May 15, 1999

Dear Colleagues and Guests:

Welcome to the 152nd Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. This is the occasion when organized psychiatry displays its might in one of the largest educational, social and political medical gatherings in the world. The theme for 1999 is easy to remember, "The Clinician." I chose this theme because it represents the professional lives of most psychiatrists. I want to pay tribute to the attitudes, the skills and the knowledge of those who see patients day in and day out. Research has given precision to our diagnoses and effectiveness to our treatments. We are winning the war against anxiety and mood disorders, the psychoses, chemical dependence and the disorders resulting from structural damage to the brain. Psychotherapy and psychotropics are increasingly better targeted.

We are going to dialogue about new initiatives in mental health financing. Radical reform is possible with the use of tax exemptions-vouchers, defined contributions (as opposed to the fine benefits), and consolidation of programs to enhance individual control. Our presentations here are going to show that the business community can join us in the protection of the working community. Employees are not costs but assets, the human capital is the best source of profits, and the employers should work better with physicians and not with insurance companies. This meeting has presentations on individual initiatives, including cooperatives, alliances of small employers and medical savings accounts.

The Annual Meeting will have multiple programs divided among clearly defined tracks. Those interested in specific clinical issues, special populations, diverse settings, new research, new systems of reimbursement, new clinical strategies, and new findings that apply to the young, the old, women, rural populations, prisoners and others can focus more easily, while enjoying our rich display of progress in clinical knowledge.

While in Washington, DC, join us in visiting our legislators, talk to those who make rules in Washington, visit the best museums in the world, march with us for justice for the mentally ill, visit the psychiatric office of the future, and have the most fun in your life.

I want to congratulate the Scientific Program and Local Arrangement Committees for this remarkable and extremely successful meeting. For the coming year we are off to a super beginning which will ensure further advances for our patients and our profession. I wish to recognize the efforts of our Annual Meeting staff in organizing and making coherent, a complex law of daily challenges. Working in concert with the staff in the Meetings and Exhibit Management Office, they have again produced a miracle of organization, innovation and transformation into the future. Welcome to Washington.

Sincerely,

RA Muñoz MD

American Psychiatric Association
1999 Annual Meeting
Washington, DC • May 15-20, 1999

May 15, 1999

Dear APA Members and Guests:

Welcome to Washington, DC, and the 152nd Annual Meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. This exciting city, with its vibrancy, cultural diversity and excitement, provides a perfect setting for the presentations we have planned. As you read through the Program Book, you will notice a number of sessions related to the theme "The Clinician," chosen by our President, Dr. Rodrigo A. Muñoz. I draw your attention to the Presidential Symposium scheduled on Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., entitled "State Medicaid Programs: Access and Quality for Mental Health Care."

The Local Arrangements Committee, under the excellent guidance of its Chairperson, Dr. Richard S. Epstein, has developed a wide array of programs that will help you take advantage of our Nation's Capital. You will notice that a number of activities are designed especially for families and children.

The Business Meeting will be held on Sunday from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; all voting members are encouraged to attend. The Opening Session will be held on Sunday from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Exhibits will be open 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, and 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday. A very special Convocation is planned for this year, with a musical political satire performance by a local group called the Capitol Steps. The Convocation will begin Monday, May 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The Advances in Research session will be held on Monday at 10:30 a.m. This session highlights the latest research findings in psychiatry and summarizes their relevance to clinical practice. This has become an excellent way to start off the Annual Meeting's research programs, in conjunction with the Young Investigators' Poster and Oral/Slide Sessions also on Monday. You will find an expanded number of small group sessions, including Discussion Groups; Research Consultations with selected experts in the field; and Master Educator Clinical Consultations, a series of clinically-based seminars with outstanding clinician educators, which will be offered to APA members only.

A special aspect of our 1999 scientific program will be a series of collaborative sessions with the National Institute of Mental Health. Selected offerings in the various program formats will present exciting research discoveries and are designated throughout this book.

You will also note in the Program Book that we are continuing with our expanded series of noon Forums. This format allows us to schedule sessions that may not fit in the usual formats or that focus on late-breaking topics of importance to the field. I call your attention to the forum on "The Globalization of Psychiatry: Challenges and Opportunities" in which our President, Dr. Rodrigo A. Muñoz, and the WPA President, Dr. Norman Sartorius will participate. This Forum is scheduled on Monday, May 17, at 12 noon.

I strongly encourage you to fill out and return the evaluation forms for this meeting. The members of the Scientific Program Committee are interested in the opinions of the members regarding the quality of the content of the Annual Meeting. The information we obtain will be used to plan next year's Annual Meeting.

Once again, welcome to Washington. I look forward to sharing a week of exciting and professionally rewarding activities with you.

Sincerely,

Pedro Ruiz, M.D.
Chairperson
Scientific Program Committee

APA PERIODICALS

The American Journal of Psychiatry and Psychiatric Services will be located in the APA Periodicals Exhibit in the APA Resource Center and staffed during Resource Center hours. Staff of both journals will be available to answer authors' questions and to receive papers submitted for publication. Each journal publishes only original material not published elsewhere in any form and not being considered for publication elsewhere. Five copies and a disk are required for The American Journal of Psychiatry; six copies are required for Psychiatric Services. Persons who wish to contact editors or reporters of Psychiatric News should inquire at the APA Administrative Office, Room 6, Lower Level, Convention Center, where an editor can be paged. They may also leave written announcements, suggestions for articles, or letters to the editor for the newspaper's consideration.

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CREDIT

The APA is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

The APA designates this educational activity for up to 66 hours in Category 1 credit towards the AMA Physician's Recognition Award and for the CME requirement of the APA. Each physician should claim only those hours of credit that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Please note: Most portions of the scientific program, as outlined below, have been approved for CME credit. The scientific sessions of the official Annual Meeting program, with some exceptions, meet the criteria for Category 1 CME credit. Sessions in the following program formats are designated as Category 1: Advances in Research, Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences, CME Courses, a Debate, Forums, Industry-Supported Symposia, most Lectures, some Media Sessions, Medical Updates, New Research Oral/Slide Sessions, Research Advances in Medicine, the Presidential Symposium, Review of Psychiatry, Scientific and Clinical Reports, Symposia, and Workshops. Other program activities are designated Category 2; these include Research Consultations With, Discussion Groups, Master Educator Clinical Consultations, New Research Poster Sessions, and some Media Sessions, Lectures and Workshops. Scientific sessions are open to all Annual Meeting registrants, except for the Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences and the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, which are open to APA members only.

Please note: APA members are required to maintain their own records of CME hours. Reporting of CME credit is on an honor basis.

To document CME credit earned at the Annual Meeting, participants should record the sessions attended on the back page of the Certificate of Attendance found in the front of the 1999 Annual Meeting CME Syllabus & Proceedings Summary Book. Credit is earned on an hour-for-hour basis.

The Certificate of Attendance (or copy) may be forwarded to other organizations requiring verification of participation in the APA Annual Meeting.

The APA requires participation in a total of 150 hours of CME activities within a three-year reporting period. At least 60 hours must be in Category 1 activities.

CME report forms may be obtained from the Office of Education at the APA. Staff will be available at the Office of Education booth in the APA Resource Center to answer any of your questions about CME.

ANNUAL MEETING EVALUATION

The Annual Meeting Scientific Program Committee needs your recommendations and evaluations to plan next year's Annual Meeting. A participant evaluation form is enclosed with your registration packet and includes instructions for completing the form. BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE MEETING, PLEASE COMPLETE YOUR FORM AND DROP IT IN ONE OF THE EVALUATION BOXES LOCATED THROUGHOUT THE MEETING SITES. You can receive a parchment Certificate of Attendance at the Annual Meeting by returning a completed form (to the APA Administrative Staff Office, Scientific Program Office, Information/Locator Center or APA Resource Center, all located in the Convention Center) or by completing the computerized general evaluation in the APA Resource Center.

SESSION CAPACITY

We expect "sell out" attendance for many of the scientific sessions. So that all in attendance may benefit, we ask your assistance when overcrowding occurs:

- Please find seating as far forward as possible.
- Move to the center of the row and fill all seats so that chairs are available on aisles for additional attendees.
- Store materials under chairs to maximize seating capacity.
- Overcrowding of meeting rooms may subject the session to shutdown by the Fire Marshal; therefore, we urge all attendees to locate seating rather than stand in aisles or against walls.
- If space does not permit you to attend a session, an audio-tape of that session may be available. Please check the order form included in your registration packet.

Thank you for your cooperation.

AUDIOTAPES

Audiotapes of most sessions are available shortly after each session concludes and may be purchased at the Mobiltape Booth located in the Convention Center.

TAPE RECORDING AND VISUAL REPRODUCTION POLICIES

Audiotape recording is only permitted for personal use. Registrants are welcome to use their own small, portable audiotape recorders to record any session except the Master Educator Clinical Consultations, Clinical Case Conferences and the Continuous Clinical Case Conference, or unless prohibited by the presenters. Larger professional tape recorders, however, are not permitted other than those utilized by personnel representing the professional taping firm authorized by APA to audiotape sessions. The badges of personnel representing this firm will clearly identify them. Registrants are not permitted to videotape any session because the intrusive nature of the recording may disrupt the session.

SMOKING POLICY

There will be NO SMOKING in scientific sessions or in the exhibit hall. Smoking will only be permitted in designated areas.

CHILD CARE SERVICE

For the convenience of meeting registrants and their families, the APA, with assistance from the Local Arrangements Committee, has made arrangements for child care during the meeting. The child care service will be located in the Renaissance Washington Hotel. Hours of operation will be Sunday, May 16, to Thursday, May 20, 7:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m. Staffing will be available for children ages six months to 12 years.

GUIDE TO THE PROGRAM BOOK

Below, you will find the table of contents for ease in locating information about this meeting. A topic index is included to assist you with finding sessions of interest. The individual program for each day's sessions is listed by start time with the formats listed alphabetically under those times. NOTE: To make it easier for you to plan your day, we have prepared a separate "Days-at-a-Glance," which is included in your registration packet.

If you have any questions about this book or the scientific sessions, please feel free to stop by the Scientific Program Office in the Convention Center, and we will be glad to help you. Also, all central office APA staff members will be wearing green ribbons on their badges. Please feel free to direct your questions to them.

FORMAT DESCRIPTIONS

ADVANCES IN RESEARCH

This two-hour session is traditionally chaired by the Chairperson of the Council on Research, and co-chaired by the Chairperson of the Scientific Program Committee. After a brief overview of major advances in research in psychiatry, and a preview of selected research presentations scheduled at the Annual Meeting, leading clinical researchers present the latest developments in four different, clinically-relevant areas of research.

AIDS EDUCATION PROGRAM

APA's AIDS Program Office presents a two-day clinical update on the neuropsychiatric and psychosocial aspects of HIV disease and AIDS.

CLINICAL CASE CONFERENCES

During these 90-minute sessions, clinical material is presented by videotape or the treating therapist. One or more experts then discuss the case. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

COURSES

Courses are designed to emphasize learning experiences that actively involve participants and include the opportunity for informal exchange with the faculty. Offered in four-hour (half-day) and six-hour (full-day) sessions, courses either review basic concepts in a special subject area or present advanced material on a circumscribed topic. Enrollment is limited, and participants must purchase tickets to attend.

DEBATE

A controversial topic in psychiatry will be debated by experts in the field, including psychiatrists and non-psychiatrists. The debate format allows for members to hear both pro and con views about important, interesting and timely concerns for our members. The debate is moderated by someone who has expertise in the topic area. A portion of the time is allocated for questions from the audience to the presenters with active participation by participants.

DISCUSSION GROUPS

This 90-minute format allows small groups to meet informally with selected experts in psychiatry to discuss topics chosen by the experts. Some of these are reserved for residents only. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

FORUMS

These are flexible presentations that afford an opportunity to highlight and select topics that are of timely interest to psychiatrists. Speakers and panel members are chosen for their expertise and leadership in the field.

LECTURES

Lectures feature a small number of distinguished speakers discussing scientific and cultural topics, many of which will extend our understanding beyond the usual limits of clinical psychiatry. Lecturers are invited by the Program Committee.

MASTER EDUCATOR CLINICAL CONSULTATIONS

These are a series of 90-minute, clinically-based seminars with outstanding educators. Formats and subject matter will vary, but all will utilize clinical material offered by participants. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis. THESE SESSIONS ARE OPEN TO APA MEMBERS ONLY. BLUE REGISTRATION BADGE OR APA MEMBERSHIP CARD REQUIRED FOR ADMITTANCE.

MEDIA PROGRAMS

A media program may involve the showing of a videotape or computer software demonstration, followed by discussion. Specialized sessions focus on production or consumer/family issues.

MEDICAL UPDATES

These 90-minute sessions are designed to provide psychiatrists with the latest clinical developments in other areas of medicine. Topics may range from subspecialty areas of adult or pediatric medicine (infectious disease, cardiology, gastroenterology, etc.) to new techniques or procedures in surgery or radiology. The interface between psychiatry and these areas is not necessarily emphasized. The intent is to give participants an update from a physician in a particular specialty.

NEW RESEARCH

This format allows for presentation of the very recent findings obtained from ongoing research. The three types of presentations include: Oral/Slide, which are twelve-minute presentations with three minutes for discussion; Posters, which are visual, self-explanatory presentations; and Young Investigators' Sessions, with presentations from young investigators, residents, medical students, and research or clinical fellows.

NIH WORKSHOP

This three-hour workshop clarifies the grant making process for psychiatrists contemplating applying for an NIH grant. Representatives from NIAAA, NIDA and NIMH will discuss how to prepare a successful application for NIH research support.

RESEARCH ADVANCES IN MEDICINE

This two-hour format presents an overview of cutting-edge research in various aspects of medicine. In contrast to the Medical Update series, which is more clinically focused, this session will help participants keep pace with the rapidly expanding knowledge base and technology in various branches of medicine. Several speakers, authorities in their fields, will present on their topics.

RESEARCH CONSULTATIONS WITH

This 90-minute format provides an opportunity, in a small group setting, for participants to obtain consultations around problems in research from outstanding senior researchers. Participants should come prepared to present a specific problem in research, whether it's one of research design, methodology, subject selection or data analysis, etc., which could be presented briefly to the consultant. These sessions are limited to 25 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

REVIEW OF PSYCHIATRY

There will be five, three-and-one-half hour sessions presented, based on the annual American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry Series. Each session includes an abridged presentation by the senior author from each of the chapters in each volume. The topics were selected by the overall editors of the series, to represent current areas of new research, new developments in clinical care, and special issues of importance to APA members.

SCIENTIFIC AND CLINICAL REPORT SESSIONS

Scientific and Clinical Reports (formerly Paper Sessions) are oral presentations of papers prepared for submission before publication. In this 90-minute format, reports are grouped by topic, with floor discussion from the audience following the presentation of each paper. There is no formal discussant.

SOCIAL SECURITY WORKSHOP

Social Security Administration (SSA) officials present the history/background of SSA disability programs (including new legislative initiatives), describe how psychiatrists can best serve applicants for benefits, and review the clinical information required to expedite the disability determination process. During this three-hour session, time is allocated for group discussion of evaluation of impairments, what constitutes adequate evidence to support disability decisions, etc.

SYMPOSIA

Symposia are three-hour sessions consisting of four to six presentations that are thematically linked and focus on a specific topic relevant to clinical psychiatry. They are designed to provide comprehensive treatment of a topic or discussion of the topic from several points of view by the participants and stimulate discussion with the audience. Some symposia are supported by industry and are designated as "Industry-Supported Symposium" in this Program Book.

WORKSHOPS

Workshops are 90-minute sessions, which typically involve brief presentations from individual panel members, followed by the opportunity for lively and informative discussion. This format provides for substantial audience participation and should be highly interactive.

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION POLICY ON FULL DISCLOSURE

The American Psychiatric Association requires disclosure of the existence of any and all significant financial interest(s) or other affiliation(s) a presenter has with any commercial supporter(s) of these educational activities, and/or with the manufacturer(s) of any and all commercial product(s) and/or provider(s) of any and all commercial services discussed in the scientific program. The existence of such relationships does not necessarily constitute a conflict of interest, but the prospective audience must be informed of the presenter's affiliation with every commercial supporter by way of an acknowledgment in the printed program or syllabus. This policy is intended to openly identify any potential conflict(s) so that members of the audience in an educational activity are able to form their own judgements about the presentation.

The following presenters have indicated a significant financial interest or other affiliation with a commercial supporter of the session and/or with the manufacturer(s) of a commercial product(s) and/or provider of commercial service(s). The presenter's name, the manufacturer's name, and the page number(s) the presenter appears on in this Program Book are listed below:

AWARD LECTUREDaniel Brown, Ph.D., Alan W. Schefflin, J.D., D. Corydon Hammond, Ph.D.False Memory Lawsuits: The Weight of the Scientific and Legal Evidence

Chp.: Robert L. Sadoff, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Brian Crowley, M.D.

In recent years, several hundred malpractice lawsuits have been filed by former patients or third parties against therapists for allegedly implanting false memories of abuse. Daniel Brown, Ph.D., Alan W. Schefflin, J.D., and D. Corydon Hammond, Ph.D., authors of Memory, Trauma Treatment and the Law, examine weaknesses in the available scientific evidence and the forensic fact pattern, including the medical record and the historical and contextual evidence, that have been used to support plaintiffs' complaints. They discuss efforts that are needed to avoid malpractice litigation and develop the standard of care in trauma treatment, including identifying risk factors and establishing practice guidelines for clinicians treating patients who report abuse. Dr. Daniel Brown is Assistant Clinical Professor in Psychology at Harvard Medical School and Adjunct Professor at Simmons School of Social Work in Boston. He is also in private practice in Cambridge, Massachusetts, with specialties in trauma, behavioral medicine and forensic psychology. He is the author of ten books, including three textbooks on hypnosis. Dr. Brown currently serves as consultant and expert witness to the United Nations International War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia. He received his doctoral degree in religion and psychological studies from the University of Chicago and completed a research fellowship in social-behavioral science at Harvard Medical School. Professor Alan Schefflin is Professor of Law at Santa Clara University Law School in Santa Clara, California. He has been judicially recognized in federal and state courts as an expert on mind and behavior control, suggestion and suggestibility, memory and hypnosis. He is the author of six books and more than three dozen articles, book chapters and book reviews on psychological, psychiatric and legal issues. His book Trance on Trial, received the Manfred S. Guttmacher Award from the American Psychiatric Association and the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law in 1991. He was a primary author, along with Dr. Hammond, of the 1995 book, Clinical Hypnosis and Memory: Guidelines for Clinicians and for

Forensic Hypnosis, which received the Arthur Shapiro Award for Book of the Year from the Society for Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis. Professor Schefflin graduated from the George Washington University Law School in Washington, DC, and received advanced degrees in law from Harvard Law School and in counseling psychology from Santa Clara University. Dr. Corydon Hammond is Professor of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and Co-Director of the Sex and Marital Therapy Clinic at the University of Utah School of Medicine in Salt Lake City. He is a Fellow and past president of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis and a past chair of the Board of Trustees of the Society's Education and Research Foundation. He has been honored for his contributions to the advancement of knowledge in clinical hypnosis with the Society's Irving Sector Award and the Presidential Award of Merit. He created the credentialing program for the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis and is the primary author of their Standards of Training in Clinical Hypnosis. He is also the author of several journal articles, book chapters and books, including leading textbooks in hypnosis. Dr. Hammond received his doctoral degree in counseling psychology from the University of Utah.

(93 minutes)

Distributor: Sony Classics
550 Madison Avenue, 8th Floor
New York, NY 10022

In the Company of Men (1997) won several awards at the Sundance Film Festival. It was written and directed by Neil LaBute, who has been referred to as the Mormon version of David Mamet. It is rated R for language and emotional abuse. It is not a film for kids. The plot summary is that two junior executives, Chad (Aaron Eckhart) and Howard (Matt Malloy), are on a six-week business trip. The women in their lives have recently hurt both of them. To get even they devise a plan whereby they will find a vulnerable woman, romance her, and then when the time is right, dump her. They find Christine, an attractive and deaf office assistant (played by Stacy Edwards of TV's "Chicago Hope.") They set their scheme into motion, but everything does not go exactly as planned. Roger Ebert, of the Chicago Sun Times, gave this film four stars saying: "Now there is true evil." Alona Wartofsky, of the Washington Post wrote, "couples who see this film walk in the theater hand-in-hand...when they leave they are no longer touching. The women's arms are grimly folded across their chests. The men slink out of the theater." Bring someone that you love (or hate) to see this film.

(90 minutes)

Distributor: Facets Multimedia
1517 West Fullerton
Chicago, IL 60614

Bernardo Bertolucci's epic film tells the dramatic history of Pu Yi, the last of the Emperors of China. Placed on the throne at age three, he reigned briefly in the Forbidden City before becoming a puppet emperor of Japan's Manchukuo. Imprisoned by the Communist government, he was released to die as an obscure gardener. The discussion will focus on the psychological, political and cinematic themes in the Last Emperor drawn from the recent book Bertolucci's The Last Emperor: Multiple Takes. It won nine Academy Awards including Best Picture for 1987.

Childhood-Onset Schizophrenia:
What Has It Taught Us?

Chp.: Paula J. Clayton, M.D.

Childhood-onset schizophrenia has been recognized since the earliest descriptions of the disease. During this lecture Judith L. Rapoport, M.D., discusses findings of an ongoing study sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health that has been examining cases of this rare and severe illness since 1991. Clinical and neurobiological measures show continuity with the adult-onset disorder. Children with the disorder resemble adult patients with poor outcomes in having an insidious onset of the illness and treatment-refractory symptoms. Similarities are also found in the pattern of risk factors, including premorbid developmental abnormalities and cytogenetic abnormalities in the proband, familial schizophrenia and schizophrenia spectrum disorder and abnormal smooth pursuit eye movements in close relatives. Of particular interest, imaging studies have shown that patients with childhood-onset schizophrenia have a differential progression of brain abnormalities, which are seen during adolescence but dissipate when they reach early adult years. Thus, adolescence provides an opportunity to observe some late developmental trajectories that may be characteristic of the illness. Dr. Rapoport is Chief of the Child Psychiatry Branch of the National Institute of Mental Health, Professor of Psychiatry at George Washington University School of Medicine and Clinical Professor of Psychiatry and Pediatrics at Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, DC. Her research has covered several aspects of child psychiatry including diagnosis, childhood hyperactivity, pediatric psychopharmacology and most recently OCD. She is the author or coauthor of three professional books and more than 200 research journal articles. Dr. Rapoport is associate editor of Psychopharmacology Bulletin and a member of the Editorial Boards of several journals, including the American Journal of Psychiatry, the Journal of Psychiatric Research and Archives of General Psychiatry. She has received the Blanche F. Ittleson Award for Research in Child Psychiatry and the Award for Research from the American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Rapoport graduated from Harvard Medical School and completed residencies in psychiatry at Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston and St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington, DC. She received her training in child psychiatry at Children's Hospital in Washington, DC, and her research training at the Karolinska Hospital in Stockholm and the Laboratory of Psychology at the National Institute of Mental Health.

- 3 Confessions of a Rabid Dog
(48 minutes)

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada
350 5th Avenue, Suite 4820
New York, NY 10118

What's the heroin scene really like? Why do people start to use it? Can they ever stop? Confessions of a Rabid Dog delves into questions like these with the directness you'd expect from someone who's been there. The documentary's guide is director John L'Ecuyer, who spent seven years on the streets of Montreal as a junkie and sex-trade worker. Six heroin addicts in recovery, ranging in age from 20 to early 40s, share their experiences with him in a frank and unsentimental way. Interwoven with their interviews are evocative black-and-white scenes that re-create, in words and images, the emotional landscape of the drug-addicted. L'Ecuyer doesn't hide behind the camera. He tracks his own introduction to the drug scene in Montreal, his recovery in Ottawa and his new life in Toronto. His life may dispel the "once a junkie, always a junkie" myth, but, as Confessions shows, L'Ecuyer isn't hooked on self-deception. Recovery, he makes clear, is a lifelong process. Warning: This film contains explicit language and subject matter and some footage of drug preparation.

- 4 One for the Road
(36 minutes)

Distributor: Pyramid Media
P.O. Box 1048
Santa Monica, CA 90406-1048

The physical and mental devastation of lifelong alcohol abuse affects not only the drinker but also his or her friends and family. One for the Road focuses on this deadly web of alcoholism. Medical experts describe the physiological effects of long-term addiction, while recovering alcoholics such as musician Doc Severinsen and baseball great Don Newcombe offer more personal perspectives. The loved ones of drunk-driving victims tell their stories, and celebrities such as Chuck Norris, Carol Burnett, and Suzanne Somers provide a glimpse of how growing up with an alcoholic has affected the course of their lives. Despite its frank depiction of the ravages of alcohol addiction, One for the Road points the way towards the long but attainable road to rehabilitation and recovery that an abuser must undergo to survive.

Chp.: Gopalakrishna K. Upadhyaya, M.D.

5 Aparajito: Part II of the Apu Trilogy
(90 minutes)Distributor: Facets Multimedia
1517 West Fullerton
Chicago, IL 60614

This is Part II of the cinematic masterpiece The Apu Trilogy (1955-1958) by the great Indian director Satyajit Ray, shown in the restored print. It shows ten-year-old Apu completing school and eventually going to college in Calcutta. His mother loves her son very much and wants him to succeed, but she does not want to be left alone. Ray's cinematic style reveals profound humanism amidst existential and cultural despair. Part I, Pather Panchali, was shown at the 1997 APA Annual Meeting in San Diego.

APA'S BENJAMIN RUSH AWARD LECTUREBessel A. van der Kolk, M.D.*Social and Neurobiological Dimensions of the Compulsion to Forget and Repeat Trauma*Chp.: Dilip Ramchandani, M.D.Co-Chp.: Kenneth P. Gorelick, M.D.

Psychiatry, as a profession, has had a troubled relationship with the idea that traumatic experiences can profoundly and permanently alter people's psychology and biology. Periods of fascination with the effects of trauma have been followed by collective amnesia, in which well established knowledge was abruptly forgotten and the psychological impact of overwhelming experiences ascribed to constitutional or intrapsychic factors alone. Bessel A. van der Kolk, M.D., examines the historical antecedents of contemporary studies of the treatment of traumatized individuals and discusses ways in which social and political factors have interfered with honest scientific and clinical observations. Accurate scientific observation of the role of trauma in patients' lives continues to be problematic, although epidemiological studies and increased understanding of the neurobiology of trauma make it more difficult to ignore the effects of reality in shaping patients' biology and behavior. Dr. van der Kolk is Founder and Director of the Trauma Center in Boston, which specializes in treating traumatized children and adults and training clinicians for work with these populations. He is also Professor of Psychiatry at Boston University School of Medicine. Between 1990 and 1993 he was co-principal investigator for the DSM-IV field trial for PTSD, in which he and his colleagues delineated the chronic effects of childhood trauma in the genesis of adult psychopathology. Recently he has been involved in neuroimaging studies demonstrating how traumatic memories are stored differently than memories of ordinary events and how effective treatment may be able to reverse some of these changes. Dr. van der Kolk is former president of the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies, from which he received a Lifetime Achievement Award. He is the author of numerous scientific articles and the author or editor of three books, including Traumatic Stress: The Effects of Overwhelming Experience on Mind, Body and Society, which has been called the premier integrative text on the subject. Dr. van der Kolk graduated from the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine and completed his residency in psychiatry at Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston.

Rosalynn Carter

Beyond Medicine: Education, Advocacy,
Help and Hope

Chp.: Paul Jay Fink, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Paula G. Panzer, M.D.

Former First Lady Rosalynn Carter emerged as a driving force for mental health during the Carter administration, when she became active honorary chair of the President's Commission on Mental Health. Today, she continues her advocacy for mental health through her work at the Carter Center in Atlanta, a private, nonprofit institution she founded with former President Jimmy Carter in 1982. She will discuss the Carter Center's efforts to fight stigma and to improve the quality of life for people with mental illnesses around the world and will report on findings of the latest Rosalynn Carter Symposia on Mental Health Policy. Mrs. Carter created and chairs the Carter Center's Mental Health Task Force, an advisory body of experts, consumers and advocates promoting change in the mental health field. She is the author of four books including Helping Yourself Help Others: A Book for Caregivers and Helping Someone with Mental Illness: A Compassionate Guide for Family, Friends and Caregivers. Mrs. Carter has received many honors and awards for her support of mental health causes, including the Volunteer of the Decade Award from the National Mental Health Association, the Dorothea Dix Award from the Mental Illness Foundation and the Nathan S. Kline Medal of Merit from the International Committee Against Mental Illness. She is an Honorary Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association.

VIOLENCE: SOCIOCULTURAL PERSPECTIVES

Chp.: Elmore F. Rigamer, M.D.

6 Violence and Video Games

As American society has watched its youngest members become increasingly more violent, the controversy over what precipitates violent behavior has grown. An easy focal point is violence portrayed in the media. Instead of the passive experience of television and movies, video games make children active participants in fantasy worlds, which can often include representations of extremely violent behavior. This presentation will review research on the effects violent video games have on children and adolescents, and will feature a demonstration of violent video games like Carmageddon, Doom, and Duke Nukem. While the majority of studies suggest a short-term connection between violent video games and aggressive behavior, long-term studies have not been conducted. However, research has shown that violent television imagery has three effects: it models aggressive behaviors, it can cause emotional desensitization, and it can increase fear in children (the "mean world" effect). Much consideration should be given to how vulnerable children may understand the basic assumption of violence as a positive activity in many video games.

7 Breaking the Rule of Thumb
(35 minutes)

Distributor: Women Make Movies, Inc.
Distribution Department
462 Broadway, Suite 500E
New York, NY 10013

Combining powerful interviews with documentary footage, this timely and compelling videotape takes a comprehensive look at the issues still confronting battered women 20 years after the beginning of the domestic violence movement. Featuring the stories of three women, one a police officer who went through the Philadelphia family courts to ensure the safety of these women, Breaking the Rule of Thumb examines contemporary domestic violence in terms of changing historical definitions of abuse. Incorporating individual stories into a strong argument for legal reform, filmmaker Andrea Elovson exposes how the seemingly personal gender issues of domestic violence are inextricably tied to flawed ideas of civil justice.

8 Understanding Violence
(30 minutes)

Distributor: Films for Humanities & Science
P.O. Box 2053
Princeton, NJ 08543

This program features Dr. Carl Bell, one of the country's leading psychiatrists, who focuses on children who have witnessed violence, committed violent acts, or been the victims of violence. In this program, Dr. Bell argues that the cycle of violence in children's lives can be broken if we act early to deal with their trauma. Children capable of violence must be taught to empathize with the pain in someone else's life, allowing them to see the painful consequences of violence.

COMING APART: FILM AND GENERATION

Chp.: Harvey R. Greenberg, M.D.

9 Coming Apart (110 minutes)

Distributor: Milton Moses Ginsberg
155 Riverside Drive, Apartment 4A
New York, NY 10024

Milton Moses Ginsberg's 1969 feature film, Coming Apart, not only is a searing portrait of the psychological disintegration (and articulated boundary violations) of a talented mental health professional, it affords insights into the social ferment of the 1960s and 1970s. Ultimately, it represents an impressive experiment in depicting disordered subjective states through radically novel cinema rhetoric. The hero is a Manhattan psychoanalyst who has abandoned his family and moved into a luxury apartment to pursue the illusion of a "free" lifestyle centered around pharmacological and sexual experimentation. He sets up a hidden camera; through its frame, and only through its frame, the viewer perceives a dizzying succession of patients, lovers, friends and relatives. Some "takes" last five to ten minutes, others only a few seconds. The film culminates when a former patient, now an enraged ex-lover, hurls a chair through the one-way mirror and destroys the camera. Coming Apart initially received excellent reviews, until a savagely critical piece by Andrew Sarris of the Village Voice essentially ended its run. It went on to attain cult status over the succeeding theatrical exhibition.

Jambur V. Ananth, M.D.

The East Indian Population and Their Mental Health

Chp.: Edmond H. Pi, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Geetha Jayaram, M.D.

East Indians constitute a fast growing immigrant group in the United States, and their psychiatric care requires special skills in cultural sensitivity. Jambur V. Ananth, M.D., discusses characteristics of symptom presentation and expectations of psychiatric treatment among Indian immigrants. Dr. Ananth is Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of California, Los Angeles, and Director of the Psychopharmacology Unit and Clinical Director of Adult Psychiatric Services at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center in Torrance, California. He formerly was Associate Professor and Director of Research and Education in the Division of Psychopharmacology in the Department of Psychiatry at McGill University in Montreal. Dr. Ananth is the author of more than 300 scientific publications in the fields of biological psychiatry and psychopharmacology research. A Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons (Canada) and the Royal College of Psychiatrists (United Kingdom), Dr. Ananth is a member of the Human Subjects Research Committee of the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health and a member of the Committee of International Medical Graduates of the APA. He trained in medicine at Kasturba Medical College in Manipal, India, and completed a postgraduate fellowship at the National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro Sciences in Bangalore. He was a resident in psychiatry at Pilgrims State Hospital in West Brentwood, New York, and a Research Fellow at Douglas Hospital and McGill University in Montreal.

CHRONIC MENTAL ILLNESS: INNOVATION AND HEARTBREAK

Chp.: Richard E. D'Alli, M.D.

10 First Break
 (48 minutes)

Distributor: National Film Board of Canada
 350 5th Avenue, Suite 4820
 New York, NY 10118

For the majority of people diagnosed with a mental illness, the first episode occurs in their late teens or early twenties. It can be a terrifying, disorienting experience. For the making of First Break, three young adults and their families courageously come forward and illuminate, with compelling candor, their personal experiences. Over the course of a year, Simon, Ariadne and Shely allow us to share in the ongoing challenge of living with a diagnosis of mental illness, and its impact on their self-identities and family relationships. As a result, we are provided with a valuable perspective on the hopes, frustrations and achievements of three young adults whose lives have been dramatically changed by a first break. Engaging, honest and compassionate, this film dispels the myths and questions the stigma attached to mental illness, while offering a very human portrait of coping.

Winner, National Health Information Bronze Award.

11 The Bonnie Tapes: Recovering from Mental Illness
(26 minutes)

Distributor: Mental Illness Education Project Videos
22-D Hollywood Avenue
Ho Ho Kus, NJ 07423

In this Videotape, Bonnie talks with social worker Andrea Blodgett about the experience of having schizophrenia and what she has learned about coping with this illness. The discussions include the reality of the voices, the need to trust people, checking one's own perceptions and accepting the illness as part of recovery. Bonnie, her parents and Andrea discuss the role of medications, and they try to answer the question, "How much can one expect?" Finally, they explore the nature of recovery and the importance of not giving up hope. Bonnie is a delightful young woman who suffers from paranoid schizophrenia. The love that she and her family members share is clearly apparent in their frank and respectful discussions of their individual perspectives. Bonnie's struggle to recover offers a model of hope for patients, families and professionals. Her ability to articulate her feelings and thoughts opens a window to how it feels to have this dreadful disease. It is instructive as well to listen to Bonnie's sister describe her own reactions to the illness that took up so much of her family's emotional energy for so long. Since the completion of taping, Bonnie has graduated from college with a degree in psychology and found full-time employment as a counselor in a group home. She has moved into her own apartment. She hopes her widening circle of friends will sustain her through further rough periods in her illness.

12 Partnership in Recovery: Medicine, Management, Motivation
(22 minutes)

Distributor: Leslie G. Smith, M.D.
Arkansas Research/Training
4313 W. Markham, Hendrix 126A
Little Rock, AR 72212-3523

Patients with a history of violence who have comorbid chronic mental illness and substance abuse/dependence disorders are among the most challenging to treat and manage. Preliminary outcome studies of this population suggest that programs that integrate substance abuse treatment with mental health care are the most effective in reducing psychiatric morbidity and antisocial recidivism. Integrated programs, whose staffs are cross-trained in substance abuse treatment and mental health care, reduce the patient's burden of negotiating multiple, often uncoordinated systems of care. This video presents an overview of a revolutionary integrated program in Little Rock, Arkansas, which offers a true continuum of care from residential to assertive community treatment. The program is presented through the eyes of three patients who provide frank accounts of their histories and treatment experiences. The video follows the patients through the program's essential components, namely, targeted psychotherapy, modern psychopharmacology and community reintegration. Psychotherapy is individually tailored to the patient's abilities and follows a cognitive-behavioral model promoting engagement, persuasion, treatment and prevention. Medication management features the use of newer agents, which reduce the risk of cognitive impairment, extrapyramidal side effects and obtundation, thereby increasing the likelihood of CBT effectiveness. Another important part of this component is psychoeducation designed to increase the patient's understanding of his or her mental illness and the role of medications in recovery. Assertive community reintegration includes continuing, assertive medication management, which increases the likelihood of abstinence from substance abuse and promotes prosocial behaviors. The seamless, assertive continuum-of-care approach helps to ensure implementation in the community setting of skills learned in the residential setting. The three patients featured in this video represent a population of individuals who tend to be the most impaired clients in treatment systems. Their success, after a lifetime of defeat, reflects the effectiveness of this novel program.

13 At What Cost?
(39 minutes)

Distributor: Kimberly Settle
Tennessee Psychiatric Association
209 Tenth Avenue, South, Suite 506
Nashville, TN 37203

This year-long video project produced by the Tennessee Psychiatric Association, a District Branch of the American Psychiatric Association, was designed to document the problems with the TennCare Partners Program. This is the part of Tennessee's Medicaid Waiver Program that is responsible for the mental health and substance abuse benefits. TennCare is a bold attempt to replace Medicaid with a health care system managed by private companies. The program covers 800,000 Medicaid-eligible Tennesseans and an additional 400,000 of the state's uninsured or uninsurable. TennCare Partners, the mental health carveout, was implemented July 1, 1996. The tape features an array of providers and consumers who provide a close look at TennCare Partners. Many examples are given of cuts in service to the mentally ill because of underfunding, poor planning, and mismanagement of public sector managed care principles. Although the tape is one year old, and despite HCFA site visits, problems remain. The tape alerts planners to the possible pitfalls in this type of undertaking.

GENDER IDENTITY: A CHILDHOOD PERSPECTIVE

Chp.: Alan A. Stone, M.D.

14 Ma Vie en Rose
(180 minutes)

Distributor: New Yorker Films
16 West 61st Street
New York, NY 10023

Ma Vie en Rose is the first cinematic exploration of gender identity in young children. It is about Ludovic, a 7-year-old French boy who is convinced he is meant to be a girl. The Belgian-born director, Alain Berliner, was present to introduce the film at its Boston Film Festival premiere. He modestly informed us that this was his first full-length feature, as it was for all of the other principals on the production side. And then, with a sense of moral urgency unusual in filmmakers, he said that he had concluded that a film like this needed to be made. Many in Hollywood might share his sentiments, but it is unlikely that such a film could have been made in our bottom-line America. Producer Carole Scotta selected the story (by Chris Vander Stappens) and chose Berliner to direct it because she saw "son audace et sa poesie" as indispensable for realizing the story's fragile nature. By film industry standards, Scotta's audacity in producing the film is even more impressive. Ma Vie en Rose has no action, no violence, no romance, no aliens and no natural disasters; not even a recognizable star. It is certainly no comedy and, though it is a film about children, many conventional parents will not want their children to see it. In sum, it has no targeted audience. Yet in a world that genuinely prized and did not just tolerate difference, this film would have been made by Disney. It marks a new, truthful departure in cinematic understanding of difference in human sexuality and gender identity in children. Gay and lesbian themes are now commonplace in films, and audiences seem to take them in stride. It is difficult to know what to make of this. Are we now more tolerant, more empathic, more able to respond emotionally to the gay and lesbian erotica? Or is it that audiences, though more tolerant, have also become as inured to these images as they have to violence? Film has the capacity to deepen and purify the emotions or deaden the sensibilities. The outcome depends on both the filmmaker and his audience. Gay issues pose problems for both.

Discussants: Lawrence Hartmann, M.D., Mary E. Schwab-Stone, M.D., Richard C. Friedman, M.D.

HANDS-ON WEB WORK

APA Committee on Information Systems

Chp.: Bertram Warren, M.D.

Presenters: Thomas A.M. Kramer, M.D., Sol Herman, M.D., Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

Presentations and materials will include introduction to Windows technology, Web history and design, and navigation of the Web, specifically including APA's site. Information will be presented in a hands-on format and will include: how to use the Windows environment; exercises to become familiar with a mouse (for the beginning sections); how to use the Web navigation tools; and how to find the information you want when you don't know exactly who or what you are looking for. Skill development will include: how to familiarize yourself with the Web environment; how to find useful sites using search engines; how to find a site again that you like; how to handle searches that are taking too long; how to respond when you get error messages (e.g., can't find this server); how to set preferences and how to download and print from the Web.

WILLIAM C. MENNINGER MEMORIAL LECTURE

W. Walter Menninger, M.D.

W. Walter Menninger, M.D., is Chief Executive Officer of the Menninger Foundation, a non-profit center for treatment, education, research and prevention in psychiatry, founded in 1925 by his grandfather (Dr. C.F.), uncle (Dr. Karl), and father (Dr. Will). A Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, he has worked in both the private and public mental health sector and in the federal prison system. He has had an extensive career in psychiatric administration and forensic psychiatry. In 1968, he was appointed by President Lyndon Johnson to be a member of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence. He was elected to the Institute of medicine of the National Academy of Sciences in 1972, and he has received honorary degrees from Middlebury College, Washburn University, Ottawa University, and Heidelberg College. He has written extensively for both professional and lay audiences, authoring 10 books, pamphlets or monographs, 10 book chapters, more than 100 journal articles, and nearly 1,000 newspaper columns. Dr. Menninger received his undergraduate degree from Stanford University, and his medical degree from Cornell University Medical School.

Five Minute Intermission

Performance by the Capitol Steps Musical Political Satire

Performance by the Capitol Steps Musical Political Satire

The Capitol Steps are a politically correct, hygienic, bipartisan troupe of current and former Congressional staffers, of whom five (plus a pianist) perform at any one show. The group began in 1981, at a Christmas party in the office of the former United States Senator Charles Percy. Like most things in Congress, they never know when to stop. Over the past sixteen years, the Steps have recorded seventeen albums, and appeared on "Good Morning America," "The Today Show," "20/20," "Entertainment Tonight," and "The Late Show." They've had dozens of songs on National Public Radio's "All Things Considered," done national radio shows produced by KCRW, and appeared in their own specials for public television. They've been regularly featured on CNN's "Inside Politics," and, most recently, Off-Broadway.

A Capitol Steps song parody starts long ago, and far away, where some other performer sings a perfectly good melody with words that have nothing to do with Bill Clinton's saxophone skills, Newt Gingrich's haircut, or anything else truly important. Then something funny has to happen (it always does). Typically the Republicans goof up and the Democrats party. Or the Democrats goof up and the Republicans party. That's what we call the two party system.

Psychiatry's Shifting Foundation: Research Up,
Reimbursement Down, Managed Care Challenged*Chp.: Pedro Ruiz, M.D.Co-Chp.: Claire C. Holderness, M.D.

Psychiatry has come a long way from the first half of the 20th Century when it focused on inpatient care, heavy use of state hospitals and psychoanalytic treatment, but gave scant attention to diagnosis and psychopharmacology. From the 1950s through the late 1990s waves of interest have included deinstitutionalization, community mental health, development of the DSM, psychopharmacology and neuroscience. Herbert Pardes, M.D., traces the evolution of psychiatry, examines trends in research that are likely to influence psychiatry and offers a template for psychiatry's going forward. Dr. Pardes is Vice President for Health Sciences, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and Lawrence C. Kolb Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University in New York City. From 1978 to 1984, he was Director of the National Institute of Mental Health. He has served as president of the American Psychiatric Association and of the American Association of Chairmen of Departments of Psychiatry. He is a member of the Editorial Boards of several journals, including the Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease, Community Mental Health Journal and the Journal of Child and Adolescent Psychopharmacology. He has received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill, the Scientific Research Leadership Award from the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression and the Seymour D. Vestermark Award for Psychiatric Education and the Distinguished Service Award from the American Psychiatric Association. He received his medical degree from the State University of New York College of Medicine and completed his psychiatric residency at Kings County Hospital, both in Brooklyn, New York. He received his psychoanalytic training at the New York Psychoanalytic Institute.

Steven E. Hyman, M.D.

How Neuroscience Continues to Change Psychiatry
Collaborative Session with the National Institute of Mental Health

Chp.: Carol A. Tamminga, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Ilise D. Lomardo, M.D.

Neuroscience is fundamentally altering our concepts of mental illness and holds promise of providing improved treatments and eventually preventive strategies. Steven E. Hyman, M.D., Director of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), discusses current neuroscience approaches to the study of mental illness, including genetics, molecular and cellular neuroscience and cognitive and integrative neuroscience, and examines the challenges psychiatry faces in incorporating these approaches into its practice. Under Dr. Hyman's leadership, NIMH has been reorganized to orient basic science research around the Institute's clinical and public health mission, emphasizing effective use of technologies and rapid clinical application of new knowledge. At Harvard Medical School, Dr. Hyman was Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Interfaculty Initiative in Mind, Brain and Behavior, a program focused on clinical and policy issues surrounding brain research. He has received several awards for his contributions to research, including the Nancy Pritzker Award for his work on mood disorders. In addition to his scientific writings, Dr. Hyman has authored and edited several basic and clinical textbooks. Dr. Hyman received his medical degree from Harvard Medical School, completed his psychiatric residency at McLean Hospital and was a clinical fellow in neurology at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, where he also received postdoctoral training in molecular biology.

MULTICULTURAL WOMEN'S PERSPECTIVES ON DIVERSITY

15 The Way Home
(92 minutes)

Distributor: World Trust
5920 San Pablo Avenue
Oakland, CA 94608

World Trust is a nonprofit organization that in 1994 launched Heart-to-Heart Conversations, a national program of public dialogue designed to help people share deep feelings about race and culture. Through these conversations, participants are encouraged to look deeply within themselves, to discover and recognize their embedded assumptions, and to challenge them as part of the process of transformation. In 1996, World Trust initiated The Women's Video Project. Over the course of eight months, 64 women, representing a cross-section of cultures in America, came together to share their experiences of oppression through the lens of race. Separated into eight ethnic councils (Indigenous, African American, Arab, Asian, European American, Jewish, Latina, and multiracial), the women explore their stories of identity, oppression and resistance. It is the intention of World Trust to use this video as a catalyst for powerful learning, healing and transformation.

16 Computerizing Medical Records for a Large Outpatient Division
Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

The acute outpatient division of the St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Medical Center covers much of the west side of Manhattan in New York City. The clinic includes an access center for all new evaluations, an outpatient center for ongoing treatment, and a transitional day hospital. There are more than 1,200 patients who are treated there by at least 50 different clinicians. Each week over 20 new patients are evaluated and referred for treatment. The amount of paperwork generated by the clinic to clinically manage the patients, keep track of staff activity, satisfy government agencies, third party payers and managed care organizations, ensure accreditation by JCAHO, etc., is overwhelming. This presentation will focus on the implementation of a new computerized medical records system at the clinic from the perspective of: 1) the department chairman; 2) the chief financial officer; 3) the clinic director; and 4) the clinician. This presentation will include a demonstration of the TIER system, by Sequest Technologies, which was chosen by the medical center for the task of computerizing the medical records of the clinic at first, then the whole department.

17 Using An Access-Based Relational Database

James H. Grubbs, M.D.

Clinicians are under increasing pressure to better manage data. Computer-based databases provide clear advantages over paper-based records. However, using several databases (i.e., one each for clinical, financial and outcome data, etc.) can be costly in terms of both time and money. Relational databases which are integrated internally and can be connected to applications outside the database itself, such as word processing and analytical programs, are powerful tools used to streamline the capturing of data in a non-redundant way, allowing them to be used productively. Microsoft Access is a readily available relational database program that can be integrated with a number of other commercially available programs. When Access is packaged with Word and Excel, it forms the basis of Microsoft Office. BIMS is a clinically useful relational database created out of Microsoft Office 97. This session will provide a thorough demonstration of BIMS, including all aspects of the applications. The applications will be demonstrated during the presentation. After the presentation, all audience members who desire one will receive a copy of BIMS via e-mail.

18 Computer-Assisted Assessment Psychotherapy Education and Research (CAPER) Treatment Planner

Peter F. Fore, M.D.

Development of written plans is a complex and time-consuming task for clinicians. Assuring that treatment plans are prepared according to Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) standards is a complex and time-consuming problem for administrators. The CAPER Treatment Planner, which is PC-based software that the clinician uses to generate individual treatment plans, eases these tasks. The clinician selects from a menu of pre-set phrases in four categories: 1) problems (diagnoses and behavioral manifestations); 2) long-term goals; 3) short-term goals; and 4) interventions. Each phrase can be edited by the clinician. The pre-set phrases can be modified by the system operator or the clinician. Efforts have been made to write the pre-set phrases to satisfy the JCAHO requirement for measurable goals. The system can run on an individual personal computer or a network. It is highly customizable and can be used for both inpatients and outpatients. A large urban VA medical center has recently satisfied JCAHO standards with this system. This medical center integrated the PC-generated plans with the VA's computer system (DHCP) by uploading the plans to the VA's computer system for permanent storage and wide access in patients' electronic records.

FILM AND HEALING: MAYA, COMPASSION AND I - THOU IN CHAPLIN'S CITY LIGHTS

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

19 City Lights

(90 minutes)

Distributor: Facets Multimedia
1517 West Fullerton
Chicago, IL 60614

City Lights is Charlie Chaplin's great masterpiece about the power of courage and compassion in the healing process. It tells the story of a tramp's love for a blind flower girl, whose sight he eventually restores. Yet in one of the cinema's greatest moments, the heart of compassion emerges from the veils of illusionary daily life to show the power of caring and gratitude. The laser disc version to be shown will bring together an archive print with a 1992 re-recording of the original soundtrack by Chaplin.

Childhood Maltreatment and Adverse Outcomes: A Prospective Developmental Approach

Chp.: Lenore C. Terr, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Mark W. Wilson, M.D.

Childhood maltreatment, with an incidence of more than one million cases a year, is increasingly associated with a host of negative outcomes ranging from PTSD, dissociative disorders, BPD and somatization disorder to depressive symptoms, suicidality and self-mutilation. Recent epidemiological studies strongly implicate child abuse as a major risk factor for substance abuse, HIV infection and high rates of medical care utilization. Yet the very heterogeneity of outcomes raises questions about the specificity of maltreatment as a contributing factor. Drawing on a decade of prospective longitudinal data on the effects of sexual abuse, Frank W. Putnam, M.D., examines the complex psychological, biological and social developmental pathways leading to this diverse array of negative outcomes. Tracing developmental trajectories for both psychopathology and competence reveals clinical and social opportunities for early interventions that can restore health, order and function to the lives of children victimized by maltreatment. Dr. Putnam is Chief of the Unit on Developmental Traumatology at the National Institute of Mental Health. He is a pioneer in the field of developmental traumatology, the study of the effects of trauma over the life span. His most recent book, Dissociation in Children and Adolescents: A Developmental Perspective, examines the role of trauma and adverse family environments on child development. Dr. Putnam received his medical degree from Indiana University School of Medicine in Indianapolis, completed his residency in adult psychiatry at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut, and received his training in child and adolescent psychiatry from the Children's Hospital National Medical Center in Washington, DC.

Early Intervention Strategies in Different Phases of Schizophrenia: How Effective?

Chp.: Francine Cournos, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Michael C. Dulchin, M.D.

Early intervention in the treatment of schizophrenia may take place during the prodromal phase with the aim of preventing illness onset, during the early phases of a first schizophrenic episode and during the prodromal phase of relapse for patients who have had prior psychotic episodes. Marvin I. Herz, M.D., reviews the results of research on early intervention at these various stages of the disorder. Dr. Herz is Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry and Attending Psychiatrist at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester, New York. He chaired the American Psychiatric Association Work Group that developed the Practice Guideline for the Treatment of Schizophrenia. The current president of the American College of Psychoanalysts, Dr. Herz is a Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association. He has received the Stanley Dean Award for Research in Schizophrenia from the American College of Psychiatrists. He is the associate editor of the International Journal of Partial Hospitalization and the author of numerous scientific articles and book chapters. Dr. Herz graduated from the Chicago Medical School, completed his psychiatric residency at the Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Institute of Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago and received his certificate in psychoanalysis from the Columbia University Center for Psychoanalytic Training and Research in New York City.

Distributor: Films for Humanities & Science
 P.O. Box 2053
 Princeton, NJ 08543

The program featured from this series is Justice Pursued. Rwanda, Argentina, East Germany and Bosnia have been the locus for the most heinous acts of the last 20 years. In this program, Gerald Gahima, Rwanda's Minister of Justice, has the unenviable job of tracking down hundreds of Rwandans accused of perpetrating hideous atrocities against their neighbors during that country's recent civil war. We follow Gahima to Israel where, in an emotional meeting with a former Nazi-hunter, Gahima receives advice on how to proceed. A survivor details the torture and murder of thousands of young Argentines. In East Germany, newly discovered Stasi training tapes paint a brutal portrait of political repression behind the Berlin Wall, while in Bosnia, efforts to track down the perpetrators of ethnic cleansing are ongoing.

21 Secrets of S-21: Legacy of a Cambodian Prison
(30 minutes)

Distributor: Films for Humanities & Science
P.O. Box 2053
Princeton, NJ 08543

In the Cambodian city of Phnom Penh stands a compound that once served as a high school. During the bloody rule of the Khmer Rouge, it was a prison where 17,000 men, women and children were incarcerated, and only four emerged alive. In this documentary, two American photographers painstakingly piece together the details of the genocide that took place at S-21 through thousands of photos left behind by prison officials. The photos and interviews with former prison guards and prisoners reveal a world built on power, fear and total disregard for human life and dignity. A BBC production.

This Sundance Film Festival award-winning film shows in rich, humorous detail the cultural identity and cultural relations issues faced by young American Indians today. The first film ever produced, directed and acted by American Indians, it is a refreshing and amusing portrayal breaking many stereotypes. Two Coeur d'Alene Indians, tough, brooding Victor and likable, nerdy Thomas, travel from their Idaho reservation to Phoenix to retrieve the remains of Victor's dead father and discover some truths about themselves along the way. Through the help of Thomas and his father's final friend Suzy, Victor is able to find resolution and peace.

Silvia W. Olarte, M.D.

Doctor Where Are You From? The International Medical Graduate in the U.S.

Chp.: Norma C. Panahon, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Jambur V. Ananth, M.D.

International medical graduates (IMGs) constitute 20 percent of the physician workforce in the United States and 23 percent of the membership of the American Psychiatric Association. Compared with psychiatrists who are American medical graduates, psychiatrists who are IMGs are overrepresented in city, county and state psychiatric hospitals and underrepresented in solo office practice, group office practices and medical school and university positions. In a recent survey, 900 APA members who are IMGs were asked about their graduate medical specialization in their country of origin, specialization and subspecialization in the U.S., current patterns of practice, board certification, academic involvement and participation in research. Silvia W. Olarte, M.D., discusses the survey findings and their implications for the future IMGs in American psychiatry. Dr. Olarte is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at New York Medical College in Valhalla, New York, and Training and Supervising Psychoanalyst at the College's Psychoanalytic Institute. She is also Associate Adjunct Psychiatrist at Lenox Hill Hospital, Associate Attending Psychiatrist at Metropolitan Hospital Center and is in the private practice of clinical psychiatry and psychoanalysis in New York City as well. Dr. Olarte is chairperson of the Committee of Hispanic Psychiatrists and Deputy Representative for the Hispanic Caucus to the APA Assembly. She is a fellow and past president of the American Academy of Psychoanalysis. Dr. Olarte is a graduate of Cuyo National University Medical School in Mendoza, Argentina. She completed her residency in psychiatry at Elmhurst City Hospital in Queens, New York, and at Metropolitan Hospital Center, where she also completed a Fellowship in Group and Family Therapy. She received her psychoanalytic training at the Psychoanalytic Institute of New York Medical College.

Carolyn B. Robinowitz, M.D.

Women in Medical Leadership: How Far Baby?

Chp.: William H. Reid, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Paul Rodenhauer, M.D.

The increased number of women in medicine has not been reflected by a proportional increase in their representation in higher levels of medical management. Carolyn B. Robinowitz, M.D., examines factors related to women's attainment of leadership positions and describes how institutions and organizations can change to address inequities that can undermine the success of women leaders. Dr. Robinowitz is Dean and Professor of Psychiatry at Georgetown University School of Medicine. From 1976 through 1994 she was a staff member at the American Psychiatric Association, serving as the first Director of the Office of Education, as Deputy Medical Director and as Senior Deputy Medical Director and Chief Operating Officer. The current president of the American College of Psychiatrists, Dr. Robinowitz was the first woman psychiatrist to be elected a director of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and its only woman president. She has received numerous awards for her psychiatric leadership, including the Distinguished Service Award and the Seymour D. Vestermark Award from the APA. Dr. Robinowitz graduated from Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, completed her general psychiatric residency at the Bronx Municipal Hospital Center in Bronx, New York, and completed a residency and fellowship in child psychiatry at Children's Hospital in Washington, DC.

COPING WITH EMOTIONAL ASPECTS OF MEDICAL ILLNESS AND PHYSICIAN SUICIDE

Chp.: Ian E. Alger, M.D.

24 Whose Death Is It Anyway?

(90 minutes)

Distributor: Choice in Dying
1035 30th Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20007

Using segments from the videotape, Whose Death Is It Anyway? and video material depicting several family situations, this presentation will provide the opportunity to discuss guidelines to help families cope with the painful ambiguities of threatened loss during an illness. Using a systems model that integrates different kinds of illnesses with the family's denial, psychological/physical loss, difficulties surrounding end-of-life decisions and transgenerational experiences will be discussed. Various issues highlighted in the video will be examined, and the group will interact with one another in sharing their expertise and experience.

Discussant: Anita Menfi, M.Ed.

25 When All Is Said and Done

(29 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.
5 Powderhouse Lane
Sherborn, MA 01770

This video is devoted to the terminally ill and their family members, demonstrating ways in which dying can become a time for forgiveness, letting go and connectedness. The viewer has the opportunity to witness several family meetings between family members and the individuals who are dying. During this sacred time, family members openly share issues that have rarely been spoken of before and say goodbye to each other. The stories shared are powerful examples of encouragement and support that will help professionals in their work with the dying and their families.

26 When Physicians Commit Suicide: Reflections of Those Left Behind

(23 minutes)

Distributor: Media Services Center
St. Paul Hospital
1081 Burrard Street
Vancouver, BC, Canada V6Z 1Y6

When physicians kill themselves the heartache for family, work colleagues, friends and their patients is profound. Many "survivors" struggle with feelings of disbelief, guilt, remorse and anger. Shame and a conspiracy of silence often preclude an open discussion of the physician's life and legacy. In this videotape, survivors of physician loved ones who have committed suicide talk about their loss, their journey of healing, and the reactions of physician colleagues, friends and family, and make wise suggestions to us in the health professions who treat physicians and their families. Also included are the poignant works of a physician who, struggling with major depression, attempted suicide during her residency. Grateful to be alive, she explains not only the pain of depression but that it is a treatable illness. Her message is full of compassion and hope for physicians who live with depression. This videotape should further diminish the stigma associated with mental illness in physicians. The target audience is medical students and physicians (and their families), medical school deans, directors of training programs, medical licensing board personnel, physician well-being committees, hospital administrators, all professionals who treat ill physicians and the countless survivors who have lost loved ones to suicide.

29 Forensic Psychiatry

Harold J. Bursztajn, M.D.

The Internet lends itself to being an ever-expanding resource of up-to-date information for the practicing psychiatrist. In this presentation, we will cover several categories of Web sites: women's/men's health, geriatrics, psychopharmacology and forensics. Information on aging from preventative aspects to treatment considerations for the public and the health care professional has been provided by numerous sites. Women's health issues on the World Wide Web have been linked to such major resources as the American Medical Association; however, men's health resources tend to be more scattered throughout the Web. Psychopharmacology will be covered by exploring Psychopharmacology Tips, which is an innovative resource on the Web. Practical suggestions will be submitted by the audience, then selected, edited, indexed and adapted for the Web by the presenter. The ease of use and the utility of Psychopharmacology Tips, as well as the role of such a resource, including clinical, ethical, legal and technical issues, will be discussed. The Web has become a valuable research tool as well as a gateway for interdisciplinary access to psychiatry. The presenter will explain the uses of the Web to collaborate with medical professionals and other medical specialties around forensic psychiatry issues. Moreover, a review and analysis will be made of how to make psychiatric knowledge accessible to other professionals such as attorneys and risk managers.

30 The Treatment of Depression in Long-Term Care: Interactive CD-ROM Training

Jules Rosen, M.D., Marcia Kollar, M.S.W.

An interactive video CD-ROM entitled "The Treatment of Depression" will be demonstrated. This is one of a series of 12 computer-based training modules designed to educate the staff of nursing homes. Using the latest interactive, computer-based video technology, you will see nursing home residents, their families and caregivers tell their stories in a documentary-style format that demonstrates key principles of caring for the elderly in nursing homes. Nursing home staff participate in decision making and assessments through the use of interactive technology. In this module, the nonpharmacological principles of treatment for depression are presented through the stories of two residents. Aunt Ginny was near death from her depression until she began treatment after being put in a nursing home. Through the special efforts of a treatment team and one special relationship with an employee, Ginny experienced a total recovery. A second story is about Gertrude. Through the words of her son Paul, the staff learned who Gertrude was for the 95 years of her life prior to coming to the nursing home. Through this understanding (assessment), they were able to construct a behavioral treatment plan that contributed to her recovery. The third vignette includes an interactive exercise in which the viewer conducts an assessment and constructs a treatment plan for Delores based on her on-camera interview.

31 A World Wide Web Survey of Physician Knowledge of Alzheimer's Disease
Harry Karlinsky, M.D.

Determining current physician knowledge of Alzheimer's Disease is the first step towards identifying what information needs to be more effectively disseminated to physicians. To accomplish this objective we are conducting a survey using the Internet, a powerful new research tool. With the University of British Columbia Ethics Committee's approval, physicians can now view a World Wide Web site concerning the clinical diagnosis of Alzheimer's (www.alzheimerdrsvy.com) and submit their results online to 32 self-evaluation questions. Twelve of these questions are based on short videos depicting simulated clinical interactions. Demographics of the responding physicians are also elicited and include gender, age, medical specialty, type of practice, years in professional practice, country of practice, and percentage of clinical practice related to geriatrics and Alzheimer's. Since the site's launch on June 15, 1998, 30 physicians from eight countries have participated in the survey. The mean percentage of correct responses is 79%. Only 33% of the respondents viewed the entire survey, with a significant drop-off occurring when the first question with a video was introduced. Implications for future survey design will be discussed, as will the general advantages (timeliness, minimal cost, wide distribution) and disadvantages (biased subject response, malicious data) of conducting health research on the Internet.

A FRENCH PERSPECTIVE ON BPD: BETTY BLUE

Chp.: Steven E. Hyler, M.D.

32 Betty Blue
(120 minutes)

Distributor: Cargo Films
9 rue Ambroise Thomas
73009 Paris, France

First a precautionary note: Betty Blue is in French with English subtitles. It is R rated, containing explicit scenes of nudity, sex and violence. Anyone who feels that they might be offended should consider not viewing this film. Children under 16 should definitely not attend. Made in 1986, Betty Blue was adapted from the book entitled 37 degrees 2 Le Matin. The screenplay was written by Jean-Jacques Beineix and Philippe Djian, who wrote the original novel. Jean-Jacques Beineix, who is better known for the film Diva, directed it. Jean-Hughes Anglade plays the role of Zorg, and Beatrice Dalle plays Betty. Zorg is a handyman who is working at a bungalow colony on the French Riviera. He is a slovenly housekeeper but diligent worker who writes in his spare time. Into his life walks Betty, a beautiful young woman who is wild and unpredictable. After an argument with Zorg's employer they leave and Betty gets a job at a restaurant. She keeps after Zorg to get his books published, but all he gets are rejection letters. This makes Betty fly into a rage. She gets more and more out of control. Zorg watches helplessly as the woman he loves goes slowly insane. Can love conquer all? The film was wildly popular in France but received mixed reviews in the United States. For teachers of psychopathology and diagnosis, Betty presents a textbook (DSM-IV) example of BPD.

This is the affirming story of how Candomble, a Brazilian religion of African origin, has become a source of strength and power for a group of AIDS sufferers. Shot in Rio de Janeiro, São Paulo and Bahia, it shows the rituals of Candomble and the celebration of carnival. It features the personal struggles and words of wisdom from those whose faith has brought endurance and pride. Rather than denying the sexuality of this African-descendant population, innovative education programs have been developed for its followers. Where other religions preach abstinence, Candomble advocates the use of condoms so that sexuality need not be repressed. This beautifully shot documentary puts the epidemic in a cultural context, showing how this joyful religion helps its followers cope with the illness. An important film for classes in medical anthropology, folklore and religion, and Latin-American culture.

Los Angeles, CA 90095

Women and HIV: Four Stories is a documentary that chronicles how four Los Angeles women of different ages and ethnicity approach life after learning they are HIV positive. Each has a unique story to tell, and through their stories, we are educated and touched by the daily challenge of living with a life-threatening illness. Jennifer: Infected in her teens, Jennifer now has two children and a new relationship. She is the typical young woman of today, except that she has HIV. She is Vietnamese and openly shares how difficult it has been to be young, Asian and living with the virus. Christine: Christine never had the experience of just being HIV positive. When she was diagnosed in 1989, she already had AIDS. Despite her many medical challenges, she has continued to work, and poignantly shares her feelings about her life. Martha: Martha found out when she was diagnosed after she was married. She and her husband, both dealing with HIV, also face language barriers and discrimination, which add to the burden of living with the virus. Charlton: Charlton is a single mother with a household of six. She cares for her children, her grandchildren, and others who come to her for help. She has been clean and sober for 10 years, and with that sobriety, started a new life.

New York, NY 10023

A fascinating, beautifully acted and little seen film directed by Gillies MacKinnon (The Playboys, Small Faces) that provides an unforgettable and haunting examination of war and compassion. The film centers on the interaction of a sensitive psychiatrist Dr. William Rivers (Jonathan Pryce) and the shell-shocked soldiers who are his patients (James Wilby, Jonny Lee Miller and Stuart Bunce), a Scottish military hospital and a castle just outside of Edinburgh. But the doctor begins to question the value of his work when he is told to treat Lt. Siegfried Sassoon, a war hero and poet whose experiences on the front have turned him into a staunch opponent of the war. Another patient, Wilfred Owen, becomes close to both men. Based on the Booker Prize-winning novel, the film takes its inspiration from actual facts. Dr. Rivers was a pioneer in treating shell shock, and he did treat Sassoon and Owen who became the best known of the "War Poets."

APA'S SEYMOUR D. VESTERMARK AWARD LECTURE

G. Alan Stoudemire, M.D.

Quo Vadis Psychiatry

Chp.: Jerald Kay, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Troy L. Thompson II, M.D.

Psychiatric education has low status in most academic departments of psychiatry partly because educators rarely generate external grants and represent "cost centers" on the budgets of departmental chairs. Excellence in teaching is rarely considered a qualification for tenure and promotion in traditional tenure-track lines of advancement. Rather, proficiency in procuring external financial resources through federal government grants and the pharmaceutical industry is more highly prized. G. Alan Stoudemire, M.D., calls on academic psychiatry to critically examine its fundamental values as well as the support and valuation of psychiatric education and psychiatric educators. He presents his recommendations for the development of medical student education, psychiatric and nonpsychiatric residency training education and the psychiatric education of the general public in the 21st century. Dr. Stoudemire is Professor of Psychiatry at Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta. He formerly was Director of Medical Student Education in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Emory, and Director of the Medical-Psychiatric Unit at Emory University Hospital. Dr. Stoudemire serves as chairperson of the Standards and Ethics Committee of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine. He formerly was chairperson of the DSM-IV Subcommittee on Psychological Factors Affecting Physical Condition. He is the author of more than 150 articles and book chapters, the author or editor of ten books and a section editor of the seventh edition of the Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry. Dr. Stoudemire has received the Teacher of the Year Award from the Association for Academic Psychiatry (Area V) and the Thomas P. Hackett Award from the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine. In 1997 the AFLAC Cancer Center at Egleston Children's Hospital in Atlanta established the Alan Stoudemire Library in his honor. Dr. Stoudemire received his medical degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and completed his residency in psychiatry at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in Denver.

THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

Caleb Carr

Criminal Profiling: Using the Tools of the Past Today

Chp.: Paula G. Panzer, M.D.

Co-Chp.: David M. McDowell, M.D.

Caleb Carr, a New York City native, has worked extensively in screenplay development for various film production companies, as well as in the theater. He was the co-founder of The Joker's Institute, an independent theatrical company that staged both repertory works and productions of his own plays, all of which he directed and often served as set designer for. During the 1980s, Mr. Carr covered Central America as a freelance journalist, producing numerous articles for publications such as The New York Times. This work eventually resulted in the publication of his second book, American Invulnerable: The Quest for Absolute Security from 1812 Star Wars, a history of American foreign policy. In 1990 Mr. Carr began work on The Devil Soldier, a biography of the 19th century American mercenary Frederick Townsend Ward. At the same time, he was commissioned by the Fox Network to turn one of the stage plays he had written and directed, Bad Attitudes, into a film for television. In 1992 Mr. Carr began work on The Alienist, a novel set in turn-of-the-century New York. Published in 1994, the book spent six months on The New York Times best seller list and earned significant critical acclaim. Mr. Carr has written scripts for Universal Studios and developed a futuristic television film, The Warlord, for Paramount Television and CBS. He currently continues his studies and writings on criminal psychology for such publications as The New York Times and has done a great deal of work on various film projects. Mr. Carr attended Kenyon College and New York University in New York City where he earned his degree in military and diplomatic history, with extensive secondary studies in art history and drama.

INTEGRATIVE MEDICINE: IMPLICATIONS FOR PSYCHIATRY

Chp.: Francis G. Lu, M.D.

- 37 Alternative Medicine
(29 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.
5 Powderhouse Lane
Sherborn, MA 01770

Alternative, or complimentary, health systems are being integrated into American culture. From Chinese medicine to homeopathy to chiropractic, many features and systems can now be found in our physicians' offices. This video provides an overview of Chinese medicine, acupuncture, ayurveda, homeopathy, herbalism, naturopathy, osteopathy, massage and chiropractic. People explain how they're using one or more of these in their health care. We hear from some of the leading practitioners in the field of alternative medicine: Andrew Weil, M.D., Christiane Northrup, M.D., Fredi Kronenberg, M.D., and Nancy Lonsdorf, M.D.

38 The Faith Factor (50 minutes)

Distributor: National Institute for Health Care Research
6110 Executive Boulevard, Suite 908
Rockville, MD 20852

This videotaped lecture presents a review of the empirical research and literature correlating religion/spirituality with physical and mental health as well as quality of life. Given by master lecturer Dale A. Matthews, M.D., Associate Professor of Medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine in Washington, DC, the presentation focuses on an aspect of caring for the total person which is becoming increasingly important in both clinical care and medical school education. Addressing a medical student class, Dr. Matthews combines his knowledge of the scientific literature with a heartfelt passion for this previously neglected area.

TREATMENT ALGORITHMS AND PRACTICE MANAGEMENT

Co-Chps.: Russell F. Lim, M.D., John Luo, M.D.

- 39 Algorithm for the Pharmacotherapy of Schizophrenia
David N. Osser, M.D.

This is an Internet expert system for advising psychiatrists in strategies to optimize the pharmacotherapy of schizophrenia. It covers first-onset patients, relapse management, unsatisfactory response, and when to use depot medications. A panel of seven Massachusetts psychopharmacologists and a subcommittee of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Massachusetts reviewed an earlier text version and provided detailed editorial commentary, which has been incorporated into the 266 files of this program. This application is a virtual psychopharmacology consultant. It asks the consultee questions about a patient and then, when enough information is supplied, displays detailed recommendations. Most question screens have "help" sections with definitions, criteria, differential diagnoses, or related advice. "Comment" screens appear at crucial points with additional explanations. The evidence basis of the clinical pathways is provided in context-sensitive references, which support all critical questions and recommendations. Other features include links to accessory prescribing information, capacity to store and retrieve consultation data on specific patients, potential to aggregate data on patient outcomes at each decision point, a feedback system for users to send comments to the developers at any time, and a function to view recently added material. As Internet access increases, disease management systems like this may become increasingly valuable to psychiatrists.

40 Booting Up Your Practice

Theron C. Bowers, M.D.

Although the computer is a common tool in many or most psychiatric practices, its use remains confined to primarily administrative jobs such as billing and scheduling. As a cognitive-based specialty with a primary task of collecting and evaluating patient information, electronic database management has numerous potential benefits for psychiatrists in all areas of practice. This presentation will explore issues regarding computerized clinical database management in psychiatric practice and will examine potential barriers and challenges in maintaining electronic records. It will also illustrate the benefits and goals of an efficient computerized clinical system by demonstrating a patient-tracking computer program based on a relational database. Using this program, the presenters will show the basic requirements of a patient-tracking system, such as records of progress notes, mental status examinations and medications. They will also demonstrate more advanced and specialized features in tracking a patient's progress and monitoring medication side effects. Finally, there will be instructions on implementing a computerized record-keeping system in private practice with a focus on effectively utilizing data in a variety of clinical reports.

THE STORY OF ADELE H: A STUDY OF OBSESSIVE AND UNREQUITED LOVE

Chp.: Seana H. Shaw, M.D.

41 The Story of Adele H. (97 minutes)

Distributor: MGM/UA Home Video
10000 West Washington Boulevard
Culver City, CA 90232

The Story of Adele H. is a poignant and realistic portrayal of obsessive and unrequited love. The film is based on the diaries of Adele Hugo, the youngest daughter of the great novelist Victor Hugo. The film is true to life and portrays Adele's inability to form sustained loving attachments. She was consumed with the obsessive pursuit of an unavailable man who did not return her attentions. Adele most likely was severely depressed. Director Francois Truffaut portrays Adele's melancholy and her obsessive quests to secure the attention, love and promise of marriage from Lt. Pinson, an English soldier. Lt. Pinson, however, has no interest in her. In spite of repeated rejections, Adele is unrelenting and obsessively stalks him. Her fixation on this hopeless relationship never yields to the reality of the situation, and her loss of reality extends to disorientation and psychosis. Adele kept a diary for many years and described her passions and longings. The diary was not discovered until this century. It was in code and not deciphered until modern times. Adele Hugo's life and diary are of literary importance. Truffaut's film, based on these diaries, stimulated interest in the Hugo family and in the tragic life of Adele.

Evan Stark, Ph.D.

Framing and Reframing Battered Women in Mental Health Settings: New Approaches to Understanding and Treatment

Chp.: Carole L. Warshaw, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Gail E. Robinson, M.D.

Evan Stark, Ph.D., presents a critical review of what is known about the causes and consequences of woman battering and discusses intervention and treatment strategies in mental health settings. Drawing on case material from his clinical and forensic practice, Dr. Stark describes the dynamics of coercive control in battering relationships and discusses strategies for assessing risks to all parties involved, including children. He evaluates theories of etiology and current approaches to diagnosis, treatment and prevention and delineates therapeutic dilemmas in work with victims and perpetrators. Dr. Stark is Associate Professor of Public Administration and Social Work at Rutgers University in Newark, New Jersey, and Co-Director of the Domestic Violence Training Project in New Haven, Connecticut. A founder of one of the first battered women's shelters in the U.S., Dr. Stark has done pioneering research and worked as a therapist with violent men. From the late 1970s through the 1980s, Dr. Stark and Dr. Anne Flitcraft conducted a series of research projects that identified domestic violence as the leading cause of female injury and as a major factor in child abuse and a range of women's health and mental health problems. The findings of this work are summarized in their book Women at Risk: Domestic Violence and Women's Health. The recipient of numerous awards for his contribution to women's health, Dr. Stark has served as a consultant to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Institute of Justice, the U.S. Military and child protection agencies in several states. He has also served as chairperson of the U.S. Surgeon General's Working Group on Domestic Violence. Dr. Stark received his doctoral degree in sociology from the State University of New York in Binghamton and his master's degree in social work from Fordham University in Tarrytown, New York.

HOMOSEXUALITY: FROM HOMOPHOBIC PREJUDICE TO GAY/LESBIAN UNDERSTANDING

Chp.: Dan H. Karasic, M.D.

42 Kamikaze Summer
(60 minutes)

Distributor: The Cinema Guild
1697 Broadway, Suite 506
New York, NY 10019-5904

Starting from San Francisco, a gay man and a lesbian take an extended tour around the states in the West, where anti-gay sentiment has been active, politically, and where there is an attempt to limit and deprive gay and lesbian citizens of political power. The couple interview many different groups who have an anti-gay and anti-lesbian agenda and through this exposure, demonstrate the political power of the anti-gay movement.

43 Pride Divide
(57 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

From the producers of the award winning Last Call at Maud's comes this groundbreaking exploration of the gender gap between gays and lesbians. Politically united against global homophobia, they are poles apart on many life issues. Oddly enough, their struggle of male versus female mirrors many traditional conflicts inherent in straight relationships. The gay and lesbian community is not immune to gender conditioning. Here is the classic battle of the sexes from a new perspective, leavened with humor. The film looks at the issues around male domination versus female submission: promiscuousness versus commitment, exaltation of the body versus the spirit, AIDS support versus breast cancer support. We hear about the subtle chauvinism by gay activists who excluded lesbians from their political and social life, especially in the conformist 1950s. Now, however, both sides seem willing to discuss these differences openly. Individuals involved in this dialogue include Martin Duberman, Barney Frank, Barbara Gittings, Simon LeVay, Camille Paglia and others. This lively film is sure to rouse discussion.

44 Behind the Mask: Teaching Spontaneous Theater
(50 minutes)

Distributor: Ian E. Alger, M.D.
500 East 77th Street, #132
New York, NY 10162

This video presentation is a collage of six discrete examples of the teaching of spontaneous therapeutic theater. This method promotes the enactment of emotional conflicts through role play and fosters the expansion of an individual's repertoire in actual life. In other applications of this method, special hats and puppets are used in acting and reenacting feelings with emotional and social depth, paying special attention to plays and spontaneous creations evoked during the sessions. Dr. Ferruccio A. Di Cori is a psychiatrist who has practiced in both the United States and Italy and who currently presents an intense course in his methods at the University of Rome, where he is Professor of Psychiatry in the Department of Literature. In its six segments, the tape shows a monologue by a girl who experiences sleep-walking; two people struggling to unravel misinterpretations; a young woman expressing various aspects of herself through her vocal intonations; two girls enacting their mutual narcissism in pantomime; symbolic drawings and the attempts to interpret them; and the power of musical background in affecting free association. The audience at the presentation will be engaged in discussion by the presenter, and exploration of ways in which these techniques can be applied to their own clinical milieu and work will be explored.

Discussant: Ferruccio A. Di Cori, M.D.

Psychiatry has had many problems in conceptualizing personality disorders. Sufficient clinical psychopathological and biological data now exist to consider these disorders from a broad perspective that includes both psychological and biological aspects. Juan J. López-Ibor, Jr., M.D., discusses models of personality and neurobiological functioning that provide insights into the biological basis of behavior and differentiate pathological and normal forms of personality and behavior. Dr. López-Ibor, president-elect of the World Psychiatric Association, is Full Professor of Psychiatry and Head of the Psychiatric Unit of the San Carlos Hospital of the Complutense University of Madrid, Spain, and Coordinator for Mental Health for Madrid Area 7, which has about 700,000 inhabitants. He is a fellow or member of more than 47 national or international scientific societies and a member of the World Health Organization International Classification of Disorders (ICD-10) Task Force. The author or editor of 14 books and more than 200 papers in scientific journals, Dr. López-Ibor is a member of the Editorial Boards of several journals, including Comprehensive Psychiatry and General Hospital Psychiatry. Dr. López-Ibor received his medical and doctoral degrees from the Complutense University of Madrid and completed his psychiatric training at the University of Frankfurt in Germany, the Maudsley and Saint Bartholomew Hospitals in London, England, and the Cantonal Hospital of Vaud in Switzerland.

The Persistent Neurobiological Consequences of Early Untoward Life Events: Treatment Implications

Chp.: Carol A. Bernstein, M.D.
Co-Chp.: Robert J. Mitchell, M.D.

Considerable evidence suggests that untoward stress in early life, including child abuse or neglect, is associated with an increased prevalence of depression in adulthood. Charles B. Nemeroff, M.D., summarizes a series of preclinical studies and a pilot clinical study suggesting that neurons containing corticotropin-releasing factor (CRF) are rendered persistently supersensitive to stress after exposure to neonatal stress and thus mediate the effects of early trauma in increasing an individual's vulnerability to depression. Studies have documented CRF neuronal hyperactivity in drug-free depressed patients that has been reduced by successful treatment of depression with electroconvulsive therapy or fluoxetine. Dr. Nemeroff is the Reunett W. Harris Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta. He is also a faculty member in the Graduate Program in Neuroscience and Molecular Pharmacology and Toxicology and an Associate in the Winship Cancer Center at Emory University School of Medicine. Dr. Nemeroff has received numerous awards for his research on the biological basis of the major neuropsychiatric disorders, including the Gold Medal Award from the Society of Biological Psychiatry, the Judith Silver Memorial Young Scientist Award from the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Kempf Fund Award, the Samuel G. Hibbs Award and the APA Award for Research from the American Psychiatric Association. He has also received the Gerald Klerman Lifetime Research Award from the National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Disorders Association. Dr. Nemeroff is co-editor-in-chief of Critical Reviews in Neurobiology, editor-in-chief of Depression and Anxiety and co-editor of the Textbook of Psychopharmacology, published by the American Psychiatric Press. He received his doctoral degree in neurobiology and his medical degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His residency training in psychiatry was conducted at the University of North Carolina and at Duke University.

By telling the stories of three people with disabilities and their struggle for equal rights under the law, this film draws a powerful parallel between the efforts of disability rights activists and the civil rights struggle of the 1960s. It will be great for disability awareness programs and for discussions of disability rights issues. It should be a part of every college curriculum on disabilities.

(90 minutes)

Distributor: Only Child Motion Pictures, Inc.
P.O. Box 184
Beverly Hills, CA 90213

Filmmaker and psychotherapist Ira Wohl revisits his developmentally disabled cousin, Philly. Twenty years ago the two collaborated on the Oscar-winning film, Best Boy. Now, at age 70, Philly gets ready for his bar mitzvah. Best Boy charts Philly's move out of his parent's home into a group residence and follows him as he achieves greater independence. The first film did not simply record Philly's story, but actually contributed to his development. In Best Man, Wohl looks at Philly's life 20 years later and plants the idea of having a bar mitzvah. This first person documentary examines Philly's relationship with Ira, with his peers at the residence, and the death of their parents. Wohl offers a warm portrait of the extended family and reveals the importance of family and tradition. Best Man is a celebration of loving kindness in the face of life's inevitable changes and challenges.

CREATING CONSUMERISM: HOW ADVERTISING SHARES OUR REALITY

Chp.: Richard E. D'Alli, M.D.

48 The Ad and the Ego (57 minutes)

Distributor: California Newsreel
149 9th Street, Suite 420
San Francisco, CA 94103

You'll never look at an ad in the same way after screening The Ad and the Ego, the first comprehensive examination of advertising's impact on our culture of consumption. The film artfully combines clips from over 1200 familiar television ads with insights from some of our most astute media critics, resulting in a cultural psychoanalysis of late 20th century America and its principal inhabitants, Consumer Man and Woman. The average American is exposed to 1500 ads a day. This constant stream of messages sells us not just products but values, identities and our sense of what is "normal." Media theorist Stuart Ewen argues that advertising creates a "psychology of need," generating a boundless hunger for things; one thing you'll never hear in an ad is, "You're OK." The Ad and the Ego demonstrates the critical connections between consumerism, our debased public discourse, environmental degradation, and our blind faith in economic growth at any cost. This film will cause every viewer to take more seriously the central role of advertising in our society and our psyche.

49 Barbie Nation (53 minutes)

Distributor: New Day Films
22-D Hollywood Avenue
Ho Ho Kus, NJ 07423

The Barbie doll is not just the world's most popular toy; she's a Rorschach test for our times and us. Barbie Nation is an investigation into the Barbie fad. It tells the story of the rise and fall of Ruth Handler, the woman who invented Barbie and co-founded Mattel, Inc., the world's largest toy company. Barbie Nation also visits Barbie conventions and an anti-Barbie demonstration; girls' play dates and Barbie Web pages. Everybody has a Barbie story, and the stories are about sexuality and sex roles, body image, breast cancer, anorexia, childhood development and the changing role of women in society.

50 Letters to Thien (55 minutes)

Distributor: National Asian American Telecommunication Association
346 Ninth Street, 2nd Floor
San Francisco, CA 94103

On the morning of January 29, 1996, a janitor discovered the body of a young Asian male on the tennis courts of Tustin High School in Southern California. He had been stabbed multiple times, his throat was slashed from side to side, and his head had been stomped on. Thien Minh Ly, eldest son, beloved brother, community leader, and recent graduate from UCLA and Georgetown University in Washington, DC, was 24 years old at the time of his death. Letters to Thien attempts to restore the humanity so coldly denied him by his brutal murder. Thien's character is memorialized through anecdotes, tributes, and letters from his family and friends, who address him one year after his death. Full of humor, love, and an abiding, bewildering grief, these stories painstakingly conjure Thien's willingness to try new things, his broad interests, ranging from biology and Shakespeare to Vietnamese culture, and, above all, his strong impact on those who knew him. In this context, director Trac Vu shows us how the discovery of a letter commencing with the boast "Oh, I killed a jap [sic] a while ago," led to the arrest of Thien's young murderers, and he covers the community's struggle to get the district attorney of Orange County, California, and the city of Tustin to declare Thien's murder a hate crime.

51 Forgotten Fires (57 minutes)

Distributor: Forgotten Fires Productions
534 The Alameda
Berkeley, CA 94707

Forgotten Fires is a powerful exploration of the devastating consequences of prejudice. Filmed over one year in Manning, South Carolina, following the Ku Klux Klan (KKK) burning of two local African-American churches, the film is a frightening testimony to the emotional and physical violence perpetrated by the KKK. Historically the churches were the emblem of the fight for freedom and equality. Today, their active role in the community makes them a vulnerable target for racial hatred. Surprisingly, though, out of this painful story emerges a moving portrait of a community's ability to forgive and to heal itself. Claiming to stand for the rights of white people, the Klan proclaims that blacks are responsible for the disenfranchisement of whites. One Timothy Welch, a white man, got caught up in these twisted beliefs and set fire to the Macedonian Baptist Church. From the vantage point of prison, Welch reflects upon how his involvement with the Klan led him to racial violence. As a racist he is a hateful figure, but his remorse and desire for forgiveness are genuine and heartfelt. Through interviews with members of both the African-American community and the KKK, Forgotten Fires tells the moving story of Welch's forgiveness and acceptance by the black community in a message of hope for the future of racial harmony.

MEDIA SESSION 31

EXPLORING HASIDISM: A LIFE APART: HASIDISM IN AMERICA Mesorah Society for Traditional Judaism and Psychiatry

Chp.: Abba E. Borowich, M.D.

52 A Life Apart: Hasidism in America (95 minutes)

Distributor: First Run Features
153 Waverly Place
New York, NY 10014

Hasidim often provoke controversy and arouse remarkably intense feelings among outsiders. On one hand, some condemn the insularity of the Hasidic people as "racist" and their strict division of gender roles as "sexist." Their way of life is derided as "fundamentalist," and their defiant refusal to join the rest of society is perceived as "un-American." Certain Jews criticize the Hasidim for "spiritual arrogance" and are offended by the flagrant demonstration of "differentness" in Hasidic dress and behavior at a time when Jews have assimilated into American society. On the other hand, many Jews feel reassured that Jewish customs, faith and traditions will be perpetuated. They cherish authenticity and steadfastness in the face of temptation. They perceive that Hasidim are freed from the moral complexities and ambiguities they have to face. Others are merely curious about a group of many thousands of people who have been able to survive for more than two centuries without conforming. This film relates the dramatic story of the creation of the post-Holocaust Hasidic communities in the United States, a country that had been labeled "trayfina medina" (impure land) by earlier rabbinical leaders. After the film, a psychiatrist will lead a discussion of Hasidic life from the perspective of three decades of experience with the Hasidic population. Hasid featured in the film will join him.

Hispanic Psychiatry: From Margin to Mainstream

Chp.: Silvia W. Olarte, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Jose M. Canive, M.D.

The advent of the 21st century offers a unique opportunity for a reassessment of the epistemological bases of American psychiatry and its diverse components. The case of Hispanic/Latino psychiatry in the United States exemplifies the complexities of this process in terms of a reaffirmation of singular characteristics at the workforce and the general population levels. These complexities are also apparent in its struggle to gain recognition from, and full acceptance into, so-called "mainstream" psychiatry. Renato D. Alarcon, M.D., describes the process by examining three complementary issues: the shaping of a true mestizo identity, a documented series of accomplishments in practice, clinical care and research areas, and Hispanic psychiatry's extraordinary potential as a setting for the in-depth study of biocultural linkages in a variety of clinical phenomena. Dr. Alarcon is Professor and Vice Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Emory University School of Medicine and Director of the Mental Health Service Line at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Atlanta. He is the author of more than 150 articles and book chapters and the author or coauthor of ten books, including Personality Disorders and Culture: Clinical and Conceptual Interactions. Between 1994 and 1996, he was president of the American Society of Hispanic Psychiatry and is currently editor of the Society's newsletter. Dr. Alarcon is Vice-Chairperson of APA's Council on International Affairs. He is also a member of NIMH's Clinical Centers and Special Projects Review Committee, regional secretary for North America for the Interamerican Council of Psychiatric Organizations and a member of the National Mental Health Advisory Board to VA Headquarters. He is book review editor for Depression and Anxiety and a member of the Editorial Boards of several psychiatric journals in the United States, Latin America and Spain. A native from Arequipa, Peru, Dr. Alarcon received his medical degree from the Universidad Peruana Cayetano Heredia in Lima and did his residency in psychiatry at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. He received his master's degree in public health from the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health.

Don S. Browning, Ph.D.

Internists of the Mind or Doctors of the Soul?

Chp.: George T. Harding IV, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Reverend Clark S. Aist, Ph.D.

With recent technical advances, psychiatry has become more precise in treating major mental illnesses. It has also become narrower in scope: psychiatrists no longer try to tell us how to live the good life. However, in limiting its scope, psychiatry may unwittingly feed the belief that there are no principles or truths governing the good life. Don S. Browning, Ph.D., the Alexander Campbell Professor of Ethics and the Social Sciences at the University of Chicago Divinity School, discusses psychiatry's responsibilities both to cure illness and to cherish the cultural and religious sources of the good life. Dr. Browning's first book, Atonement and Psychotherapy, published in 1966, has been followed by more than 30 years of major contributions to psychiatry and religion, including his recent work as editor of the two volumes, Religious and Ethical Factors in Psychiatric Practice and Does Psychiatry Need a Public Philosophy? He currently heads a major research project on religion, culture and the family supported by a grant from the Lilly Endowment, Inc. The project includes a series of 12 books presenting a comprehensive overview of issues at the interface of religion and the family. Dr. Browning received his doctoral degree from the University of Chicago Divinity School.

THE HOLOCAUST: FROM ONGOING TRAUMA TO STORIES OF HEALING

Chp.: John M. Dluhy, M.D.

53 Silence
(10 minutes)

Distributor: Filmmakers Library
124 East 40th Street
New York, NY 10016

A little girl named Tana survived Teresienstadt concentration camp thanks to her resourceful grandmother. After liberation, she lived a comfortable and cultured life with relatives in Sweden. No one spoke of her ordeal. "Forget the past," she was told. Tana knew how to keep silent. This haunting animated film captures the surreal world of a child survivor whose pain has not been recognized or shared. At 20, when Tana left Sweden, she was given letters written by her mother before she was sent to Auschwitz where she perished. Tana now had a bridge to the past, but still couldn't speak of it. It took 50 years for her to break the silence.

54 The Last Transfer
(52 minutes)

Distributor: Zaviv Productions Ltd.
58 Dizengoff Street
Tel Aviv, Israel 64332

Fifteen to 45 years in a mental institution? For many Holocaust survivors World War II is not over yet. The Last Transfer follows a group of patients in the psycho-geriatric ward of the Abarbanel Mental Health Center in Israel who cannot escape from their memories. Robot-like G. cannot stop working and H. continues cleaning toilets as she did in the concentration camp over 50 years ago. A. continues looking for her dead child oblivious to the time that has passed. The Last Transfer attempts to examine why these people broke down and were unable to rebuild their lives. Why did mental collapse become their refuge? The film questions whether long hospitalization is the result of the trauma, the war, or the neglect of the Israeli society. The interaction between the massive psychic disintegration due to the holocaust and a chronic, deteriorating course of illness in survivors is discussed.

Krakow, Poland was the birthplace of Henryk Vogler, writer and holocaust survivor, his son Pavel, an artist, and his 11-year-old granddaughter, Sara. Pavel never questioned his father directly about his war experiences, yet he sensed his father's pain. Pavel and Sara immigrated to America to get Sara the medical treatment she needed. There, half a world away, Sara questioned her father about why her grandfather remained in Krakow after the war. In Jewish day school she had learned that most Jewish survivors left Europe after the war. This led Pavel to take his daughter, a budding artist herself, back to Krakow to learn her grandfather's story. Grandfather Henryk tells her of the beauty of the medieval city and its cultural past. He recalls that in September 1939 he was the "happiest man in the world," newly married and about to publish his first novel. War tore his life apart. He recounts the loss of everything he held dear and his own miraculous survival in the concentration camp. With the defeat of the Germans, Henryk returned to his beloved Krakow, the only place where, as a writer, he could express himself in his native language. His literary career flourished. The birth of his son gave life new meaning. This is a beautiful story, filmed with artistry, about the renewal of life and hope.

Nelba Chavez, Ph.D.

The Co-Recurring Problem of Substance Abuse and Mental Illness and the Federal Response Across the Life Cycle

Chp.: Pedro Ruiz, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Patricia I. Ordorica, M.D.

Nominated by President Clinton on February 25, 1994, and confirmed by the U.S. Senate on July 14, 1994, Nelba Chavez, Ph.D., is the first Administrator of the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and the first Hispanic/Latina to head an agency in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in its 200 year history. For three years prior to her appointment as SAMHSA Administrator, Dr. Chavez served as director of Juvenile Probation Services for the city and county of San Francisco. From 1989 to 1991, she headed Chavez and Associates, providing behavioral health consulting and training services to community organizations. In addition, she served as a consultant to the U.S. State Department on issues pertaining to mental health and substance abuse prevention and treatment. Dr. Chavez has served as clinical director, executive director and chief operating officer of La Frontera Center in Tucson, Arizona. Under her leadership, La Frontera, a comprehensive, community mental health center providing mental health, drug and alcohol services to adults, children and families, became a national model, recognized by former First Lady Mrs. Rosalyn Carter and HHS as an outstanding example of a comprehensive, community-based mental health organization. Dr. Chavez' writings on mental health have focused on the cross-cultural aspects of treatment. She has received a number of honors for her work and leadership, including the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Professional Asian American Women, the National Health Award from the National Coalition of Hispanic Health and Human Services Organizations, and the National Leadership Award from the Federation of Families for Children's Mental Health Services. An expert on comprehensive systems of care, as well as mental health and substance abuse prevention and treatment, Dr. Chavez earned her bachelor's degree in sociology/psychology from the University of Arizona in Tucson, a master's of social welfare from the University of California at Los Angeles and a doctorate from the University of Denver in Colorado.

Technological Advances in Infertility Therapy: Impact on Biology and Patients

Chp.: Diana L. Dell, M.D.

Co-Chp.: Lesly T. Mega, M.D.

The field of reproductive medicine has made tremendous advances in the past two decades, and infertile or subfertile couples of reproductive age now have several options for pursuing conception. Grace M. Couchman, M.D., reviews recent research about infertility and describes clinic and laboratory procedures for current interventions in reproductive medicine, including in vitro fertilization, intra-cytoplasmic sperm injection, blastocyst transfers, and use of donor gametes. She discusses the expected pregnancy outcomes for these therapies and explores their impact on patients. Dr. Couchman is Assistant Professor in the Division of Reproductive Endocrinology at Duke University Medical Center in Durham, North Carolina. Her research interests include protein tyrosine kinase intra-cellular messengers in the human endometrium and leiomyomata and intracytoplasmic sperm injection and male factor infertility. A fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Dr. Couchman is the author of several papers and book chapters on reproductive physiology. She received her medical degree from the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver and trained in obstetrics and gynecology at Duke University Medical Center. Dr. Couchman then completed a research fellowship at the Laboratory of Reproductive and Developmental Toxicology at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences in Research Triangle Park, North Carolina. She also completed a fellowship in reproductive endocrinology and infertility fellowship at Duke University Medical Center.

CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE: SOCIOCULTURAL AND CLINICAL PERSPECTIVES

Chp.: John M. Dluhy, M.D.

56 Still Missing
(40 minutes)

Distributor: New Day Films
22-D Hollywood Avenue
Ho Ho Kus, NJ 07423

It's every parent's worst nightmare. It's law enforcement's most implacable challenge. Almost every day in America a non-family member, most often a child molester, kidnaps a child. Most of these abducted children never return to their families. Still Missing is an extremely important documentary and a very human one. It deals head-on with the terrifying facts of child abduction and gives us information and tools to help prevent these crimes. Still Missing hears from four parents of young children, Jacob Wetterling, Megan Garner, Kevin Collins and Monique Burnett, who were taken from their families. The case studies of the kidnappings are instructive; the deeply personal stories of the parents, their remembrances, and photos and home videos of their lost children make denial impossible. As the video makes clear, far from being the family's fault, child abduction is something that can happen to any family. One of the revelations of Still Missing is that most child molesters are ordinary-looking people who pass unnoticed within society. Yet this video gives concrete ways to protect children from these predators. Still Missing is essential viewing for parents, teachers, law enforcement personnel, criminologists, psychologists, social workers, and all who care about the safety of our children.

57 Sacrifice
(50 minutes)

Distributor: Film Library
22-D Hollywood Avenue
Ho Ho Kus, NJ 07423

Each year thousands of girls are recruited from rural Burmese villages to work in brothels in Thailand. Held for years in debt bondage, they suffer extreme abuse by pimps, clients and the police. The trafficking in Burmese girls has soared in recent years as a direct result of political repression in Burma. Human rights abuses, war and ethnic discrimination have displaced thousands of families, leaving them with no means of livelihood. An offer of employment in Thailand is a rare chance for many families to escape extreme poverty. Sacrifice examines the social, cultural and economic forces at work in the selling of Burmese girls into prostitution. It is the story of the valuation and sale of human beings and the efforts of teenage girls to survive a crisis born of economic and political repression.

58 Trying to Get Some Dignity
(58 minutes)

Distributor: Aquarius Productions, Inc.
5 Powderhouse Lane
Sherborn, MA 01770

Their stories are empowering, sensitively told, challenging, difficult and ultimately validating and reassuring. They are true stories, which will speak to anyone touched by and concerned with issues of child abuse. Particularly intended for therapists and for those struggling to come to terms with similar experiences in their lives. Trying to Get Some Dignity is also a call to action; a reminder to us that unspeakable events should never have happened in the past and should not be allowed to continue today.

59 Interviewing for Child Sexual Abuse
(38 minutes)

Distributor: Guilford Productions, Inc.
Department D
72 Spring Street
New York, NY 10012

Professionals called upon to interview children about alleged sexual abuse face a complex task. Safeguarding the welfare of these young clients demands a solid understanding of both clinical and legal issues. What are the most critical clinical and legal issues? What are the most appropriate techniques for eliciting reliable accounts of children's experience? How should evaluators structure the interview to avoid legal challenges to their findings? And, without losing sight of forensic considerations, how can the process be made as comfortable as possible for the child? Featuring Kathleen Fallier, noted expert in child abuse evaluations, this informative video offers much-needed guidance for mental health and child protection professionals. It is also recommended viewing for lawyers, judges, and law enforcement personnel.

GUIDE TO USING THE TOPIC INDEX

Use this index to find sessions of interest to you. There are five overall topics: Disorders, Practice Areas, Subspecialty Areas or Special Interests, Treatments, and Other Issues. Under each overall topic, you will find subtopics listed in alphabetical order with the formats (type of session) listed alphabetically underneath. Within each format you will find the title of the individual session listed by number. The listing will also show the page number the session appears on. You should refer to the page number in this Program Book to obtain further details about the session.

A Life-Cycle Approach to the Diagnosis and Treatment of Depressive Disorders

David J. Kupfer, MD
University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine

Depressive disorders occur throughout the life cycle; however, the presentation of symptoms and response to treatment may vary according to age of onset, existing comorbidities, and/or the presence of a precipitating life event. This symposium will address challenges that face every clinician in the diagnosis and treatment of depressive disorders, and provide practice recommendations to improve patient assessment and management.

This program is sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association.

The American Psychiatric Association (APA) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

The APA designates this educational activity for up to 3 hours in Category 1 credit towards the AMA Physician's Recognition Award and for the CME requirement of the APA. Each physician should claim only those hours of credit that he/she actually spends in the educational activity.

This program is supported by an unrestricted educational grant from Forest Laboratories and the Parke-Davis division of Warner-Lambert Company.
