Position Statement on Medication Substitutions

Approved by the Board of Trustees, July 2015
Approved by the Assembly, May 2015

"Policy documents are approved by the APA Assembly and Board of Trustees. . . These are . . . position statements that define APA official policy on specific subjects. . ." – APA Operations Manual

The American Psychiatric Association opposes the practice of therapeutic interchange of psychoactive medication, including the interchangeability of generic and brand medications, without the express consent of the prescribing psychiatrist.

The above statement is considered a supplement to the Joint Statement on Anti-substitution Laws and Regulations, which was adopted by the American Psychiatric Association in February 1973, and is endorsed by a number of other medical societies.
