award from the National Institute of Deafness and Communicative Disorders. Dr. Chess is a graduate of Columbia University of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City, where he received the Dr. Alfred Steiner Award for Medical Student Research. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the Center for Neurobiology and Behavior at Columbia University.

FROM HOMOPHOBIC VIOLENCE TO GAY/LESBIAN ACCEPTANCE

Chp.: Dan H. Karasic, M.D.

10 Licensed to Kill (80 minutes)

Distributor:

Deep Focus Productions

4506 Paimero Drive

Los Angeles, CA 90065-4237

Despite increasing societal acceptance of homosexuality, antigay violence remains one of the most frequently reported hate crimes. Attempts to understand the ubiquity of antigay violence includes an exploration of both societal and psychological underpinnings of homophobia, as well as prejudice in general. Arthur Dong, whose acclaimed films have documented historical episodes of antigay and anti-Asian discrimination, provides a unique and compelling perspective on antigay violence in Licensed to Kill. In this unsettling documentary, Dong interviews seven men imprisoned for murdering homosexuals. The interviews allow the convicts to describe in their own words their motivations for killing. Winner of the Filmmakers Trophy and Best Documentary Director at the 1997 Sundance Film Festival, Licensed to Kill provides an unusual window into the minds of these seven men, allowing the psychiatric audience to draw its own conclusions about the psychology of the killers of gay men.

11 I Shall Not Be Removed: The Life of Marlon Riggs (50 minutes)

Distributor: California Newsreel

149 9th Street, Suite 420 San Francisco, CA 94103

This loving biography chronicles the heroic life of black, gay filmmaker Marlon Riggs, who died of AIDS in 1994. A fierce advocate of free expression, Marlon created soul-searching art at a furious pace. Clips from all eight of Marlon's works are shown and discussed. Marlon was a lightning rod in the civil war over funding for the arts in America. He also waged a passionate battle against AIDS.

12 Ali God's Children

(20 minutes)

Distributor: Transit Media Film Library

22-D Hollywood Avenue

Hohokus, NJ 07423

All God's Children is a short documentary about the black church's embrace of African-American lesbians and gay men as dedicated members of its spiritual family. Prominent religious, intellectual and political leaders, family members and activists speak out about the role of the church and the importance of a commitment to equal rights and social justice for all people. Interwoven with music, the intricately layered stories unfold on the screen creating a tapestry with the theme of spiritual understanding. Rev. Jesse Jackson, Rev. Cecil L. Murray, Bishop Carl Bean, Rev. James Forbes and Rev. Waylon Melton join theologian Cornel West in his call for fellow Christians "to not confuse the blood of Calvary with the Kool-Aid of homophobia in America." All God's Children includes strong statements of recognition and support from prominent African-American political leaders like Congresswoman Maxine Waters, Senator Carol Moseley-Braun and Mayor Ken Reeves. They reiterate the need to build a better society based on the common ground of civil equality. Families, church members and gay activists weigh in with heartfelt stories about exclusion and discrimination, then about inclusion and a call for healing. One mother, Dorothy Beam, says, "If most people could understand that if you're gay, you're beautiful! If you're straight, you're beautiful! Let's put all this beauty together. It would be a better world." A Woman Vision Production in association with: The National Gay and Lesbian Task Force and The National Black Lesbian and Gav Leadership Forum; produced and directed by Academy Award nominees Dr. Dee Mosbacher, Frances Reid and Dr. Sylvia Rhue.

OLD MYTHS OF MENTAL ILLNESS

Chp.: Alan A. Stone, M.D.

Participants: Frank S. Pittman III, M.D., Lawrence

13 Shine

(105 minutes)

Distributor:

Criterion Pictures

8238-40 Leehigh Avenue Morton Grove, IL 60053

Shine is the mythical story of a Jewish father whose overbearing pride, possessiveness and envy ruined his talented son, and an astrologer wife whose unconditional love eventually resurrected the victim and launched his professional career as a concert pianist. The film leaves no doubt that David Helfgott suffered a "nervous breakdown" and a very serious, prolonged mental illness. But much of the story is left implicit. We see Helfgott collapsing and passing out as he finishes a performance but are not told what led to his first hospitalization, which is crucial to our understanding of his illness. The screenplay also suggests that David was further victimized by unseen psychiatrists who gave him shock treatment, and in their ignorance, ordered him to stay away from the piano, his only route to salvation. For people who love David Helfgott's concerts and this movie, perhaps one important consideration is that Helfgott has made the journey from the back ward of a mental hospital to the stage of great concert halls. Helfaott's innocence is the psychological backbone of Shine. It insures that we see him as a pure victim. The tyrannical father tormenting his son out of his own egoism gives the audience its insight into how Helfgott was driven mad. In the film he relentlessly drives his only son to succeed at the piano, resents his success and refuses to let him pursue studies abroad. He puts a father's triple curse on his son: no one will ever love you as I do; if you disobey me you will be punished for the rest of your life; you can never come home again. Unfortunately, this film makes us weep for the wrong reasons. It is a docudrama that recycles old myths of mental illness.

Justice Richard Goldstone

The Prevention of Human Rights Abuses and the Healing of Victims: Is There a Role for Psychiatry?

Justice Richard Goldstone was appointed to the Constitutional Court of South Africa in 1994. He is head of the board of the Human Rights Institute of South Africa and president of the National Institute of Crime Prevention and the Rehabilitation of Offenders. In addition, he is Chancellor of the University of Witwatersrand in Johannesburg and a member of the Board of the university's School of Law. From 1991 to 1994 he served as chairperson of the Commission of Inquiry Regarding Public Violence and Intimidation, which became known as the Goldstone Commission. From 1994 to 1996 he served as the chief prosecutor of the United Nations International Criminal Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda. He is a member of the International Panel established in 1997 by the Government of Argentina to monitor that country's inquiry into Nazi activities in the Argentine Republic since 1938.

Professor Arthur R. Miller

Chp.: Samuel B. Guze, M.D. Co-Chp.: Julie K. Schulman, M.D.

Arthur R. Miller is the Bruce Bromley Professor of Law at Harvard Law School, where he has taught since 1971. Among lawyers he is nationally known for his work on court procedure, a subject on which he has authored or coauthored more than 25 books, and for his work on copyright and unfair competition. The general public, however, knows him for his work on the right of privacy. His book, Assault on Privacy: Computers, Data Banks, and Dossiers (1971) has been extremely influential. Professor Miller carries on an active law practice and has worked in the public interest in the fields of privacy, computers, copyright and the courts. He has been a Commissioner on the United States Commission on New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works, a member of the Advisory Committee on Civil Rules for the United States Supreme Court and a reporter for the American Law Institute's Project on Complex Litigation. For many years he has appeared on "ABC's Good Morning America" as the program's legal editor. He is the host of the weekly "Miller's Law" program on the Courtroom Television Network and appears frequently on other Court TV programs. He has also conducted Socratic dialogues for several acclaimed PBS series, including "The Constitution: That Delicate Balance," "Managing Our Miracles: Health Care in America" and "The Presidency." He won an Emmy award for "The Sovereign Self." Professor Miller received his law degree from Harvard Law School.

APA'S ADOLF MEYER AWARD LECTURE

Sir David Paul Goldberg, D.M.

The Course of Common Mental Disorders:

Vulnerability,

Destabilization and Restitution

Chp.: Carolyn B. Robinowitz, M.D. Co-Chp.: Susan M. Deakins, M.D.

A dimensional model for common mental disorders is used to argue that symptoms of anxiety and depression lie along two correlated dimensions, and that most episodes of disorders that are common in the community will include admixtures of these two symptoms. Sir David Paul Goldberg, D.M., explores the course of these illnesses and factors which determine individual vulnerability, including genetic characteristics and modifying events in childhood and adolescence. Destabilization of episodes is mainly related to stressful life events and characteristics of the current social setting, including social support, self-esteem and coping behaviors. Restitution or recovery is determined by the level of initial vulnerability, the presence of social stressors, the availability of social support and the occurrence of various types of life events during the episode. Dr. Goldberg is Professor of Psychiatry and Director of Research and Development at the Institute of Psychiatry and Director of Medical Education at the Maudsley Hospital in London. He designed the General Health Questionnaire, which has been translated into 48 languages and is one of the most widely used screening questionnaires in the world. He is the author of numerous scientific papers and the coauthor of Common Mental Disorders: A Biosocial Model. In 1996 he was knighted for services to medicine. Dr. Goldberg trained as a psychologist at Oxford before studying medicine at St. Thomas's Hospital. He trained in psychiatry at the Maudsley Hospital.

COMPUTERIZED MEDICAL RECORDS/PRACTICE MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE: PART I

Co-Chps.: Steven E. Hyler, M.D., Russell F. Lim, M.D.

14 Practice Management Software on the Cheap! Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

There is little argument against using computer programs to help manage your practice. One option is the purchase of an "all-in-one" practice management program. The disadvantages of this option are: 1) it can be expensive; 2) it may not be easy to customize for your practice; 3) it might be difficult or expensive to upgrade to keep up with the ever-changing forms of insurance companies, managed care companies and government agencies; and 4) there is a good chance that the company who sold you the software may not exist as long as your practice does! A less expensive option for anyone who doesn't mind (or who even likes) tinkering with software programs is to create your own "practice management" program using commercially available software that is either already on your hard disc or inexpensive to purchase. Using the combination of a contact management program, scheduling program, office suite (word processor/spreadsheet), and database program you can create a program that will be custom tailored to your own practice. These programs will be demonstrated.

15 Computer Psychiatric Record Creation and Use for Solo Psychiatrists (CPR-CUSP)

Cary L. Hamlin, M.D.

Psychiatrist data input of observations and classifications requires a method that will not distract attention from the patient and will permit mapping to a normalized database. The CPR-CUSP method fulfills those goals and has been used to create a database of over 2,000 patients. CPR-CUSP uses a Win32Intel PC, Wordpad.exe, datajunction.exe, and a single psychiatrist to create patient interview notes and to put those notes into a database case repository. Procedures of CPR-CUSP include: how to type encounter notes in a text editor; how to write an extraction script in DataJunction Extraction Language; how to use extraction script.djp in DataJunction.exe to tokenize concepts in patient.txt and extract values from them; how to write a datamodel for the values; and how to populate the database with the values from patient.txt. Once created, a computer patient record is an argument to powerful functions, such as report macros, SQL queries, neural networks, and fuzzy cognitive maps. Insurance companies and other large corporations have spent millions of dollars to develop computer patient records. A solo psychiatrist can implement an office computer patient record for about two thousand dollars.

16 Psych Script: Software to Create Typed Psych Notes Auby H. Axler, M.D.

This demonstration will show a new software (Psych Script) for the Newton hand-held computer. This software creates typed psychiatric consults and notes. This is done by a unique combination of templates and handwriting recognition, converting handwritten notes into type. These notes are created on the Newton hand-held computer and can be printed out directly or transferred to a PC. This allows the user to quickly write a note and have a completed typed note for enhanced communication and medical record keeping. All this can be done with a computer that receives e-mail and Internet and fits in the palm of a hand.

DIVERSITY: A CASE FOR MINORITY FACULTY

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

17 Shattering the Silences (86 minutes)

Distributor: California Newsreel

149 9th Street, Suite 420 San Francisco, CA 94103

"Diversity" may be the word of the hour on the nation's campuses, but faculty of color remain a rare sight, making up only 9.2% of full professors. At the same time, affirmative action is under attack across the country. Shattering the Silences, broadcast by PBS, tells the story of these academic pioneers, their scholarly contributions, how they've helped open campuses to students of color, and the stresses and challenges they face every day. Shattering the Silences wends its way through the culture wars and battles over multiculturalism to provide a unique look at campus life from the perspective of minority scholars from the humanities and social sciences, including Darlene Clark Hine, Alex Saragoza, Robin Kelley, Shawn Wong and others. This video may have lessons for psychiatry where the underrepresentation of ethnic minority faculty continues to exist in academic departments of psychiatry.

URBAN AND RURAL SYSTEMS OF CARE FOR THE CHRONIC MENTALLY ILL

Chp.: Elmore F. Rigamer, M.D.

18 Schizophrenia: The Community's Response (41 minutes)

Distributor: Concept Media

2493 DuBridge Avenue Irvine, CA 92714-5022

This documentary describes the deinstitutionalization movement and its impact. It discusses the community's response from several viewpoints including those clients, parents, medical and nursing professionals, law enforcement personnel, psychiatric personnel in the penal system and outreach workers. The program will examine issues such as importance of the family, adherence to medication regimens, stigmatization, dangerousness, and need for community outreach and support. Commentary by E. Fuller Torrey, M.D.

National Educational Film and Video Festival's Gold Apple Award Winner, 1996, in the Mental Health category.

19 In Their Shoes: Community Mental Health in Texas (29 minutes)

Distributor: Mental Health Needs Council

P.O. Box 270205 Houston, TX 77277-0205

In Their Shoes is a video documenting the prevalence and problems of persons with severe and persistent mental illness in the greater Houston area. It presents an overview of the nature of severe mental illness, as well as problems associated with homelessness and involvement in the criminal justice system. It captures the first person perspectives of persons with mental illness, their families, clinicians and public officials. Although primarily produced for lay audiences, this video has didactic value for students and faculty. It has received awards from the Texas Alliance for the Mentally III and the Houston Psychological Association.

20 Never Too Far: Rural Outreach for Serious Mental Illness

(18 minutes)

Distributor: Duke University Medical Center

Division of Social and Community

Psychiatry Box 3173

Durham, NC 27710

Severely mentally ill individuals are often poorly served in rural areas. Lack of transportation and cultural barriers often make treatment inaccessible. This video depicts a model of mobile outreach treatment in rural South Carolina that visits the homes and communities of rural mentally ill individuals and aggressively mobilizes treatment efforts.

National Educational Media Network 's Bronze Apple Winner, 1997.

Rabbi Burton L. Visotzky

The Dysfunctional Family As Moral Exemplar: Studying Genesis

Chp.: Maurice D. Steinberg, M.D. Co-Chp.: Bonnie R. Saks, M.D.

The study of the biblical book of Genesis outside the realm of religious hermeneutics gives rise to the possibility that the first book of the Bible is an ugly little soap opera about a dysfunctional family. Why have religious communities and even secular writers in the Western tradition afforded such pride of place to the work? Rabbi Professor Burton L. Visotzky applies Lawrence Kohlberg's theories of moral development to the study of Genesis and concludes that the several stories in the biblical book serve as moral dilemmas that are appropriate for group study and discussion to spur moral development. This interactive, nonjudgmental study of Genesis not only strengthens moral reasoning, but also strengthens community bonds and promotes the growth of listening skills. Burton L. Visotzky holds the Nathan and Janet Appleman Chair in Midrash and Interreligious Studies at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He is also Adjunct Professor of Biblical Studies at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. Professor Visotzky is the author of three scholarly books and two popular works, Reading the Book: Making the Bible a Timeless Text and the best-selling The Genesis of Ethics. With Bill Moyers, he developed the ten-hour television series "Genesis: A Living Conversation," for the Public Broadcasting Station and was featured as an onscreen participant. Professor Visotzky received a Master of Education degree from Harvard University and his Master of Arts, Rabbinic ordination and doctoral degree from the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Violence Prevention: A Public Health Mandate to Save Our Children

Chp.: Gloria Pitts, D.O.

Co-Chp.: Michelle O. Clark, M.D.

Violence takes a heavy toll on our nation's spirit, health and economy. However, the disparity between the high rate of homicide among young men in the United States and the much lower rates in other developed countries suggests that violence is preventable. Deborah Prothrow-Stith, M.D., discusses youth violence in the U.S. from a public health perspective, examines the risk factors that predispose certain children to act violently and explores violence prevention strategies that are available to communities. Dr. Prothrow-Stith is Associate Dean for Faculty Development, Director of the Division of Public Health Practice and Professor of Public Health Practice at Harvard School of Public Health in Boston. She formerly was Commissioner of Public Health for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. She developed and wrote the first violence prevention cumculum for schools and communities, entitled, Violence Prevention Curriculum for Adolescents and coauthored Deadly Consequences, a book for general readers that presented the view that violence is a public health problem. Dr. Prothrow-Stith has been instrumental in several local and national initiatives, including the Community Violence Prevention Project and the National Coalition of Survivors for Violence Prevention. She has received the Secretary's Award for Exceptional Achievement in Public Service from the United States Department of Health and Human Services and was appointed to the National Commission on Crime Control and Prevention in 1995. Dr. Prothrow-Stith received her medical degree from Harvard Medical School and trained in internal medicine at Boston City Hospital.

Educational Imperative: A Unified Psychotherapy Curriculum

Chp.: Jerald Kay, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Sidney H. Weissman, M.D.

The field of psychiatry needs a unified national approach for psychotherapy education to ensure that psychotherapy continues to be a significant part of the field's core identity. James H. Shore, M.D., proposes a unified educational model for the psychotherapies and discusses other critical issues in psychiatric education, including the need for more specific educational standards for accreditation of residency training programs and tor certification of individual psychiatrists. Dr. Shore is Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center and Superintendent of the Colorado Psychiatric Hospital. He has served as chairman of the APA Council on Medical Education and Career Development, president of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and president of the American Association of Chairmen of Departments of Psychiatry. A member of the Editorial Board of Psychiatric Services, Dr. Shore is the author of more than 125 scientific papers and book chapters and coauthor of the book Certification, Recertification and Lifetime Learning in Psychiatry. He has received the Commendation Medal from the United States Public Health Service, the Fellowship of the Foundation's Fund for Research in Psychiatry and the Distinguished Service Award from the Indian Health Service. Dr. Shore received his medical degree from Duke University and completed his psychiatric residency at the University of Washington in Seattle.

RAPE AND RECONCILIATION

Chp.: Cheryl A. Kennedy, M.D.

21 Rape: A Crime of War (60 minutes)

(OO ITHII ICTOS

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada P.O. Box 6100 Station Centreville Montreal, PQ, Canada H3C 3H5

This documentary follows the story of some extraordinary women and their battle to ensure that rape is understood by the world as a crime against humanity. It has been estimated that between 20,000 and 50,000 rapes were committed during fighting in the former Yugoslavia. From the perspective of victims, prosecutors and perpetrators, we are drawn into the horrors of rape as a weapon of war. Four women tell their story of forced confinement, rape and degradation in Bosnia and share how their experiences have influenced their perceptions of their partners, their children, society as a whole and themselves. The rapists claim they were acting upon a higher authority. Legal consultants at The Hague where the International Tribunal is investigating war crimes, discuss the implications of the trial of a former camp boss, the first person to be indicted for rape as a war crime. Interviews and archival footage of war crimes hearings in Nurenburg, Nanking, Bosnia and Rwanda are interspersed with images of Western art and culture which have romanticized, eroticized and legitimized rape.

22 Glimmer of Hope

(52 minutes)

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada

P.O. Box 6100 Station Centreville Montreal, PQ, Canada H3C 3H5

The death of a child is tragedy enough, but when the cause of death is random, brutal murder, the pain can be insurmountable. In the aftermath of horror, the greatest challenge can be to come to terms with grief and get on with life. For those who can't, anger and vengefulness may take over, making them victims of a crime that never ends. Glimmer of Hope shows the Streufert family trying to come to terms with the rape and murder of their 19-year-old daughter, Carin. Across North America, individuals and groups, many of them volunteer, are actively working to change the concept of justice through innovative, communitybased initiatives such as offender community service programs, victim/offender mediation and healing circles. These people are part of the restorative justice movement, founded on the principle of individual and community responsibility, which brings healing to both victims and offenders. The Streuferts are part of a growing movement of victims of violence. They are taking healing into their own hands by confronting those who have hurt them in a effort to understand the tragedy that has shattered their lives. By meeting the killers of their daughter they can ask the questions that plague them, hear the killers' version first-hand, and bring a monstrous act and its perpetrators into human focus, all in the hope of coming to terms with inexpressible loss and grief.

24 Mental Illness: The Family's Story (30 minutes)

Distributor: AMI of S.W. Pennsylvania 4721 McKniaht Road, Suite 216

Pittsburgh, PA 15237

The anguish of living with a family member who has a serious mental illness is described by four parents. This video moves from the initial shock, disbelief and grief that accompany the diagnosis of a loved one's serious mental illness to an eventual acceptance and a hope for a brighter future, recognizing the ongoing benefits of research, including the availability of new and better medications.

25 I'm Still Here, the Truth About Schizophrenia: A Non-Fiction Film

(67 minutes)

Distributor: Direct Cinema

P.O. Box 1003

Santa Monica, CA 94010

I'm Still Here, The Truth About Schizophrenia strips away the ignorance and fear associated with schizophrenia, reminding us that despite the distortions of personality and perception induced by a chemical imbalance of the brain, many of those living with this illness lead lives of extraordinary courage and accomplishment, deserving of our compassion and admiration.

COMPUTERIZED MEDICAL RECORDS/PRACTICE MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE: PART II

Co-Chps.: Russell F. Lim, M.D., Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

26 Comprehensive Clinician's Desktop Waguih Ishak, M.D., Tal Burt, M.D.

This presentation demonstrates how computer technology can be used in the service of the ultimate goal of medicine, which is to alleviate patient suffering. The introduction of computers in the second half of the 20th century has led to the development of tools that can help achieve this goal by optimizing patient care, enhancing psychiatric education, and promoting meaningful research. The Comprehensive Clinician's Desktop will be demonstrated. This application provides an all-in-one tool of charting, reference and communication, reducing the time spent on paperwork and repetitive tasks, and improving diagnostic and management skills in addition to performing billing functions. Participants will learn how to make use of stored data in generating information useful for administrative decision making, meeting educational requirements in training and simplifying managed care demands. An opportunity will be available to learn about the use of computers in education and training, including its promises and limitations. Participants will have the opportunity to participate in a debate over the future of such systems and their benefits and limitations including, but not limited to, confidentiality.

27 An Electronic Medical Record for Psychiatry Jesse H. Wright, M.D., G. Randolph

Schrodt, Jr., M.D., Glen D. Williams, R.N., Thomas E. Hedden, L.C.S.W.

The adaptation of commercially available software for a psychiatric electronic medical record is described and demonstrated. This system is based on Logician™ (produced by Medicalogic®), an electronic medical record widely used in general medical practice. Logician™ had not previously been equipped with modules for recording psychiatric evaluations and treatment records, but this software has several important advantages including a Windows format and the potential to be used in general hospital settings and multidisciplinary clinics. The psychiatric version of Logician™ presented here has been in use in a networked group of outpatient services in Louisville, Kentucky, for over one year. Clinicians and patients have responded very favorably to the introduction of this electronic medical record. Psychiatric records for Logician™, including initial evaluations, treatment session notes, prescription writing, laboratory testing and managed care reports are demonstrated. Results of clinician and patient surveys are also described.

28 Computer-Assisted Service Planning (CASP) Kemai Sagduyu, M.D.

CASP is a new Windows-based software application created for use by mental health clinicians, MR/DD staff, physicians, or anyone who needs to write plans for patients or clients. CASP is easy to learn and makes the writing of plans simpler and faster. CASP helps you from start to finish by providing a structured planning environment, targeting specific problem areas, suggesting treatments, and allowing the staff to develop individualized plans while continuously monitoring the progress. CASP meets all JCAHO and HCFA treatment plan requirements. CASP supports both clinical and nonclinical staff. It helps you to create a treatment plan that fits each individual by offering a variety of suggestions for possible diagnosis, associated problems, probable symptoms and potential treatments, all from a database that has been customized for your program. CASP has a multilevel security access system and a user-controlled, plan-locking system.

Ward Stories: Writing About Medicine

Chp.: Elissa P. Benedek, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Elizabeth C. Druss, M.D. For patients to be knowledgeable partners with physicians on the journey of their illness, they need at least a basic understanding of the disordered physiology being treated. Lucid, enjoyable narratives of human physiology and pathology written from the personal experiences of physicians who deal with patients every day can contribute much to fulfilling this need. Drawing on 15 years of experience in medical writing for scholarly and general audiences, Sherwin B. Nuland, M.D., author of the prize-winning book How We Die, discusses his methods of writing and his experiences in publishing and publicizing his work. Dr. Nuland is Clinical Professor of Surgery at the Yale University School of Medicine. His book, Doctors: the Biography of Medicine, which told the story of the profession through biographies of 14 of its most prominent practitioners, was published in 1988. His 1994 book, How We Die, a study of the modern way of death, became a bestseller and received the National Book Award. Dr. Nuland's latest book, The Wisdom of the Body: Discovering the Human Spirit, a wide-ranging study of history, human biology, ethics and the nature of humanity, was published in 1997. A Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Nuland has received the Person of the Year Award from the National Center for Death Education and the John P. McGovern Medal of the American Osler Society. Dr. Nuland graduated from Yale University School of Medicine and trained in surgery at Yale-New Haven Medical Center.

Dr. Alexandra Symonds' Legacy of Advancing Women Psychiatrists and Promoting Women's Mental Health: Sailing Toward the Next Millennium

Chp.: Carol C. Nadelson, M.D. Co-Chp.: Peter M. Steiner, M.D.

Alexandra Symonds, M.D., co-founder in 1983 of the Association of Women Psychiatrists, was its first president and newsletter editor, as well as a successful dual-career wife and sailor. She pioneered a number of programs and processes to advance professional opportunities for women psychiatrists and proposed new insights into women's unique psychiatric symptoms, syndromes and treatment needs. Leah J. Dickstein, M.D., examines the history of Dr. Symonds' professional contributions and recommends actions to secure equitable opportunities for women psychiatrists in all areas of professional activity. Dr. Dickstein is Professor, Associate Chair for Academic Affairs and Director of the Division of Attitudinal and Behavioral Medicine and Arts in Medicine Program in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Louisville School of Medicine. She is also Associate Dean for Faculty and Student Advocacy and Founder and Chair of the Committee of Women Faculty at the school. She is a former vice president of the American Psychiatric Association and current president of the American Association for Social Psychiatry. A member of the Consulting Editorial Board of American Psychiatric Press, Inc., she is the author of numerous scientific papers and the editor of five books. Dr. Dickstein received her medical degree from the University of Louisville and completed her residency in psychiatry at Norton Psychiatric Clinic and Louisville General Hospital in Louisville and Maudsley Hospital in London.

The Surprising Efficacy of Treatments for Addictive Disorders

Collaborative Session with the National Institute on Drug Abuse

Chp.: Patricia I. Ordorica, M.D. Co-Chp.: Teresa Frausto, M.D.

The high rate of relapse after treatment for addiction has led to the widely held belief among physicians and policy-makers that treatment is ineffective. Charles P. O'Brien, M.D., draws on a conceptualization of addiction as a chronic disorder to discuss data from controlled outcome studies showing that efficacy of treatment for addiction is comparable to that for other mental disorders and other chronic medical disorders. He also reviews modern treatments that use combinations of pharmacologic and behavioral approaches to prevent relapse. Dr. O'Brien is Professor and Vice Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania and Chief of the Psychiatry Service at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Philadelphia. The author of more than 325 publications in the areas of addictive disorders and biological psychiatry, Dr. O'Brien is a member of the Editorial Boards of Archives of General Psychiatry and the British Journal of Addiction. He has received the Wikler Prize for excellence in drug abuse research, the MERIT Award and the Pacesetter Research Award from the National Institute on Drug Abuse. A Fellow of the College of Problems of Drug Dependence, he has been elected to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences. Dr. O'Brien received his medical degree and

Schizophrenia, Dopamine Receptors and Antipsychotic Drugs

Chp.: Andrew J. Cutler, M.D. Co-Chp.: Robert L. Hendren, D.O.

Examination of dopamine pathways provides a useful approach to understanding the symptoms and treatment of schizophrenia and other psychotic disorders. Subtyping of dopamine receptors provides additional information. Philip Seeman, M.D., reviews the actions of antipsychotic drugs on the D2 receptor, examines what these actions reveal about psychotic symptoms and compares the effects of traditional and newer antipsychotic drugs on dopamine pathways. Dr. Seeman is Professor in the Departments of Pharmacology and Psychiatry at the University of Toronto. He also holds the Anne and Max Tanenbaum Chair in Neurosciences at the university. His research on the membrane actions of drugs led to the discovery of the antipsychotic receptor, now renamed the dopamine D2 receptor, and provided the experimental basis for the dopamine hypothesis of schizophrenia. A Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, Dr. Seeman has received numerous awards, including the Lieber Award from the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression, the Stanley Dean Award of the American College of Psychiatrists, the Tanenbaum Award for Schizophrenia Research from the Canadian Psychiatric Research Foundation, the first Prix Galien Award in North America and the Pasarow Foundation Award in Neuropsychiatry. Dr. Seeman received his medical degree from McGill University in Montreal and his doctorate in life sciences from Rockefeller University in New York City.

INNOVATIVE TEACHING OF PSYCHOPATHOLOGY

29 Paranoia

(23 minutes)

Distributor: University of California Extension

Center for Media and Independent Learning 2000 Center Street, 4th Floor

Berkeley, CA 94704

This innovative, thought-provoking visual essay explores one of the most intriguing and characteristic aspects of the American national psyche: our propensity to distrust virtually everything around us. The film examines the forces that influence our every day lives and ponders the extent to which we should, or should not, feel threatened by them. Distrust of authority is a traditional part of the American psyche, but today, people seem more disillusioned than ever with the institutions and values that underpin our society. At the same time, we all accept hundreds of dubious assumptions each day without ever questioning their leaitimacy.

30 Step on a Crack

(29 minutes)

Distributor: Fanlight Productions

47 Halifax Street Boston, MA 02130

Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder or OCD was once thought to be rare. It is now estimated to affect between 2-4% of the population, nearly five million people in this country alone. In this outstanding new video, six individuals with OCD talk about their feelings of isolation and lack of control and about being misunderstood by families, friends and the community. They also discuss the ways they have come to manage the disorder through medication, psychotherapy and behavioral therapy. Speaking out about the disease has helped them to educate an often skeptical public and empower others to seek help. Step on a Crack will be a valuable resource for patient and staff education, counseling and support groups, community outreach, and for schools of nursing, psychology and social work.

31 Deception: Munchausen's Disorder (52 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

People with Munchausen's Disorder invent illnesses in order to be admitted to a hospital. They repeatedly turn up in emergency rooms, claiming to be in acute distress and falsifying their medical histories. So convincing is their deception that they may even be operated on needlessly. This powerful documentary follows 41-year-old Nina and 26-year-old Simon. Nina has made over 500 hospital visits in her lifetime. Having once suffered a genuine ectopic pregnancy, she has faked many such emergencies and been operated on seven times. While Nina's case is tragic, Simon is an even more complex individual who exhibits a dangerous combination of medical obsessions and habitual lying. He often goes directly from the medical library, where he researches symptoms, to the hospital. Psychiatrist Dr. Ben John admits the medical profession is largely defeated by Munchausen's Disorder. These people divert valuable health resources from the truly sick in their endless drive to gain attention. Psychiatrist Dr. Michael Murphy of Queen Mary's Hospital observes that the typical Munchausen patient has few peer relationships and uses nursing and medical staff for social contact that does not become too intimate.

32 Turning the Tables (45 minutes)

Distributor: Janice Russell, M.D.

Psychological Medicine University of Sydney 2 Greenwich Road

Greenwich, Australia NSW 2065

This presentation is conveyed as an in-house video documentary. It was conceived after discussions with a family therapist and realized by Sally and Amanda, two participants in the inpatient program for eating disorders at the Northside Clinic, Greenwich, an affiliated teaching hospital of the University of Sydney. Sally and Amanda interview members of the clinical team while the latter eat a meal chosen for them by the interviewers. Through the role of competent journalists, these young women who have spent much of their adolescence in the thrall of anorexia nervosa, formulate searching questions, articulate a stronger voice and display a caring, at times mischievous, attitude toward the staff being interviewed. Their challenging voices are heard more strongly through their selfedited commentary where they reflect on the dilemmas of power and affiliation between clients and staff in the inpatient situation. The use of video technology can provide temporary, safe and creative spaces where these young women can engage in effective dialogue with their captors in the war about weight. Although other patients were initially reluctant to participate, some provided the graphics that effectively illustrate the questions posed. Staff were required to welcome the unexpected and to reveal something of themselves in the scrutiny of Sally and Amanda, turning the tables.

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

33 Contact

(150 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc

350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787-4305

Contact tells the story of Ellie Arroway (Jodie Foster), a scientist who has devoted her life to the search for extraterrestrial life (SETL) and finds it. Based on the late Carl Sagan's 1985 novel, Contact originates from the distinguished astronomer's lifelong study of planetary science and the radio search for extraterrestrial intelligence. Early in the film we come to understand Ellie's ambition as poignantly related to despair arising from the early loss of her father, who had encouraged her interest in radio communication. She perseveres against infinite odds in her hope of discovering radio signals of extraterrestrial life, which actually happens one day in the Arizona desert. Their signals provide blueprints for a machine that will transport one person to that world. After fate intervenes, Ellie takes that remarkable journey out to the very edge of the universe where her fondest hope is realized. When she returns to Earth, she (as well as we, the audience) is left to ponder with reverence the magnificence of the universe.

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

34 Responses in Music to Violence Against Women

Distributor: Keith Cheng, M.D.

Adolescent Psychiatry Emanuel Hospital

3001 North Gantenbein Avenue

Portland, OR 97201-3011

This media presentation is composed of 10 songs that depict women's responses to the subject of women as victims of violence. Eight songs will be presented using compact discs accompanied by 35mm slides of album cover art, and two songs will be presented on videotape. Some common themes in these songs are: 1) feeling helpless and passive; 2) fighting violence with violence; 3) victimization by society; and 4) an advocation of self-defense. All 10 songs were written by women and include a variety of views like the selfdepicting experiences of victimization as a bystander while another woman is being harmed. Songs have been collected from rap, popular and alternative music genres. Artists include Tori Amos, Bikini Kill, Tracv Chapman, Dionne Farris, Hole, Joan Jett, Sara McLachlan, Heather Nova, Queen Latifah and Tribe 8. Some songs graphically describe violent acts or contain adult language.

35 Packing Heat

(50 minutes)

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada P.O. Box 6100 Station Centreville Montreal, PQ, Canada H3C 3H5

In a culture of fear where women are assaulted by images of themselves as victims, the idea of picking up a gun and getting even is tempting. Women who carry firearms don't fit stereotypes: they can be softspoken liberals, doctoral students, or nurses. They see the right to pack a gun as an issue of women's empowerment; many call themselves feminists. Packing Heat profiles women of this emerging gun culture, from self-styled guru Paxton Quigley to a University of Toronto psychology professor who spends her weekends at the gun club. This video also features selfdefense advocates and anti-gun feminists who say that security doesn't come from the barrel of a gun, and that weapons makers are profiting from fear. Most of the women featured in Packing Heat say they feel safer armed. But with guns far more likely to kill a child than an intruder, is that a sense of safety or illusion? This lively documentary looks at why women want to carry firearms, and at the ethical and practical implications of a gun in every purse.

36 Trainspotting (93 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc. 350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787-4305

Based on a cult novel by Scottish author Irvine Welsh, Trainspotting is a riveting character study of five junkies who drift in and out of an uncharmed circle of losers. liars and thieves in a rundown English suburb. Directed by Danny Boyle (Shallow Grave) and featuring Jonny Lee Miller (Hackers), this emotional drama of betrayal and friendship is also a humorous tale of morality.

The Convergence of Neurobiology and Psychodynamics

Chp.: Jennifer I. Downey, M.D. Co-Chp.: Richard Balon, M.D.

In spite of Freud's anticipation, it is no more likely that psychodynamic theory will be reducible by neurosciences than the contrary, Maurice H.J. Dongier, M.D., contends that psychodynamic theory and the neurosciences have converged more than diverged, despite differences in concepts and techniques. Neurobiology is transnosographic and more congruent with psychodynamic dimensions than with the diagnostic entities delineated by DSM-IV or ICD-10. Psychic reality, fantasy life and anxiogenic conflicts are regulated by genes and neurohormonal functions and in turn modify brain structures and functions. The basic task of psychiatric research is to go beyond nosology to explore the mechanisms of such interactions. Dr. Dongier is Co-Director of the Alcohol Research Center at McGill University in Montreal. Previously he was Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at McGill University and Director of Allan Memorial Institute. The author of more than 175 scientific papers and book chapters, Dr. Dongier has consistently viewed the dynamics of psychopathology simultaneously from the psychological and neurobiological perspectives. Among his many honors is election as a Fellow to the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. He is a Founding Member of the International College of Psychosomatic Medicine, Dr. Dongier received his medical dearee from the Université de Marseille and trained in psychiatry at McGill University and the Université de Marseille.

Javier I. Escobar, M.D.

Immigration and Psychopathology: Is There a Connection?

Chp.: Silvia W. Olarte, M.D. Co-Chp.: Angela Pedraza, M.D.

The expectation that immigrants would be more susceptible to mental health problems than native-born citizens has been based on social theory and early research on acculturation. Javier I. Escobar, M.D., reviews data from a study of Mexican Americans that suggest the prevalence of psychopathology and disability may actually be lower among immigrants than among their U.S.-born counterparts. He also discusses recent data on a large multi-ethnic sample of primary care patients in which interesting differences in psychopathology and disability that favored immigrants over nonimmigrants were observed. Dr. Escobar is Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and Psychiatrist-in-Chief of the University's Community Mental Health Center in Piscataway, New Jersey. He is also Professor in the Graduate School of Applied Psychology at Rutgers University and Chief of the Department of Psychiatry at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick, New Jersey. Dr. Escobar is a current member of the APA Council on International Affairs and has been an advisor to the Division of Mental Health of the World Health Organization in Geneva. He is the author of more than 150 scientific publications. A native of Colombia, Dr. Escobar received his medical degree from the University of Antioquia School of Medicine in Medellin, and did his residency in psychiatry and completed a research fellowship in psychiatric genetics at the University of Minnesota.

Spiritual and Religious Issues in Psychopathology and Psychotherapy

Chp.: George T. Harding IV, M.D. Co-Chp.: Reverend Clark S. Eist, Ph.D.

The gap between the assumptions of psychiatric, medical and behavioral sciences and spiritual perspectives is being bridged by developments in physics, philosophy, research on the brain and consciousness, and spiritual conceptions of personality and therapeutic change. Allen E. Bergin, Ph.D., discusses ways of resolving problems in applying spiritual perspectives to the treatment of serious psychopathology. He distinguishes healthy and unhealthy ways of being religious, discusses methods for assessing religiousness and its positive and negative aspects, and describes spiritual interventions that show promise when integrated with standard therapies. Bergin is Professor of Psychology at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. He is the editor of five books and the author of numerous papers and two books, including A Spiritual Strategy for Counseling and Psychotherapy. A Fellow of the American Psychological Association, Dr. Bergin has received the association's Distinguished Professional Contribution to Knowledge Award. He has also received the Biggs-Pine Award for outstanding scholarly contributions to counseling and values from the Association for Religious and Values Issues in Counseling. Dr. Bergin is a past president of the Society for Psychotherapy Research and the Association of Mormon Counselors and Psychotherapists. He received his doctorate in clinical psychology from Stanford University and did postdoctoral research in psychotherapy at the University of Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute. THE INTERNET AND PSYCHOTHERAPY

Chp.: Russell F. Lim, M.D.

37 Psychotherapy on the Internet

Russell F. Lim, M.D.

The Internet is a dynamic, rapidly evolving and enlarging international computer network that enables the exchange of most forms of data, including text, graphics, audio and video among geographically distant mental health clinicians and their patients. The recent development of graphical interfaces to the Internet has made access to its resources much easier for individual users. In addition, the Internet's explosive growth has given consumers and mental health service providers greater access to its resources and capabilities. The Internet and how it can be used to provide treatment to patients will be described and demonstrated. The use of electronic support groups on the USENET, the use of Internet Relay Chat (IRC) for real time support groups run by consumers, the use of video conferencing in psychiatry and the use of specialized software for treatment of specific groups of patients will be reviewed. In addition, consultation and psychotherapy are available on the Internet, and websites for both will be demonstrated. Issues of security and confidentiality, liability and licensure also will be discussed.

38 Cytochrome Interactions via the Web Robert D. Patterson, M.D.

Psychiatric and other drugs frequently interact with the cytochromes. The interaction has the potential to increase or decrease blood levels and therefore seriously affect drug benefits and side effects. The numerous interactions and rapidly emerging knowledge about them are too great for clinicians to keep in mind. This program aims to provide a means to sort this information for use in clinical situations, and searches a comprehensive database about cytochrome interactions for potential effects among drugs. It can help spot potential problems when a new drug is added and it can help to choose the best drug to add from a group (such as antihypertensives). Ratings, clinical relevance and confidence are included as references. The program accesses the latest information via the Web. The database can be updated at the time a search is made or periodically when a Web connection is convenient. The "engine" for using the database is downloaded only once from the Web. This affords rapid program response, no necessity to be connected to the Web at the time of use, and yet completely updated information. This program can be incorporated into clinical record keeping or other large programs.

39 Computer-Assisted Psychotherapy

Jesse H. Wright, M.D., Scott P. Stuart, M.D., Monica A. Basco, Ph.D., Peter M. Steiner, M.D.

Recently developed software for computer-assisted psychotherapy may offer opportunities for improving efficiency and reducing cost of treatment. Early attempts to stimulate traditional therapeutic interviews have been supplanted with computer programs that use the unique features of computers to assist the human therapist. Contemporary programs for computerassisted psychotherapy typically employ easy-to-use interfaces that are suitable for a wide range of patients. Examples include multimedia computer programs, behavioral systems to promote exposure and response prevention, and interactive voice response. This presentation will provide an overview of programs developed for computer-assisted therapy and will demonstrate methods for clinical use of therapeutic software. Advantages and limitations of the different forms of computer-assisted psychotherapy will be discussed. Participants will be able to gain experience in using a multimedia program for cognitive therapy through a CD-ROM demonstration and discussion of cases of patients treated with this type of computerassisted therapy. The final segment will focus on advances in technology and software development that may lead to increased use of computer tools in psychotherapy.

40 Prevention of Substance Abuse Risk for Families at Risk

(66 minutes)

Distributor: Lawrence J. Hatterer, M.D.

Department of Public Health Cornell Medical Center

167 E. 79th Street

New York, NY 10021-0421

Three urban multiethnic families at risk for substance abuse on Thanksgiving, Easter and New Years Day holidays respond to their adolescent members' drugrelated auto accidents. Their common interactions and resolutions educate the viewer to etiologic factors that raise their consciousness of their denials of the multiple dimensions of the addictive process. These videotapes are currently in use for a National Institute on Drug Abuse prevention research study of Caucasian, African-American and Hispanic populations in New York City over a three-year period.

41 A Mother's Grief

(45 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.

5 Powderhouse Lane Sherborn, MA 01770

This intensely moving documentary follows a support group for mothers struggling to deal with the unthinkable—the death of a child. In this support group, you meet courageous women of various ages and backgrounds and watch as they are bound together by their sense of loss. Excellent for bereavement counselors, support groups and staff training.

Winner, Loss & Transition Category, Aquarius Film Festival

42 Grown-Up Tears

(28 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.

5 Powderhouse Lane Sherborn, MA 01770

Losing a parent can be one of the most difficult and painful times in our lives, despite how old we are. This video explores how adults feel about, and cope with, the loss of a parent through the eyes and experiences of seven individuals who are supported by three professionals. The participants share stories of what life was like at the actual moment of their parent's death, as well as their anticipation of the death of the parent. Excellent for professionals, training, bereavement groups and area agencies on aging.

Emotion, Memory and the Brain

Chp.: Jack M. Gorman, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Richard M. Brockman, M.D.

Considerable progress has been made in elucidating the brain pathways involved in fear, including those that allow humans to learn about novel threats and to detect and respond to threatening stimuli. Joseph E. LeDoux, Ph.D., reviews recent findings on the neural mechanisms undertying fear, including emotional learning and memory, and the interface with motor systems that control behavioral, autonomic and endocrine responses. He also examines how these advances may lead to more refined definitions of emotional disorders and hopefully to new, more specific approaches to treatment. Dr. LeDoux is the Henry and Lucy Moses Professor of Science at the Center for Neural Science and the Department of Psychology at New York University in New York City. He is the author of numerous scientific papers and three books, including The Emotional Brain. He is a member of the Editorial Boards of several journals, including Neuron, Learning and Memory and Behavioral Neuroscience. A member of the Dana Alliance for Brain

Research, he delivered the Solowey Award Lecture in Neuroscience in 1997. He is the recipient of a MERIT Award research grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. Dr. LeDoux received his doctorate from the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Frontiers of Science Lecture Series THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

empowering the individuals within a community to speak for themselves. By documenting this outreach from its inception, Straight Dope explores the many levels of working with a high-risk subculture. This video is designed to be used as an inspirational training tool for those interested in working with youth at risk today.

44 The Dark Side of the Moon

(25 minutes)

Distributor: Fanlight Productions

47 Halifax Street Boston, MA 02130

This moving documentary weaves together the stories of three mentally disabled men, formerly homeless, who have overcome despair, stigma and isolation to become valued members of their community. Joe, diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia, now provides peer counseling and manages an apartment complex for homeless men. After years of hospitalization for schizophrenia, Ron now advocates for patients' rights and is raising his six-year-old son as a single parent. John still struggles with paranoia, but now lives independently and works as an artist and poet. After years of feeling hopeless and helpless, through their relationships with understanding friends and community resources, they now help others.

This series of three clinical programs reveals additions and changes from DSM-III-R to DSM-IV for mood, psychotic and anxiety disorders. Each videotape focuses on one particular area of psychiatric diagnosis and contains enactments of three outstanding clinicians' actual patient interviews. Nancy C. Andreasen, M.D., Andrew H. Woods Professor of Psychiatry, University of lowa College of Medicine, is the interviewer for Psychotic Disorders. Andrew E. Skodol II, M.D., Associate Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, is the interviewer for Anxiety Disorders. Ellen Frank, Ph.D., Professor of Psychiatry and Psychology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, is the interviewer for Mood Disorders. Each videotape begins with an introductory discussion between the clinician and the moderator. The clinician then conducts three, 10-minute psychiatric diagnostic interviews. Following each interview, the clinician and the moderator discuss the taped segments and comment on issues illustrated during the interviews. These issues include: how the DSM-IV diagnostic criteria were utilized in the interview, how diagnostic markers were elicited and how interpersonal issues, as well as diagnostic markers were identified. The interviews utilize reference data to examine conclusions reached during the interviews. Each tape also demonstrates good interviewing techniques and highlights the development of a good doctor/patient relationship.

(77 minutes)

Distributor: Sweet Home Pictures

9819 Champa Drive Dallas, TX 75218

Can't You Hear the Wind Howl? shows the life and music of Robert Johnson. Over 50 years of mystery have surrounded this gifted bluesman who lived in the rural South of the 1920s and 1930s. Few details of his life were known; in fact, only two photographs of him are known to exist. He was a loner, who supposedly shook hands with the devil for his extraordinary talent, and who was murdered when he was just 27 years old. He could charm young women into a night's shelter and warmth as he drifted from town to town playing a circuit of juke joints, country picnics and street corners. He performed his original songs with unmatched intensity and style: songs about shady women, nights of terror, and walking with the devil-Hellhound On My Trail, Dust My Broom, Crossroad Blues, Walkin' Blues, Sweet Home Chicago and Come On In My Kitchen. Johnson recorded only 29 songs, but they constitute the most astonishing, influential body of work any bluesman has ever committed to wax. Now awardwinning actor Danny Glover takes us on an evocative and enthralling journey through Robert Johnson's short life by revealing for the first time his true story, based upon new factual information along with exclusive interviews with people who knew him, and by vividly recreating Johnson's life from boyhood to his death in 1938. Robert Johnson is portrayed by W.C. Handy Award-winning blues musician Kevin Moore (aka Keb' Mo'), who mimes both Johnson's guitar and voice to the original Vocalion recordings.

COMPUTERIZED MEDICAL RECORDS/PRACTICE

MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE: PART III

Co-Chps.: Steven E. Hyler, M.D., Russell F. Lim, M.D.

49 Booting Up Your Practice

Theron C. Bowers, M.D.

Although the computer is a common tool in many or most psychiatric practices, its use remains confined to primarily administrative jobs such as billing and scheduling. As a cognitive-based specialty with a primary task of collecting and evaluating patient information, electronic database management has numerous potential benefits for psychiatrists in all areas of practice. This presentation will explore issues regarding computerized clinical database management in psychiatric practices and examine potential barriers and challenges in maintaining electronic records. The presentation will also illustrate the benefits and goals of an efficient computerized clinical system by demonstrating a patient-tracking computer program based on a relational database. Using this program the presenters will show the basic requirements of a patient-tracking system, such as records of progress notes, mental status examinations and medications. They will also demonstrate more advanced and specialized features in tracking a patient's progress and monitoring medication side effects. Finally, there will be instructions on implementing a computerized record keeping system in private practice.

50 A Computer Assessment Using Scores and Naratives

Elliott D. Luby, M.D.

The basic model for computerized assessment will first be described using a computerized slide show with a laptop PC and an LCD projector. Although the model is very simply based upon expectations and performances, it is a transformation of Erikson's theory of the psychosocial development of children. Research has shown that to acquire confidence in self (autonomy) and confidence in others (trust), expectations of self and others have to be met through performances in 16 life vectors or basic biopsychosocial needs. This model identifies the cognitive distortions (erroneous expectations) and patterns of reaction (destructive performances) that prevent a person from functioning in the community, and even more to the point, how to correct them. The interview protocol is made up of checklists and open-ended questions and recorded in paper form. In the second part of this demonstration an example will be entered into the laptop, and the machine will then interactively construct a short summary of numerical scores, such as imbalances between expectations and performances; the number of serious problems noted; and narrative transcriptions when they occur. The resulting summary will be distributed.

51 Relational Database in Clinical Practice James H. Grubbs, M.D.

Commercially available relational database programs, such as Microsoft Access, can be readily adapted to psychiatric practice for the collection and analysis of clinically relevant data. Those data can then be used to fulfill multiple purposes, including the rapid preparation of clinical documents and reports, the analysis of patient populations and practice patterns, and quality improvement. This presentation will demonstrate the basic functions of a relational database and the associated word-processing and analytical programs. Participants will be able to discuss the use of these programs in their own practices. Simple queries will be produced on demand and more elaborate functions, such as merging documents and analyzing parts of the database, will be demonstrated.

Cocaine and the Addicted Brain
Collaborative Session with the National Institute on Drug Abuse

Chp.: Marc Galanter, M.D. Co-Chp.: Saundra L. Stock, M.D.

New insights into the ways commonly abused drugs affect the human brain have been made possible by positron-emission tomography (PET) and other imaging methods. Nora D. Volkow, M.D., one of the first researchers to use PET to study the biochemical and functional changes in the brain from chronic exposure to drugs of abuse, discusses findings from imaging studies of cocaine's effects on the brain. Reinforcing effects of cocaine appear to be a consequence of dopamine transporter blockade cocaine's fast pharmacokinetics. Studies in cocaine addicts have shown decreased function of the dopamine system and dysfunction in cortical areas known to be modulated by dopamine. These changes are likely to account for the anhedonia associated with chronic cocaine use and the compulsive drug administration characteristic of cocaine addiction. Dr. Volkow is Associate Professor of Psychiatry at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Previously she was Chairman of the Medical Department and Director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse/Department of Energy Imaging Center at Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, New York. She has received a Laughlin Fellowship from the American College of Psychiatrists and the Scanditronix Scholarship for Outstanding Young Nuclear Medicine Researchers. She is the author of more than 200 journal articles and book chapters and the editor of three books. Dr. Volkow received her medical degree from the National University of Mexico in Mexico City and completed postgraduate training in psychiatry at New York University.

The Empty Self: BPD in Historical Perspective

Chp.: Dilip Ramchandani, M.D. Co-Chp.: Janet E. Ordway, M.D.

Since the 1940s, studies of the American personality have painted a portrait of cultural and characterological decline, telling of the demise of a disciplined, patriarchal Victorianism that produced autonomous, inner-directed individuals and the rise of a modernity that vielded a superficial, other-directed and fundamentally disturbed personality as its paradigmatic figure. Over the same period, psychiatrists noted the disappearance of classically neurotic patients and the proliferation of those suffering from vague conditions of maladjustment and discontent. Since the 1960s they have diagnosed these patients as borderlines. Elizabeth Lunbeck, Ph.D., discusses the clinical and cultural emergence of borderline personality disorder and examines the extent to which the new diagnosis is implicated in the production of new types of patients. Dr. Lunbeck is Associate Professor of History at Princeton University. She is the author of The Psychiatric Persuasion: Knowledge, Gender, and Power in Modern America, which received the John Hope Franklin Prize from the American Studies Association and the Morris D. Forkosch Prize for the best book in intellectual history published in 1994. She is co-editor of Proof and Persuasion: Essays on Authority, Objectivity, and Evidence and the coauthor of an upcoming critical edition of an early American psychoanalytic case, entitled The Psychoanalysis of Rachel K. Dr. Lunbeck has received numerous fellowships, including a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship and several awards from the National Institutes of Health. She received her doctorate from Harvard University and was a postdoctoral fellow at the Rutgers-Princeton Program in Mental Health Research. THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

52 Dealing with the Demon: A Three-Part Series

(55 minutes)

Distributor: First Run Icarus Films

153 Waverly Place New York, NY 10014

After 75 years of a concerted global fight to restrict the supply of addictive drugs, the world is currently facing unprecedented levels of illicit drug production, with 10 times more heroin produced now than during the last "plague" of the 1970s. Dealing with the Demon is the story of opiates, told in three parts, which gives a powerful insight into society's epic struggle with all drugs of addiction.

Episode One: The Seeds of War

The Seeds of War traces the growth of the international drug trade and the failure of the United States-led process of international prohibition to contain it. The film opens with a bumper opium harvest in Afghanistan and links this to the recent rise in middle-class heroin use in the United States. This provides the launching point for an inquiry into the history of the drug trade, which takes us to former British opium factories on the banks of the Ganges and through the archives of Persia and China.

Episode Two: An Unholy Alliance

This episode examines the relationship between the drug trade and war, detailing the involvement of the CIA in Vietnam and Afghanistan during the Cold War. From the time of Chiang Kai Shek in China, through the front lines of the Cold War, in Southeast Asia, the Golden Triangle, and later in Vietnam, An Unholy Alliance examines how priorities designed to defeat communism led to the protection and spread of illicit drugs.

Episode Three: Containing the Fallout

The final film in the series investigates the spread of heroin use, its role in fueling the AIDS epidemic, and the most effective means for dealing with illicit drugs. In a remote village in Thailand, the film shows the devastating move by villagers away from traditional opium to the much more dangerous use of heroin, a widespread occurrence that is contributing to Asia's massive AIDS epidemic. The film then examines (in the United States and overseas) the historical evolution of what is called a harm-reduction strategy for dealing with drug use. In the United States, harm reduction is strongly resisted, because some have labeled it a form of "legalization." Containing the Fallout observes how the historical tussle between the criminal view and the medical view of illicit drug use is played out against a world-wide plague of opiate addiction. AIDS is finally forcing many nations, including our own, to confront the reality of failed drug policies.

53 Healing Wounded Hearts

(28 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.

5 Powderhouse Lane Sherborn, MA 01770

This outstanding new video is an excellent teaching tool for parents going through divorce and for their children, mental health professionals and divorce mediators. Fears, confusion, loss and just plain sadness often interfere with our ability to communicate feelings with loved ones about this painful process. Healing Wounded Hearts invites healthy discussion of the typical feelings associated with divorce. Listening to the thoughts and feelings of other children and parents about divorce gives us a window through which to explore our own feelings and begin the healing process.

54 When the Bough Breaks

(90 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Current theory holds that if a child does not properly attach itself to a caregiver in the first three years, the implications for later life are profound. This can show up as overly aggressive behavior, serious learning problems and delinquency. The film crew followed three mothers and their problem children, ages 10 months to three years. All represent middle-class, low-risk, intact families. The film traces them through three months of therapy at the C.M. Hincks Treatment Centre in Toronto. Two of the children have never slept through the entire night, and one child has a serious eating disorder. She holds food in her mouth for up to three hours, refusing to swallow. The families of these children are pushed to the edge of despair in trying to manage them. Cameras were placed in the homes of the families and tapes of therapy sessions were used to observe the behavior of the children and their interaction with their parents. It becomes clear that children, even before they can speak, give out signals of disturbance. If there is not proper intervention, the entire family can be thrown into turmoil.

55 Breaking the Cycle

(52 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This film looks at families struggling with preschoolers who have serious behavior problems; such as tantrums. rages, persistent disobedience, whining and hyperactivity. These are the traits that drive both parents and teachers to distraction. Many children with early antisocial behavior grow up to be persistent offenders in later life. Once they get into the criminal justice system, it is often too late to rehabilitate them. This video demonstrates how early interventions at a special needs preschool can help parents learn positive reinforcement tactics to break the cycle of oppositional behavior. Parents learn the techniques to control their children and teach them to control themselves. We watch the unflappable teachers interact with these difficult children, putting boundaries on their disruptive behavior. While the film is set in Great Britain, the emotions of the parents, behaviors of the children, support offered by professionals, and behaviormodification methods reveal universal themes.

JAPANESE AND VIETNAMESE STORIES OF TRAUMA AND RECOVERY

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

56 Momiji: Japanese Maple (26 minutes)

(201111110163)

Distributor: NAATA Distribution

346 Ninth Street, 2nd Floor San Francisco, CA 94103

The filmmaker offers an intimate and moving documentary about three generations of her Japanese-Canadian family. We see the psychological issues raised from her grandparents' immigration to Canada, internment during WWII (similar to the fate of the Japanese Americans), through the prosperous but intolerant 1950s and 1960s, and the present multicultural family.

57 Kim's Story: The Road from Vietnam (48 minutes)

Distributor: First Run Icarus Films 153 Waverly Place

New York, NY 10014

If there was one photograph that captured the horrific nature of the Vietnam War, it was that of a nine-year-old girl running naked down a road, screaming in agony from napalm burns that had eaten into her flesh. The photographer who took that picture of young Kim Phuc was awarded a Pulitzer Prize. Four years ago, she and her husband defected to Toronto, Canada, where they were given initial sanctuary by Quaker activist Nancy Pocock. In telling Kim's story, award-winning filmmaker Shelley Saywell filmed doctors and journalists who ensured her survival 25 years ago. In order to confront her past, Kim comes to America, where she meets many people who help fill in the holes of her story, the things she cannot remember or knew only from the perspective of an injured child. The climactic end shows her speaking at a Veterns' Day ceremony at Washington's Vietnam War Memorial and meeting a veteran who claimed responsibility for ordering the napalm strike that almost killed her.

58 The Shot Heard Round the World

(67 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

When Yoshi Hattori, a Japanese high school exchange student, was shot to death in 1993 by a suburban homeowner, the whole world was shocked once again at America's gun culture. Christine Choy, director of the award-winning film Who Killed Vincent Chin? spent three years researching the event and the ensuing criminal and civil trials. The result is this searing study of the pathology of urban fear, gun violence, criminal justice and cultural miscommunication. Yoshi had approached the Baton Rouge home of Rodney and Bonnie Peairs seeking directions to a Halloween party. Bonnie feared the stranger walking up her driveway and summoned her husband. Gun in hand, Rodney shouted "freeze" to which Yoshi, unfamiliar with the idiom, did not comply. Rodney then pulled the trigger. Yoshi's parents, who had raised their son to admire America, suffered their loss with dignity. They recall their son as an honor student who enjoyed life with his host family and was well liked by his new classmates. Rodney Peairs had an extensive gun collection. The film does not take sides regarding his claim that he was defending his rights as a homeowner. Avoiding simple answers, it serves up a complex picture, letting the audience draw their own conclusions about one of the most controversial criminal cases in recent years.

PSYCHIATRIC PERSPECTIVES ON RACE AND BOXING

Chp.: Ian R. Tofler, M.B.

59 When We Were Kings: The Untold Story of the Rumble in the Jungle

(180 minutes)

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.

350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway

Hauppauge, NY 11787

This award-winning documentary is the untold story of of the events and activities leading up to the boxing match between Mohammed Ali and George Foreman in Zaire in 1974. This program will address how the issues presented in this film affect the 1990s United States' racial relationships as seen in the world of sports. How sporting events transcend many societal boundaries will be discussed, and the importance of role models from professional sports will be evaluated. At the conclusion of this film, the panel will also discuss the role a violent sport, such as boxing, plays and what impact it has on the collective consciousness of the United States. This session, presented by members of the International Society for Sport Psychiatry, will explore the issues in the film with a focus on the response to the film by different demographic groups in the United States.

Justice Richard Goldstone

The Relevance of Justice to the Victims of Human Rights Abuses

Chp.: Deborah Spitz, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Karla A. Blackwood, M.D.

Countries emerging from periods of serious violations of human rights face a range of options, from impunity to criminal prosecution, for dealing with those thought to be responsible for the violations. Richard Goldstone, Justice of the Constitutional Court of South Africa, discusses whether truth commissions are an appropriate mechanism, examines how impunity has frequently resulted in further abuses and evaluates the effects of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission. Justice Goldstone was appointed to the Constitutional Court in 1994. He is head of the board of the Human Rights Institute of South Africa and president of the National Institute of Crime Prevention and the Rehabilitation of Offenders. In addition, he is Chancellor of the University of Witwatersrand in Johannesburg and a member of the Board of the university's School of Law. From 1991 to 1994 he served as chairperson of the Commission of Inquiry Regarding Public Violence and Intimidation, which became known as the Goldstone Commission. From 1994 to 1996 he served as the chief prosecutor of the United Nations International Criminal Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda. He is a member of the International Panel established in 1997 by the Government of Argentina to monitor that country's inquiry into Nazi activities in the Argentine Republic since 1938. The many awards he has received locally and internationally include the International Human Rights Award of the American Bar Association. Justice Goldstone trained in law at the University of Witwatersrand.

CREATIVE RESPONSES TO MORTALITY

60 A Healthy Baby Girl

(57 minutes)

Distributor: Women Make Movies, Inc.

Distribution Department 462 Broadway, Suite 500E New York, NY 10013

In 1963, filmmaker Judith Helfand's mother was prescribed the synthetic hormone diethylstilbestrol (DES), meant to prevent miscarriage and ensure a healthy baby. But technology is rarely a benign midwife. For more than 30 years pharmaceutical companies sold DES to millions of pregnant women in the United States, even though they knew the drug was ineffective and carcinogenic. At age 25, Judith was diagnosed with a rare form of DES-related cervical cancer. She went home to her family to heal from a radical hysterectomy and picked up her camera. Her video diary, A Healthy Baby Girl, is an intimate, humorous and searing exploration of what happens when science, marketing and corporate power come together with our deepest desires to reproduce ourselves. Shot over five years, A Healthy Baby Girl goes beyond loss to document a story of mother-daughter love, family renewal, survival, political awakening and community activism. An invaluable resource for anyone interested in the relationship between women's health, public policy, medical ethics and corporate responsibility. An ITVS production.

61 Dialysis: Living with Choices

(17 minutes)

Distributor: Lewis M. Cohen, M.D.

Department of Psychiatry Baystate Medical Center 759 Chestnut Street Springfield, MA 01199

We are unaccustomed to thinking of end-stage renal disease (ESRD) as a terminal illness, yet its mortality rate is higher than that associated with HIV or many types of cancer. While dialysis or transplantation sustain life, the underlying disease responsible for causing renal failure often continues its inexorable progress. The adjusted mortality rate for hemodialysis patients is 21.3/100 dialysis years, and the risk of death for a 45year-old maintained with dialysis is 20 times that of someone of the same age not on dialysis. Treatment can become a Sisyphean ordeal, and cessation of dialysis is increasingly an option. In New England, 24% of ESRD patient deaths are now preceded by dialysis discontinuation. Advance directives, such as living wills or health care proxies, are completed by only about 4% of our patients with ESRD. Perhaps not surprisingly, in a survey of the nephrologists and surgeons who care for these patients, only one out of 11 doctors had completed his/her own advance directive. We propose to establish a Renal Palliative Care Initiative to improve the terminal treatment of individuals with ESRD. As part of the program, this videotape will be used to promote discussion of end-of-life issues between patients, their families and staff.

62 The Nicholas Effect

(12 minutes)

Distributor: Corporate Productions, Inc.

Attention: Dick Ridgeway 4516 Mariota Avenue Toluca Lake, CA 91602

In 1994, seven-year-old Nicholas Green was murdered during a robbery while vacationing in Italy with his parents and sister. This moving video recaptures the decision of Californians Maggie and Reg Green to donate some of their son's organs (and tissue) to enable others to live and to have a future that Nicholas was denied. Footage of the boy at school, his funeral services and the Greens revealing facts about some of the individuals who benefitted from their altruism are sure to encourage others to emulate this charitable deed. These parents have transformed their private pain into increased public awareness of the need for organ donation.

63 Beautiful Dreamers

(105 minutes)

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada

PO Box 6100 Station Centreville Montreal, PQ, Canada H3C 3H5

This film is based on historical events. The superintendent of the London, Ontario, insane asylum, Dr. Maurice Bucke, despairs of the treatment methods in use during the Victorian era, which consisted essentially of restraint and electroshock. At a conference in Philadelphia, he makes the acquaintance of poet Walt Whitman. This meeting will radically change his life, and that of his wife and patients. Whitman, who travels to London at Bucke's invitation, has avantgarde ideas on the subject of mental illness, sexuality, the emotions and life in general, ideas that are also profoundly humanistic and enlightened. This film is based on historical events.

64 Whose Child Is This? (50 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

After the Indian tribes were vanquished in North America, the governments of the United States and Canada systematically destroyed their cultures as well. Young children were taken from the tribes and sent to missionary and government residential schools where they were not allowed to use their native language. By the time the schools closed in the 1960s, six generations had grown up without their parents, in alien environments. Having no parental models, they became poor parents themselves, prey to alcoholism and apt to be abusive. Often their babies would be whisked away for adoption by stable white families by social workers who deemed their Indian families unlikely to provide an appropriate environment. Thus, the tribes would lose many of their children. This film looks at several families in which adults have been repatriated. At 16 months Katrina was adopted by a loving Scottish family, which returned with her to Scotland. As she grew up, she felt increasingly alienated from the White society that surrounded her. Now a mother of a four-year-old, she returns to Alert Bay to find her roots. The film shows that it is a complicated emotional process to re-establish native ties on a reservation. In Idaho, a young Lakota boy is being claimed by his biological father. The White adoptive parents fear the trauma of separation could be devastating. There is an active tribal organization that scours the world for lost Native-American children and fosters repatriation. The film reveals both well-meaning and exploitive adoptive families and the wrenching process of trying to heal old wounds.

65 Where Have All the Children Gone? The Crisis in Rural Communities

(55 minutes)

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Focusing on North Dakota, this thoughtful documentary looks at the crisis facing many rural communities. What these communities are facing is the abandonment of farms, the departure of young people, closures of local schools and failures of small businesses. This is a poignant portrait of people who love their land but are being forced out by economic circumstances beyond their control. The attachment to the land is expressed by author Kathleen Norris, who evokes the unique beauty of the prairie. The filmmaker was one of the 12 children featured in this documentory who grew up in North Dakota. Only two remain in the state. She shows the hard economic reality with which the farmers struggle as family farms no longer support a new generation. The broader implication is that an entire region of our country could become a wasteland. How can this trend be reversed? Among the possible solutions shown are the more profitable business of processing the farm products locally rather than shipping such commodities to out-of-state foodprocessing plants. We see one co-op that is starting to do this. There is no single solution to this problem which demands national attention.

SINGLE MOTHERS OF CHOICE

Chp.: Gail E. Robinson, M.D.

66 Ms. Conceptions (56 minutes)

Distributor: First Run Icarus Films

153 Waverly Place New York, NY 10014

What makes a vibrant, college-educated, single, 30something woman decide to pack in the search for Mr. Right and pick up a $250 vial of sperm instead? Over the past decade, the birth rate among this group of women has nearly tripled. They may have given up on relationships but are unwilling to sacrifice motherhood. In their models of family, men are superfluous. Lea is 32 and has chosen artificial insemination, though it makes her feel "dirty" and leaves her wondering "who will really be the father of this child." Rebecca, 38, is tired of her "party girl" life and scours personal ads for a suitable "live donor." Anne, 39, who was "accidentally" impregnated by her ex-boyfriend, must cope with a wanted, but solitary, pregnancy. The film also looks at the burgeoning sperm industry from artificial insemination trade shows to custom-ordered sperm ("the specimen is available in standard or prewashed"), to the suppliers of raw materials, the anonymous donors who are helping to create children they will never know. As it examines both sides of the "single mother by choice" controversy, Ms. Conceptions charms as it lends invaluable insight into the "family values" debate raging in the political arena, the media, and the hearts of three women who decide to go it alone.

GUIDE TO USING THE TOPIC INDEX

Use this index to find sessions of interest to you. There are five overall topics: Disorders, Practice Areas, Subspecialty Areas or Special Interests, Treatments, and Other Issues. Under each overall topic, you will find subtopics listed in alphabetical order with the formats (type of session) listed alphabetically underneath. Within each format you will find the title of the individual session listed by number. The listing will also show the page number the session appears on. You should refer to the page number in this Program Book to obtain further details about the session.

AMERICAN PSYCHIATRIC

American Psychiatric Press

Review of Psychiatry Series, 1998

John M. Oldham, M.D., and Michelle B. Riba, M.D., Series Editors

Unlike in previous years, the Review of Psychiatry Series will now serve as the inspiration for individual paperback books on specific topics. This new format is designed to continue an ongoing commitment to making this series a vital reference for the practicing clinician, in a more accessible, low cost format. Contributors share their expertise in the areas of Child Psychopharmacology, Psychotherapy and Violent Crime, Psychobiology of Personality Disorders, Interpersonal Psychotherapy, Psychological Trauma, and Addictions.

Each volume includes a foreword and afterword by the editor(s) that summarize key points, and each chapter features an extensive bibliography. These volumes are expected to be available for purchase at the 1998 annual meeting.*
