

2022 CME & MOC Activities Guide

The American Psychiatric Association (APA) offers a number of educational initiatives that provide high-quality and innovative continuing medical education (CME) for psychiatrists and other mental health clinicians with the ultimate goal of advancing patient care. Please see below for a list of CME activities that assist APA members and the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology (ABPN) diplomates in meeting Maintenance of Certification (MOC) requirements.

APA reports CME and MOC completion data on behalf of our members directly to ABPN, however, diplomates are still required to log on to their ABPN Physician Portal at least once per calendar year to attest to completion of their MOC activities. Please click here for more information on the ABPN Maintenance of Certification (MOC) Program Requirements.

MOC Part 1- Professional Standing (Licensure)

To show evidence of professional standing, all board-certified physicians must continuously hold an active, full, and unrestricted license to practice medicine in at least one state, commonwealth, territory, or possession of the United States, or province of Canada. Full details of licensure requirements can be found in the General Information and Board Policies publication on the ABPN website. Licenses must be kept up to date in an ABPN Physician Portal.

MOC Part 2 - Lifelong Learning (CME) and Self-Assessment (SA) CME

The American Psychiatric Association (APA) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education (CME) for physicians.

Patient Safety Activities

The APA Patient Safety Education and Quality Improvement course will enable physicians to learn essential knowledge, skills and attitudes about safety that they can then apply to their own clinical environment. This program is intended to provide the foundation for a new culture and new practices through education on various topics required by the ABMS and some additional areas of interest. Modules are comprised of video and slide lectures.
