Dear Colleagues and Guests:

Welcome to the Sesquicentennial Celebration of the American Psychiatric Association. The Presidential Theme I have chosen for this meeting is "Our Heritage, Our Future." Our Association has a very rich heritage, and our future, reflected in the depth and breadth of the program, is indeed very bright. Included in the wide range of topics presented this week, there are many sessions related to the Presidential Theme.

I hope you will join me at the Opening Session on Sunday, May 22, from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. This year's session will begin with a brief video on the history of psychiatry and the APA. Immediately following the Opening Session will be the spectacular Birthday Gala; I hope each of you will plan to attend and join in the celebration. The Convocation of Fellows is on Monday, May 23, from 8:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. Please plan to attend so that we may honor those being inducted as Fellows into the APA and congratulate those receiving awards from the Association. My Presidential Symposium, focusing on stigma, is scheduled on Tuesday May 24, at 2:00 p.m.

A significant portion of our heritage occurred right here in Philadelphia where we were founded and where we celebrated our 50th and 100th year anniversaries. Take advantage of being here to learn more about our country's history, as well as the history of American psychiatry.

Helping plan this meeting has been stimulating and enjoyable. I often wonder how many of us simply take for granted our Annual Meeting, the world's major psychiatric gathering. Rich in scientific and social content, this meeting would not be possible without the efforts of many APA members and staff.

Congratulations to the Annual Meeting staff, and the Scientific Program, Local Arrangements, and Sesquicentennial committees for this remarkable conclusion to a complex and exciting year for the APA.

Welcome and Enjoy

John S. McIntyre, M.D.

APA Annual Meeting Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, May 21-26, 1994

Sesquicentennial Celebration 1844-1994

May 21, 1994

Dear APA Members and Guests:

Welcome to Philadelphia and the Sesquicentennial Celebration of the American Psychiatric Association. This exciting city, with its vibrancy, diversity and excitement, provides a fitting setting for the presentations we have planned for you this year. As you read through the Program Book, you will notice we have a number of sessions related to the theme, "Our Heritage, Our Future," chosen by our President, Dr. John S. McIntyre, for this year's Annual Meeting. I would especially draw your attention to the Presidential Symposium scheduled on Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

The Local Arrangements Committee, under the guidance of its Chairperson, Dr. James M. Delaplane, has developed a wide array of programs that will help you take advantage of Philadelphia and the surrounding area. You will notice that a number of activities are designed especially for families and children.

The Business Meeting will be held on Sunday from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; all voting members are encouraged to attend. The Opening Session will be held on Sunday evening, May 22, from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Included in this session will be a video on the history of psychiatry and the APA. In celebration of the APA's Sesquicentennial, a Birthday Gala will be held on Sunday evening immediately following the Opening Session. I hope you will plan to attend and join in the festivities. As in previous years, Exhibits will be open until 6:00 p.m., Sunday through Wednesday.

The Advances in Research session will be held on Monday at 10:30 a.m. This session highlights the latest research findings in psychiatry and summarizes their relevance to clinical practice. This has become an excellent way to start off the Annual Meeting's research programs, in conjunction with the Young Investigators' Poster Session Monday morning. In addition, you will find an expanded number of small group sessions, which include the Discussion Groups and Clinical and Research Consultations with selected experts in the field.

This year our Round Table Discussion, entitled "Sexual Harassment and Gender-Based Discrimination in the Workplace," will be held on Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. I know that you will not want to miss what has become an exciting tradition at our Annual Meetings. You will also note in the Program Book that we are expanding our noon Forums this year, after last year's successful reinstitution. This format allows us to schedule sessions that may not fit in the usual formats or that may focus on late-breaking topics of importance to the field. This year, one forum each day will focus on health systems reform issues. The centerpiece of these sessions will be the Town Hall Meeting on Health Care Reform, which will be held at 12 noon on Monday.

I strongly encourage you to fill out and return the evaluation forms for this meeting. The members of the Scientific Program Committee are interested in the opinions of the members regarding the quality and content of the Annual Meeting, and the information provided is used to plan next year's program. I would also be happy to hear from you individually and would welcome your suggestions.

Once again, welcome to Philadelphia. I look forward to sharing a week of exciting and professionally rewarding activities with you.

Sincerely,

John M. Oldham, M.D.

Chairperson

Scientific Program Committee

GUIDE TO THE PROGRAM BOOK

Below, you will find the table of contents for ease in locating information about this meeting. A topic index is included to assist you with finding sessions of interest. The individual program for each day's sessions is listed by start time with the formats listed alphabetically under those times. NOTE: To make it easier for you to plan your day, we have prepared a separate "Days-at-a-Glance," which is included in your registration packet.

If you have any questions about this book or the scientific sessions, please feel free to stop by the Scientific Program Office in the Convention Center, and we will be glad to help you. Also, all central office APA staff members will be wearing green ribbons on their badges. Please feel free to direct your questions to them.

APA ARTS ASSOCIATION

Located in the APA Resource Center and staffed during the Resource Center's hours. The exhibit includes paintings, photography, ceramics and crafts done by APA members and/or their significant others. Entries in the poster and essay exhibit for children of APA members will also be displayed. Please stop by the exhibit for information on joining the APA Arts Association.

APA AUXILIARY BOOTH

Located in the Bridge Lobby, Exhibit Hall Level, Convention Center. Hours of operation: Saturday, May 21, through Wednesday, May 25, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Stop by the booth to obtain information on the Auxiliary's program schedule and information on membership.

APA PERIODICALS

The American Journal of Psychiatry and Hospital and Community Psychiatry will be located in the APA Periodicals Exhibit in the APA Resource Center. Hours of operation: Saturday, May 21, 12 noon-6:00 p.m.; and Sunday, May 22, through Wednesday, May 25, 7:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Staff of both journals will be available to answer authors' questions and to receive papers submitted for publication. Each journal publishes only original material not published elsewhere in any form and not being considered for publication elsewhere. Five copies are required.

Persons who wish to contact editors or reporters of Psychiatric News should inquire at the APA Staff Office, located in Room 304, Convention Center, where an editor can be paged. They may also leave written announcements, suggestions for articles, or letters to the editor for the newspaper's consideration.

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CREDIT

The American Psychiatric Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians. The APA designates this continuing medical education activity for up to 66 credit hours in Category 1 of the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association and for the CME requirement of the APA.

The content of CME is that body of knowledge and skills generally recognized and accepted by the profession as within the basic medical sciences, the discipline of clinical medicine, and the provision of health care to the public. Sessions not meeting the definition of CME are not eligible for CME credit.

The scientific sessions of the official Annual Meeting program, with some exceptions, meet the criteria for Category 1 CME credit. Sessions in the following program formats are designated as Category 1: Advances in Research, Clinical Case and Continuous Clinical Case Conferences, CME Courses, Debate, Films, Forums, Industry Sponsored Symposia, Lectures, Medical Updates, New Research Oral/Slide Sessions, Paper Sessions, Presidential Symposium, Review of Psychiatry, Round Table Discussion, Symposia, Videotapes, and Workshops. Other sessions are designated as Category 2; these include Clinical and Research Consultations With, Discussion Groups, New Research Poster Sessions, the Video Production Clinic, and some Films, Videotapes, Lectures, and Workshops.

To document CME credit earned at the Annual Meeting. participants should record the sessions attended on the back page of the Certificate of Attendance found in the front of the 1994 Annual Meeting CME Syllabus & Proceedings Summary Book. Credit is earned on an hour-for-hour basis. Please note: APA members are required to maintain their own record of CME hours throughout the three-year reporting cycle. Reporting of CME credit is on an honor basis. APA members should report their CME activities once they have accumulated 150 hours (with a minimum of 60 hours in Category 1) in a three-year reporting period. CME report forms may be obtained from the Office of Education at the APA. The Certificate of Attendance (or copy) may be forwarded to other organizations requiring verification of participation in the APA Annual Meeting. Staff will be available in the Office of Education booth at the APA Resource Center to answer any of your questions about CME.

ANNUAL MEETING EVALUATION

The Annual Meeting Scientific Program Committee needs your recommendations and evaluations to plan next year's Annual Meeting. A participant evaluation form was included in your registration packet. BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE MEETING, PLEASE COMPLETE YOUR FORM AND DROP IT IN ONE OF THE EVALUATION BOXES LOCATED THROUGHOUT THE MEETING SITES. You can receive a certificate of attendance at the Annual Meeting by returning a completed form to the APA Staff or Scientific Program Offices, the Information/Locator Center or the APA Resource Center, all located in the Convention Center.

TAPE RECORDING POLICY

Audiotape recording is only permitted for personal use. Registrants are welcome to use their own small, portable audiotape recorders to record any session except the Clinical Case Conferences and the Continuous Clinical Case Conferences, or unless prohibited by the presenters.

Larger professional tape recorders, however, are not permitted other than those carried by personnel representing the professional taping firm authorized by APA to audiotape sessions. The badges of personnel representing this firm will clearly identify them. Registrants are not permitted to videotape any session because the intrusive nature of the recording may disrupt the session.

SMOKING POLICY

There will be NO SMOKING in scientific sessions or in the exhibit hall. Smoking will be permitted only in designated areas throughout the meeting sites.

CHILD CARE SERVICE

Due to severe state legal restrictions for establishing temporary child care facilities, combined with very limited space in hotel properties, this year the APA will not be setting-up a separate child care center. However, the Philadelphia Convention & Visitors Bureau has provided us with names and addresses of nearby, permanent child care facilities accredited by the State of Pennsylvania that should have space available. In all cases reservations should be made as far in advance as possible. The facilities are:

Yellow Brick Road (open 7:00 a.m.-6:30 p.m., Monday through Friday) 19th Street and JFK Boulevard Philadelphia, PA

Attention: Michael Plummer Telephone: 215-963-0555

Creative Experience, Inc. (open 6:30 am.-6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday) 615 Spruce Street Philadelphia, PA

Attention: Diane Mullineaux Telephone: 215-923-6207

Additionally, hotel and residential individual child care is available through Call A Granni, Inc. This service was established in 1984 and is licensed and insured. Rates vary depending on the number of children and length of services.

AMERICAN PSYCHIATRIC ASSOCIATION CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION POLICY ON FULL DISCLOSURE

The American Psychiatric Association requires disclosure of the existence of any significant financial interest or other relationship a presenter has with the manufacture(s) of any commercial product(s) discussed in an educational presentation. The existence of such relationships does not necessarily constitute a conflict of interest, but the prospective audience must be informed of the presenter's affiliation with a commercial sponsor by way of an acknowledgement in this printed Program Book. This policy is intended to openly identify any potential conflict so that the audience in an educational activity is able to form their own judgements about the presentation.

The following presenters on this year's scientific program have indicated a significant financial relationship with the manufacturer(s) of a commercial product(s). The presenter's name, the manufacturer's name, and the page number(s) the presenter appears on in this Program Book are listed below:

GUIDE TO USING THE TOPIC INDEX

Use this index to find sessions of interest to you. There are four overall topics: Disorders, Practice and Subspecialty Areas, Treatments and Other Issues. Under each overall topic, you will find subtopics listed in alphabetical order with the formats (type of session) listed alphabetically underneath. Within each format you will find the title of the individual session listed by number. The listing will show the day the session is presented and the time it begins. You should refer to the day and starting time in this Program Book to obtain further details about the session.

Anxiety Disorders: Issues in Clinical Management

Saturday, May 21, 1994 • 7 p.m. - 10 p.m. • Ritz-Carlton Hotel

Chairman/Moderator James C. Ballenger, MD Chairman, Department of Psychiatry Director, Institute of Psychiatry Medical University of South Carolina

Anxiety disorders are common, with a lifetime prevalence rate of nearly 15%. One or more forms of anxiety often complicate a depressive illness, and more than half of depressed patients suffer anxiety symptoms during any given episode. Both anxiety and depressive disorders are associated with a high level of morbidity, and comorbidity increases the level of social, physical and occupational dysfunction. Therefore, the combination of high prevalence, high morbidity and high utilization of resources associated with anxiety and depression results in a tremendous burden to the health-care system and has significant implications for health-care reform.

Crime and Memory

Chp.: W. Walter Menninger, M.D. Co-Chp.: Jonas R. Rappeport, M.D.

The conflict between knowing and not knowing, speech and silence, remembering and forgetting, is the central dialectic of psychological trauma. This conflict is manifest in the disturbances of memory, amnesias and hypermnesias, and of traumatized people. It is manifest also on a social level in persisting debates over the historical reality of atrocities that have been documented beyond any reasonable doubt. Social contraversy becomes particularly acute at momenta in history when perpetrators face the prospect of public exposure or legal accountability for crimes long hidden or condoned. Judith L. Herman, M.D., examines current public controversy over the credibility of adult recall of childhood abuse as a classic example of the dialectic of trauma.

Dr. Herman is Associate Clinical Professor of Paychiatry at Harvard Medical School and Director of Training at the Victims of Violence Program in the Department of Psychiatry at Cambridge Hospital in Cambridge, Massachusetts. She is also Psychiatric Director and a Founding Member of the Women's Mental Health Collective in Somerville, Massachusetts, She has written several articles and book chapters on sexual and domestic violence and is the author of two books: Trauma and Recovery (Basic Books, 1992) and Father-Daughter Incest (Harvard University Press, 1981), which won the C. Wright Mills Award from the Society for the Study of Social Problems, A Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr. Herman is a former chairperson of the APA's Committee on Women. She has received the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship and the Mary Ingraham Bunting Institute Fellowship, Dr. Herman earned hor medical degree from Harvard Medical School and completed her residency in psychiatry and a fellowship in community psychiatry at Boston University Medical Center.

(56 minutes)

Producers: Jay Haley and Madeleine

Richeport, Ph.D.

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This video is a fascinating portrait of the life and work of the world's foremost authority on medical hypnosis and therapy, Milton H. Erickson, M.D. (1901-1980). It contains rare archival footage of Erickson at work allowing the viewer to see, firsthand, his extraordinary ability to heal both body and mind through hypnosis. It also contains interview vignettes of colleagues and students who describe the profound effect he had on their work.

As an adolescent, Dr. Erickson was stricken with polio. Having endured chronic pain, as well as early dyslexia, he describes how he discovered strength and healing through self-hypnosis. Despite his affliction, he became a rugged outdoorsman and persevered with his studies through college and medical school. His career as an innovator in psychotherapy brought him worldwide acclaim, which continues to influence the evolution of psychotherapy today. This videotape was co-directed by Jay Haley and Madeleine Richeport, two long-time colleagues of Erickson.

THE GENDER GAME

F1 THE CRYING GAME

(110 minutes) 1992

Director: Neil Jordon

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc.

350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787

Dublin filmmaker Neil Jordan possesses a special affinity for alienated characters crushed in the vise of utterly impossible love. The Crying Game explores a passion even more impossible of fulfillment, more flagrantly transgressive of the status quo than the amour fous depicted in his earlier Mona Lisa and The Miracle. Fergus, an IRA terrorist, kidnaps Jody, a black British soldier, to ransom an imprisoned senior IRA officer. The two gentle, improbable warriors are quickly drawn to each other. After Jody is killed, Fergus voyages to London to honor the last promise he made his friend: to comfort Dil, the lovely hairdresser Jody cherished above all else. The ensuing dance of identity engenders one of the most provocative and, at the time of its release, well kept secrets in cinema history. The Crying Game cunningly and subversively interrogates any notion of eternally fixed gendered attributes beyond endocrine sway. By implication, other fixed notions about class, race, God, country and macho honor are rendered equally suspect. Superb performances by Steven Rea, Forest Whitaker, and newcomer Jaye Davidson flesh out Jordon's tragicomic, uneasily redemptive vision of a marginalized love rising triumphantly from the ashes of hate.

Due to the graphic nature of this film, children will not be permitted to attend.

This symposium is designed to highlight relevant, state-of-the-art findings on the reciprocal clinical relationship between the mood and anxiety disorders. Internationally recognized clinical scientists will discuss practical clinical issues of diagnosis, prognosis and clinical management of coexisting or sequentially presenting mood and anxiety disorders. The importance of this topic is underscored by the recently completed DSM-IV field trial focusing on mixed anxiety-depression, which resulted in its inclusion in the DSM-IV Appendix.

In the absence of adequate treatment, depression has been shown to be chronic and recurrent, and the long-term consequences for patients afflicted with depression are surprisingly severe and pervasive. This symposium will review the epidemiology and clinical course of depression, as well as address the social and economic impacts of depression on society. Issues associated with the diagnosis and treatment of depression in special patient populations, including women, patients with cardiovascular disease and patients with bipolar depression, also will be considered. The relative safety and effectiveness of various classes of anti-depressants in the treatment of depression in patients with comorbid conditions (or other complicating features) will be discussed, based on results from clinical trials.

Psychiatric Leadership for Children and Families: Mental Health in Organized Systems of Care

Chp.: Steven S. Sharfstein, M.D. Co-Chp.: Beverly J. Stoute, M.D.

Organized care systems for mental health and substance abuse can best achieve both cost management and quality improvement by integrating health services. Health insurance purchasing ecoperatives may be established as the new major purchasers negotiating with competing regional systems of care. The cooperatives would enroll both employed and unemployed people, functioning as vehicles for universal coverage. As the transition to universal coverage proceeds, several questions about appropriateness and equity in mental health care must be considored, Mary Jane England, M.D., discusses several of these questions, including whether increased acress to mental health care can yield a reduction in medical apending, whether accountability in mental health treatment can be achieved without narrowly defining disorders as biologically determined, and how the care system eun cover nonmedical aervices such as respite care and support groups.

Dr. England is President of the Washington Business Group on Health and National Program Director for the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's Mental Health Services Program for Youth. She has frequently testified before Congress and been a spokesperson in the national media for universal access to health care services and condiscriminatory coverage for treatment of mental illness and substance abuse. Treasurer of the American Psychiatric Association since 1990, Tir. England also serves as a consultant to APA's Joint Commission on Government Relations, as a member of the advisory committee of Psychiatric News, and on the Editorial Board of Hospital and Community Psychiatry. A past President of the American Medical Women's Association, she has been elected to the National Academy of Public Administration, the American College of Paychiatriats, the American College of Mental Health Administration, and the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Dr. England graduated from the Boston University School of Medicine and completed her psychiatric training at University Hospital in Boston and at Mount Zion Hespital in San Francisco, She completed a followship in child and adolescent psychiatry at Boston University-Boston City Hospital Child Guidance Clinic.

APA'S OSKAR PEISTER LECTURE

James W. Fowler III, Ph.D.

Healing Spirit: Psychiatry and the Dynamics of Faith

Chp.: Richard J. Thurrell, M.D. Co-Chp.: Clark S. Aist, Ph.D.

Drawing on an inclusive perspective on faith not restricted to religious faith, James W. Fowler III, Ph.D., proposes a language for characterizing dimensions of the spirit in the relationship between help-seeker and help-giver. He sees the relational structure of the therapeutic alliance as triadic rather than dyadic; together the psychiatrist and patient compose a "third body" of beliefs, values, symbolic meanings and myths of treatment efficacy that provide a holding environment for the work of deconstruction and reconstruction. In this "sacred space," underlying patterns of meaning making and selfhood can be transformed.

Dr. Fowler is Charles Howard Candler Professor of Theology and Human Development and Director of the Center for Research on Faith and Moral Development at Emory University in Atlanta. A pioneer in research and theory building in the area of faith development, Dr. Fowler is the author or editor of ten books and more than 50 articles and has lectured in eight. countries beyond the United States. Combining the resources of constructive developmental psychology with psychosocial and ego psychology, his original research has addressed the fields of moral and religious education, pastoral care, and more recently, psychiatry. He has conducted research on the spiritual dimensions of Alcoholics Anonymous and is currently writing a book on shame, entitled Authority and the Broken Heart: Shame, Selfhood and Healing. Dr. Fowler received his doctoral degree in Religion and Society from Harvard University and did a postdoctoral year of study at the Center for Moral Development at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

Visual Mental Images in the Brain

Chp.: John M. Morihisa, M.D. Co-Chp.: Steven I. Altchuler, M.D.

Visual mental imagery—seeing with the mind's eye—is a quintessential cognitive activity whose private nature has made it difficult to study. New brain-scanning techniques, including positron emission tomography and functional magnetic resonance imaging, offer the opportunity to study the system of brain mechanisms that generate and utilize visual mental imagery. Stephen H. Kosslyn, Ph.D., discusses implications of this research, including findings suggesting that processes underlying visual mental imagery are also involved in visual perception and memory and can influence and be influenced by processes that underlie emotion.

Dr. Kosalyn ja Professor of Paychology at Harvard University and Associate Psychologist in the Department of Neurology at Massachusetts General Hospital. The author of more than 100 papers and five books, he has received numerous honors for his work, including the National Academy of Sciences Initiatives in Research Award: He is a member of the Editorial Boards of several journals, including *Behavioral Neuro*science, Journal of Cognitive Neuroscience and Psychological Review, and is a consultant to the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation. Dr. Kosslyn was elected Fellow of the American Paychological Association in 1984 and Follow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1987. He received his doctoral degree in psychology from Stanford University.

F2 Children of Fate

(85 minutes) 1992

Directors: Andrew Young and Susan Todd

Distributor: First Run Features

153 Waverly Place, Sixth Floor

New York, NY 10014

In Sicily, Angela battles poverty, crime and her abusive husband to keep her family together. Interweaving images of contemporary Angela (now a grandmother) with footage shot by filmmaker Andrew Young's father, Robert, for the 1961 documentary Cortile Cascino, Children of Fate poignantly recounts one woman's struggle over three decades.

Modern apartment buildings now rise where Sicily's Cortile Cascino slums once festered, but hardships remain. Angela has three children who are unemployed or in prison, and nine grandchildren. Crises are regular, (a son-in-law's death from a heroin overdose and a daughter's grave illness), but they are met with remarkable strength and determination.

As Angela labors to prevent her family from unraveling, award-winning Children of Fate reveals a stark portrait of the culture of poverty.

V2 Pass the Boards! Sample Tape

(90 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: James C.-Y Chou, M.D.

35 Mulligan Lane Irvington, NY 10533

In the Pass the Boards! a well-prepared but anxious candidate conducts an excellent interview of a patient with schizoaffective disorder. The examination proves the candidate's knowledge of differential diagnosis of psychotic disorders and explores treatment issues, in detail, including use of neuroleptics, antidepressants and ECT. In the critique, the candidate discusses her anxiety and comments on strategies helpful to prevent panicking when unanticipated situations arise during the exam. The examiner gives many suggestions on handling the interview, reducing anxiety, interacting with the examiners, what to do when you don't know the answer, and answering questions with no right answer.

The Art and Life of Joseph Beuys

Chp.: Michelle Riba, M.D. Co-Chp.: Dean M. Ishiki, M.D.

Joseph Beuys is generally regarded as the most important artial to emerge in postwar Germany. A member of the Hitler Youth, Bouys was a World War II fighter pilot who was shot down over Russia. He claims to have been rescued by Tartare, who wrapped him in felt and fat to keep him warm and taught him to be a abaman. This personal mythology became an important part of Beuys's performance art, which uses felt and fat as primary materials. Beuys conceives of his art as personally and socially healing, explicitly calls it "homeopathic," and regards his performances as "psychological actions." Donald Kuspit, Ph.D., examines Beuys's development, his representation as a shaman, the character of his performances, and the reasons for his great influence in postwar Germany.

Dr. Kuspit is Professor of Art History and Philosophy at the State University of New York at Stony Brook and Andrew Dixon White Professor-at-Large at Cornell University. He has written more than 900 articles, exhibition reviews, and catalogue essays, and 12 books, including The Cult of the Avant-Garde Artist and Signs of Psyche in Modern and Postmodern Art, both published in 1993 by Cambridge University Press. Winner of the College Art Association Frank Jewett Mather Award for Distinction in Art Criticism, Dr. Kuspit is a Contributing Editor for Artforum, Sculpture and New Art Examiner, the Editor of Art Criticism, and a member of the Advisory Board of Centennial Review. He has received fellowships from the Ford Foundation, the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities, Dr. Kuspit has a doctorate in philosophy from the University of Frankfurt in Germany, a doctorate in art history from the University of Michigan, and has completed the course of study at the Psychoanalytic Institute of the New York University Medical Center.

Director:

Lynne Sachs

Distributor: University of California

Extension Media Center 2176 Shattuck Avenue Berkeley, CA 94704

This multi-award-winning documentary profiles the life and work of Reverend L.O. Taylor, a black Baptist minister from Memphis, Tennessee. In addition to his ministry work, Rev. Taylor was also an inspired filmmaker with an overwhelming interest in preserving a visual and aural record of the social, cultural and religious fabric of black American life in the 1930s and 1940s. This stylistically innovative work combines Taylor's black-and-white films and audio recordings with color images of contemporary Memphis neighborhoods and religious gatherings. Commentary by members of the Memphis community forms an intertwined narrative focusing on Rev. Taylor as a pioneering documentarian and social activist.

Relevance-Oriented Video Therapy (ROVT) is an innovative tool providing an environment that accelerates, abbreviates, and enhances psychotherapy by addressing the self. Through provision of a time-saving, specifically relevant audiovisual feedback that deautomatizes (Holzman) the operation of the Self-System (Basch), it limits routine defensive maneuvers and gains immediate access to full conscious information processing, thus leading to a prompt motivation for change, if correctively needed (Weiner). The patients are asked to identify the "relevant" segments of the videotape, which are then collectively processed. The description of the "relevant" is deliberately vague to allow each patient to define it through his/her selection system, which is highly revealing. In fact, the patient is being given the opportunity to compare his self-image and expectation schemas to his actual self in action. Any discrepancy between the two will trigger the notion of the "relevant." It will challenge the Self-System's competence for self-assessment and motivation for prompt change.

University Hospital Department of Psychiatry

4500 Oak Street

Vancouver, BC, Canada V6H 3N1

When physicians are emotionally distressed or psychiatrically impaired, they are at risk for transgressing the normal doctor/patient boundaries. In this video, Dr. A, a 39-year-old general practitioner, describes how he became sexually involved with a woman patient while he was in the midst of marital separation and other life stressors. He was subsequently suspended from practicing medicine. Particularly highlighted in the interview are his sense of remorse, ambivalence about selfreporting, failed attempt at psychiatric intervention, isolation, shame, anger, and introspective analysis about his personal and family-of-origin dynamics. Dr. A is committed to prevention of such problems and volunteered to be interviewed so that health professionals would have a better understanding of personal risk and seek professional help.

F4 The Philadelphia Story (112 minutes) 1940

Director: George Cukor

Distributor: Swank Motion Pictures, Inc. 350 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway Hauppauge, NY 11787

We begin with a tribute to our meeting's locale. The Philadelphia Story is exemplary of those vintage Thirties and Forties "screwball" comedies that featured the social, marital, and extra-marital highlinks of the highborn. In this case, the (very) highborn and unhinged or starchy members of Philadelphia mainline society.

Feisty Tracy Lord (Katharine Hepburn) ejects her husband, the impossible, impossibly charming C.K. Dexter Haven (Cary Grant) from her life, then undertakes to marry a lumpish aspiring politician. Mike Conner (James Stewart), an insouciant newspaperman dispatched to cover the wedding weekend with his sardonic photographer sidekick (Ruth Hussey), becomes instantly smitten with Tracy and hopes to woo her away from the altar. Meanwhile, the still-smitten, irrepressible Dexter Haven weaves his own devious scheme to win Tracy back.

The Philadelphia Story is Hollywood classic comedy at its sophisticated best. Cukor's style is elegant, the acting is polished to a high gloss, the wit madcap, the pace frenetic. Eggheads may discover references to restoration comedy and The Taming of the Shrew. As for the hoi polloi, enjoy!

P.O. Box 10003

Santa Monica, CA 94103

When Abortion Was Illegal: Untold Stories presents intimate interviews with women who risked illegal abortions before 1973. Nominated in 1993 for an Academy Award as Best Documentary, it depicts, the remembrances of doctors and others who put their own careers and reputations at stake in their effort to protect women from the trauma of back-alley and self-induced abortions. Set against an historical and social backdrop that provides an informative context for this emotionally charged issue, Untold Stories makes a strong case for choice as a fundamental health care right.

V8 Motherless: A Legacy of Loss From Illegal Abortions

(30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

From the 1870s through 1973, when abortion was illegal, thousands of women lost their lives having illegal abortions. Most of them were married women who were mothers already. What became of their surviving children? Motherless explores the very real tragedy, not only for the women themselves who died painfully and often alone, but also for their sons and daughters who had to cope with the sudden, mysterious deaths of their mothers. In this video we meet four of these children, now grown, who have searched for information on mothers they knew too briefly and lost too soon. Jim Friedl remembers hiding in the closet and not letting his father out of his sight. Sharon Magee remembers her mother's last words: "Now you be good." Gwen Campbell was brought up by her grandmother who feared lest the same fate await Gwen. Linn Harwell imagines the desperation her mother must have felt to have tried to induce a miscarriage. These poignant stories provide a new dimension to the abortion rights debate, focusing as they do on the next generation.

images of Mind

Chp.: Monte S. Buchsbaum, M.D. Co-Chp.: David Silbersweig, M.D.

Marcus E. Raichle, M.D., has devoted his research career to developing safe, quantitative methods for using radioisotope techniques to measure and interpret localized changes in human brain function. These techniques have permitted original research correlating brain imaging with perceptual, motor and mental behavior, both in normal subjects and in patients with neurological and psychiatric disorders. Using these techniques, Dr. Raichle and his colleagues have studied the neurobiology of human emotions, and functional changes in the brain in dementia, unipolar depression and schizophrenia. Combining the technology of functional brain imaging with brain stimulation paradigms based on the information processing strategies of cognitive science, they have studied the organization of language in the normal brain and developed new concepts of the physiological relationship among brain blood flow, brain metabolism and neuronal activity.

Cartenari or natipact

Dr. Raichle is Professor of Radiology and Neurology in the Division of Radiation Sciences at the Edward Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology in St. Louis, Professor of Neurology at Washington University School of Medicine, and Professor of Biomedical Engineering and of Naurobiology at Washington University. He is also a Senior Fellow at the McDonnell Center for Studies of Higher Brain Function and a Conaulting Neurologist at St. Louis Children's Hospital, Author of more than 200 articles and book chapters, Dr. Raichle in a member of the Editorial Boards of the Journal of Neuroscience, the Journal of Cognitive Neuroscience and Biolo*gical Perchatt*y and a member of the Program Committee of the Society for Neuroscience. A Past-President of the International Society of Cerebral Hlood Flow and Metabolism, he was elected to the Institute of Medicine in 1992 and has received the Paul C. Aebersold Award from the Society of Nuclear Medicine, the Decade of the Brain Medal from the American Association of Neurological Surgeons and the Sylvio O. Thomas Story Kirkbride and the Art of Asylum-Keeping: Some Sesquicentennial Reflections

Chp.: Martha J. Kirkpatrick, M.D. Co-Chp.: Dorothy Bernatein, M.D.

Thomas Story Kirkbride (1809-1883), a founder of the American Psychiatric Association and for 43 years the head of the Institute of the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia, pioneered the practice of moral treatment or milieu management and became the leading American authority on the construction and administration of mental hospitals. Dr. Kirkbride's personal life was also dramatic he was shot in the head by one former patient, sued in a highly publicized case by another, and married a third. This latter relationship is interesting in light of current controversy about personal relationships between doctors and patients. Far from being viewed as unethical, this marriage of doctor and former patient was seen at the time as a tribute to the efficacy of moral treatment. Nancy J. Tomes, Ph.D., Associate Professor of History at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, uses Dr. Kirkbride's career to reflect on changes and continuities in the practice of psychlatry over the last 150 years.

Dr. Tomes is the author of A Generous Confidence: Thomas Story Kirkbride and the Art of Anylum-Recoing (Cambridge University Press, 1984). The paperback edition, retitled The Art of Asylum-Keeping: Thomas Story Kirkbride and the Origins of American Psychiatry, is being published this year by the University of Pennsylvania Press. She is also the conuthor with Lynn Comwell of a pictorial history of American peychiatry, entitled Madness in America: Medical and Cultural Perceptions of Insanity Before 1900, to be published this year. Dr. Tomes serves on the Editorial Boards of the Bulletin of the History of Medicine, History of Perchiatry, and Journal of the History of Medicine. She formerly was Acting Director of the Francis C. Wood Institute for the History of Medicine at the College of Physicians in Philadelphia and has received a Rockefeller Foundation postdoctoral fellowship and research grants from the American Council of Learned Societies, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Library of Medicine. She received her doctorate in history from the University of Fennsylvania.

F5 Salut Victor (84 minutes) 1989

Director: Anne Claire Poirier

Distributor: Frameline

P.O. Box 14792

San Francisco, CA 94114

Salut Victor is the story of two elderly gay men who meet in a nursing home. Philippe, a staid and wealthy bachelor, reluctantly moves into a nursing home amid bitterness and despair over his loss of independence. He meets Victor, an enthusiastic extrovert who plays practical jokes on the nursing staff. Philippe unwillingly finds himself drawn to Victor, and the friendship of these two very different men serves as the vehicle for an analysis of issues of intimacy, aging, dependence, sickness and death. At first Philippe is offended by Victor's bold behavior and rhetoric, but ultimately the contact with Victor leads Philippe to rediscover a zest for life, albeit at a price. As the relationship with Victor helps Philippe overcome despair over personal and physical losses, Victor's cardiac illness intervenes and raises the risk of still more loss. The slow process by which the very private Philippe admits his homosexuality to the brazen Victor is a testimonial to the different ways that homosexuals dealt with stigma in the pre-Stonewall era, but the ultimate message of the film is the redemption of Philippe's life through an intimate relationship.

V9 Where There is Hatred (56 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: The Video Project

5332 College Avenue, Suite 101

Oakland, CA 94618

Horrified at the toll taken by violent struggles for social justice, Israeli journalist Ilan Ziv traveled to Chile, the West Bank, and the Philippines looking for alternative models of social change. Based on his experiences, Ziv produced Where There is Hatred, a powerful argument for the effectiveness of nonviolent political action. This video draws on case studies demonstrating that popular, nonviolent resistance to state oppression is a viable alternative to armed revolution. Dr. Gene Sharp, director of the Harvard University Program on Nonviolent Strategies, analyzes these recent struggles and clearly delineates four stages in the process of creating effective nonviolent social action: Overcoming Fear, Unity and Empowerment, Demilitarizing the Military, and Building a New Society. This is a thought-provoking video that puts "people power" in a positive perspective.

V10 The Language of War

(28 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: The Video Project

5332 College Avenue, Suite 101

Oakland, CA 94618

"Pre-Dawn Vertical Insertion" means invasion. "Violence Processing" means combat. "Permanent Pre-Hostility" means peace. Does the military use language to clarify or camouflage the reality of war and preparations for war? What are the implications of this language for our democratic society? Military historian Col. Harry Summers, journalist Peter Braestrup, William Lutz, author of the book Doublespeak, and combat veterans analyze the Pentagon's brand of English. Mixing humor with striking examples of Pentagonese, this provocative program raises serious questions about the dangerous impact euphemisms and doublespeak have on public debate and public policy. The Language of War is a very important program that goes to the heart of creating a more honest and truthful government, especially on matters that are literally life and death.

V11 The Loss of an Enemy

(28 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: The Video Project

5332 College Avenue, Suite 101

Oakland, CA 94618

For decades, the Cold War helped define who we were as a nation. The Loss of an Enemy looks back at the origins of the Cold War and what its end means to our country. Extensive use of archival footage illustrates major milestones in the Cold War era, featuring some of the players, including presidents Truman and Eisenhower. The program analyzes the overreactions on both sides to perceived threats and assesses what we gained and lost, both globally and domestically. Finally, this informative video looks at how we should respond today to the changes in the world. Expert commentary is offered by highly knowledgeable sources, including author Hendrick Smith, former Time Magazine correspondent and now State Department official Strobe Talbott, former State Department official Richard Burt. Professor Michael Mandelbaum of Johns Hopkins University, and Alexei Arbatov, who presents the Soviet perspective.

Discussant: Bradley D. Grinage, M.D.

CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE: REPORTS BY CHILDREN

Chp.: Edward A. Mason, M.D.

V12 Surviving Sexual Abuse

(26 minutes)

Producer: Dialogs, Inc.

Distributor: University of California

Extension Media Center 2176 Shattuck Avenue Berkeley, CA 94704

Two young men and two young women relate their experiences of being abused as children and adolescents by family members or therapists. They describe the effects of this abuse on their lives; one tells about having become an abuser himself. They have survived their trauma and now lead healthy, productive lives. This award-winning videotape is designed to help viewers learn to confront and discuss their experiences and to work through their bitterness, anger, and guilt.

V13 Four Men Speak Out on Surviving Child Sexual Abuse

(28 minutes)

Producer: Planned Parenthood Association of

Cincinnati

Distributor: Varied Directions International

69 Elm Street Camden, ME 04843

Male children are not immune to sexual abuse, though society makes it more difficult for them than for girls to disclose. These men were abused by a director of youth programs, an older boy, a father, and a friend. They speak frankly to the camera in an effort to help others understand their reactions to the trauma and their efforts toward recovery. A potent videotape, it shows the need to find and help similar victims.

V14 The Last Taboo

(40 minutes)

Producer: David Cohen

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This British videotape emphasizes the fact that sexual abuse is also committed by other children. Here, several tell of their experiences as victim or abuser, or both. Frequently it occurs in a cycle of family abuse. Of Liverpool abusers, 36% are under age 18 and 12% under age 11. Several professionals comment on the resistance to recognizing this problem, while one points out the lack of treatment facilities for children who abuse others.

V15 Innocence Lost: The Verdict: A Frontline Special Report

(60 minutes)

Director: Ofra Bigel Distributor: PBS Video

1320 Braddock Place

Alexandria, VA 22314-1698

In 1992, Bob Kelly was found guilty and given 12 consecutive life sentences in one of the largest child sexual abuse cases in this country's history. In this presentation, excerpted from the four-hour PBS Frontline update, producer Ofra Bikel returns to the oncepeaceful community of Edenton, North Carolina for the trials of Kelly and an employee. Five other trials are still to follow. The whole videotape includes documentary footage of the investigation, the community dynamics, and the trial, as well as interviews with lawyers, jurors, friends, and expert witnesses. Its remarkable coverage probes the troubling ambiguities that child sexual abuse cases present to society and our legal system. Discussion will focus on the child as witness. but also includes the community hysteria, the jury process, and the investigation of the victims by "therapists."

U.S. Representative Jim McDermott, (D-WA)

Representative Jim McDermott was the first member of his family to attend college, and then he went on to finish medical school. After completing his medical residency and military service, he made his first run for public office in 1970 and was elected as a state representative from the 43rd legislative district in Washington. In 1974, he ran for the State Senate, and subsequently was re-elected three times. In 1980, he received the Democratic nomination for Governor, defeating the incumbent in the primary.

In 1987, after 15 years of legislative service, Representative McDermott decided to leave politics and continue in public service as a Foreign Service medical officer based in Zaire, providing psychiatric services to Foreign Service, AID, and Peace Corps personnel in sub-Saharan Africa. When the 7th district Congressional seat later became open, he returned from Africa to run for the U.S. House of Representatives. He was elected in 1988 to the 101st Congress and reciected in 1990 and 1992.

A physician, Representative McDermott is especially interested in health care issues, and, while in the state legislature, he developed the Washington Basic Health Plan, the first state program in the country to provide low-cost health insurance to the unemployed and working poor. In the Congress he is active in health care reform issues, and was appointed to the Ways and Means Committee's Health Subcommittee in 1992. He also founded and chairs the Congressional Task Force on International HIV/AIDS and introduced the AIDS Housing Opportunities Act, a new program enacted into law in 1990 authorizing $156 million in FY92 for special housing assistance for people with AIDS.

Representative McDermott is also Chairperson of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, which serves as the ethical oversight committee for Congress. Representative McDermott is also the coauthor of HR 1200, the single-payer plan. He is leading the fight for comprehensive health care coverage in the House of Representatives.

Psychiatry's Future: Students, Residents and Reform

Chp.: Arnold M. Cooper, M.D. Co-Chp.: Cathy Ann Mercaldi, M.D.

Health systems reform has created uncertainties about the future of psychiatry. Changing patterns in medical student recruitment and the evolution of psychiatric subspecialties may lead to new roles for the psychiatric practitioner. These developments can be regarded as crises for the psychiatric profession or as indications of rapidly evolving medical and mental health systems that will strengthen the profession.

James H. Shore, M.D., reviews factors influencing the recruitment crisis in psychiatry, which has been viewed primarily as a decrease in the number of U.S. graduates matching to the psychiatry. internship. Dr. Shore underscores other factors that should be considered, including increases in the number of applicants outside the match, international medical graduates, and applicants from other medical specialties. The roles of women and minorities in the changing pattern of recruitment are also significant. Psychiatry has more than ten subspecialties, five of which have received official recognition. The future of the aubapecialties depends on recruitment. Dr. Shore reviews the debate between generalists and subspecialists. He also describes the proposed National Health Board, which represents a rigid allocation model of residency positions that lacks a clear policy for psychiatry. The future practice of psychiatry will be affected by all these factors, whose potential impacts Dr. Shore describes.

Dr. Shore is Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center and Superintendent of the Colorado Psychiatric Hospital. He is a Director and President of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and Chairman of APA's Council on Medical Education, A member of the Editorial Board of Hospital and Community Psychiatry, Dr. Shore also serves on the National Steering Committee for the State University Collaboration Project.

For his work with the Indian Health Service, Dr. Shore received a Commendation Medal from the U.S. Public Health Service. He has received citations from the Oregon Mental Health Division and Board of Medical Examiners and the Regents of the University of Colorado, He is the author or co-author of more than 100 publications.

Dr. Shore received his medical degree from Duke University and completed his psychiatric residency training at the University of Washington in Scattle.

LECTURE 10

9:00 a.m.-10:30 a.m. Room 114, Street Level, Convention Center Solomon H. Snyder, M.D.

Gases as Novel Neural Messengers

Chpa John M. Oldham, M.D.

Until recently, it was thought that the major chemical classes of neurotransmitters were biogenic amines, amino acids and peptides. Evidence that gases such as nitric oxide and earbon monoxide are neurotransmitters in the brain has revolutionized thinking about synaptic transmission. Nitric oxide appears to mediate the neurotoxicity caused by excess glutamate release in stroke and possibly in neurodegenerative diseases. Recent evidence suggests that carbon monoxide may mediate long-term potentiation, a neural model of learning and memory. Unlike conventional neurotransmitters, nitric oxide and carbon monoxide are not stored in synaptic vesicles but are synthesized on demand. They do not act at receptor proteins but instead diffuse into adjacent cells to act directly upon second messenger targets. Solomon H. Synder, M.D., discusses the implications for synaptic transmission of findings about the role of gases as neurotranemittent

Dr. Snyder is Director of the Department of Neuroscience and Distinguished Service Professor of Neuroscience, Pharmacology and Psychiatry at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. Many advances in molecular neuroscience have stemmed from Dr. Snyder's identification of receptors for neurotransmitters and drugs and elucidation of the actions of psychotropic agents. He is the author of more than 700 scientific articles and several books, including Biological Aspects of Mental Disorder and Drugs and the Brain. A member of the National Academy of Sciences and a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Snyder is the recipient of numerous professional honors, including the Albert Lasker Award for Basic Biomedical Research, the Wolf Foundation Prize in Medicine, and the Bower Award from the Franklin Institute. He received his medical training at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., and his psychiatric training at The Johns Hopkins University.

Eric J. Nestler, M.D.

Molecular Psychiatry: Promises For the Future

Chp.: Jack D. Barchas, M.D. Co-Chp.: Joseph F. Goldberg, M.D.

Over the past 50 years, advances in understanding and treating many common illnesses have arisen from basic molecular and cellular studies of organ function under normal and pathological conditions. However, most neurobiological research in psychlatry has been focused narrowly on a pharmacological-endocrinological view of the brain. Understanding the etiology and pathophysiology of psychiatric diseases has been an clusive goal. Eric J. Nestler, M.D., discusses recent developments in molecular and cell biology and in the basic neurosciences that are, for the first time, making possible a molecular approach to understanding, treating and preventing mental illness.

Dr. Nestler is Edith Mears and House Jameson Associate Professor in the Departments of Psychiatry and Pharmacology at Yale University School of Medicine, and Director of the Division of Molecular Psychiatry in the Department of Psychiatry. He also serves as Director of the Abraham Ribicoff Research Facilities, the center focus of the Yale Department of Psychiatry's Neurobiology Research Program. Dr. Nestler's research seeks to delineate the biochemical and molecular mechanisms by which psychotropic drugs produce long-term alterations in brain function and to expand understanding of neural plasticity under normal and pathophysiological conditions. His research accomplishments have been recognized by honors that include fellowships and awards from the American College of Psychiatrists, the Alfred P. Slaan Foundation, the McKnight Endowment Fund for Neuroscience, the American Society for Neurochemistry, and the National Alliance for the Mentally III.

In addition to hearly 100 ecientific publications. Dr. Neatler is the conuthor of two books: Protein Phosphorylation in the Nervous System, (1984) with Dr. Paul Greengard, and The Molecular Foundations of Psychiatry: (1993) with Dr. Steven Hyman. A consultant on drug addiction to the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Dr. Nestler is an ad hoe member of grant review committees of the National Science Foundation, the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the National Institute of Mental Health and the National Academy of Sciences. He also serves on the Editorial Boards of the Journal of Neurochemistry and Biological Psychiatry and is Editor in Chief of Yate Psychiatry, Dr. Nestler received his medical and doctoral degrees from Yule University School of Medicine and completed his residency in psychiatry and two postdoctoral fellowships in the school's Departments of Psychiatry and Pharmacology. John Cleese and A.C. Robin Skynner, M.B. Life and How to Survive It

Chp.: Charles W. Popper, M.D. Co-Chp.: John C. Markowitz, M.D.

Comedian John Cleese and psychiatrist A.C. Robin Skymor, M.B., are coauthors of the best-selling books Families and How to Survive Them (1983) and Life and How to Survive It (1993). Illustrated with cartoons by Bud Handelsman, the books explore healthy functioning in families, organizations and society.

Mr. Cleese is celebrated as a writer and performer in the television series Monty Python's Flying Circus and Fawity Towers and in the Monty Python films And Now for Something Completely Different, Monty Python and the Holy Grail and Life of Brian. He also wrote and starred in A Fish Called Wanda, for which he received the Award for Best Actor from the British Academy of Film and Television Arts and nominations for Best Screenplay from the American Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and the Writers Guild of America. He also appeared in the films Silverado, Clockwise and Splitting Heirs. He received an Emmy Award for a guest appearance on the television series Cheers and this year received the Jack Oakie Award for comedy performances in film and television from the U.S. Screen Actors Guild Foundation. Mr. Cleese attended Downing College at Cambridge and received an M.A. in Law in 1963.

Dr. Robin Skynner's special interest is the practice and teaching of psychotherapy with individuals, couples, groups and families. A Fellow of the Royal College of Psychiatrists and the Royal Society of Medicine. Dr. Skynner is a Founder of the Institute of Group Analysis and a Founder and first Chairman of the Institute of Family Therapy in London. He has written more than 40 book chapters and professional articles and three books in addition to those with Mr. Cloese, Dr. Skynner was educated at the University College Hospital Medical School in London and recoived his training in psychological medicine from the Institute of Psychiatry and the Bethlem Royal and Maudaley Hospitals in London.

F6 David and Lisa (95 minutes) 1962

Director: Frank Perry

Distributor: Films Incorporated

5547 North Ravenswood Avenue

Chicago, IL 60640-1199

A "little" film that made it big was David and Lisa. Prior to this 1962 film, there had been films like Snake Pit and The Three Faces of Eve, but the understated charm of David and Lisa is what set the movie apart from so many other attempts at depicting the problems of the mentally ill. David is a bright young man who cannot bear to be touched by anyone. His overly protective mother and father leave him at a private school with Dr. Swinford who runs the institution, which caters to children with mental problems. Lisa is a very troubled schizophrenic who talks in rhyme and is deeply ensconced in her shell. The two meet and the gradual falling-in-love story is what forms the basis for the film.

San Francisco, CA 94103

Children ages 6-11 spend more time watching television than they do in a classroom. This tape scrutinizes television's "hidden curriculum," showing many clips with commentary by scholars, television executives and critics. It explores the values television communicates and the role models it provides, as it focuses especially on violence, sexuality, anti-intellectualism and consumption. Scholars explain how these images contribute to aggressive behavior, lessened attention spans and diminished cognitive abilities among our young. The tape chronicles the history of television and public policy, revisiting the continuing conflict between success in the marketplace and an informed citizenry from the Communications Act of 1934 to the Childrens' Television Act of 1990. Media activism is encouraged, as well as teaching children to be "media literate."

V17 Prisoners of Silence

(60 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: PBS Video

Autism, characterized by withdrawal and communication difficulties, afflicts nearly 400,000 Americans. Seemingly cut off from the world, most of these people have little or no speech. Facilitated Communication (FC) is a controversial new technique recently imported from Australia. PBS Frontline conducts an examination of FC to determine if it offers false hope or a miracle breakthrough. FC trains facilitators to help an autistic individual type his or her thoughts on a keyboard. Backers say this is genuine expression; skeptics demonstrate its failure in scientific tests. The stakes in this debate are money, hope and heartbreak.

V18 Healing Our Children: Understanding Psychological Trauma (90 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Baxley Media Group

110 West Main Urbana, IL 61801

This program provides, in three segments, information on the symptomatology, assessment and treatment of traumatized children. Each segment includes information that will support therapists and clinicians with the experience and commentary of experts from several mental health disciplines. The segment being shown in this session is on treatment and focuses on therepeutic exercises and activities, as demonstrated and discussed by Dr. Beverly James. These exercises allow the therapist and child to work together to address such issues as selfblame, body integrity, emotional constriction, and overwhelming memories. This segment takes a close look at the difficulties encountered in helping a child begin to explore feelings and ends with a poignant discussion of the legacy of trauma and the movement toward healing.

V19 The Counting Method

(25 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Gift From Within

One Lily Ponds Drive Camden, ME 04843

Traumatic memories invade the consciousness of those who suffer from PTSD, presenting a profound challenge for the survivor and for the post-traumatic therapist. In this documentary, Dr. Frank Ochberg explains and models his "counting method" for mastering flashbacks and intrusive recollections. This method is a powerful, yet simple tool in the armamentarium of PTT (posttraumatic therapy). Recorded during an extraordinary training seminar for Michigan State University psychiatry residents, this video documents a specific technique and a collegial, collaborative relationship between psychotherapist and client, midway through a long-term, multifaceted outpatient treatment.

V20 Psychoimagery: Healing the Child Within (30 minutes)

Producer: Trudy M. Manning, M.S. Distributor: James J. Consoli, M.A.

Psychimage Productions

P.O. Box 1980 Norfolk, VA 23501

Psychoimagery is a therapeutic technique that Mr. Consoli is pioneering within the mental health field. Psychoimagery joins the client's imagery rendered externally through art with the epistemological metaphors he or she creates internally. This process involves the use of "clean language," in which the therapist chooses words carefully to minimize retraumatizing the client, a procedure Mr. Consoli refers to as "ushered imagery." This compelling film explains the psychoimagery process, citing a case example of an agoraphobic who shares her experiences with this form of treatment. The client also describes the insight gained about the art work and visits the actual location where the trauma occurred.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT AND GENDER-BASED DISCRIMINATION IN THE WORKPLACE

Moderator: Martha J. Kirkpatrick, M.D. Participants: Paul S. Appelbaum, M.D., Elissa P. Benedek, M.D., Glen O. Gabbard, M.D., Freada Klein, Ph.D., Sharyn Ann Lenhart, M.D., Joseph N. Onek, J.D., Steven S. Sharfstein, M.D., Jim Bennett, M.D., Deborah L. Cabaniss, M.D., Elyse D. Dubo, M.D., Denise M. Heebink, M.D., Carlos Ruiz, M.D.

Within the last several years, there has been a dramatic increase in public awareness of sexual harassment and gender-based discrimination in the workplace. Psychiatrists confront these issues in a number of ways. First, psychiatrists may themselves be the targets of harassment or discrimination. Second, psychiatrists who work as administrators in large organizations may be responsible for designing and implementing policies concerning sexual harassment and gender-based discrimination. Third, psychiatrists treat victims of harassment and discrimination, as well as individuals who have been accused of such behavior. The Round Table Discussion will begin with a series of vignettes portraying interactions that could be perceived as instances of sexual harassment. The vignettes are designed to highlight the complex issues that are raised when there is a question of sexual harassment in the workplace. The panelists will discuss these issues from a legal, administrative, and psychodynamic point of view.

THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

> Societal Violence and Psychiatry: Public Policy, Patient Care

Chp.: Peter M. Marzuk, M.D. Co-Chp.: Nina Y. Freund, M.D.

Violence in our society is directly related to the problem of inadequate and abusive parenting. This concept is not well understood or appreciated. Many children are never safe from violence, experiencing it from their parents, as well as from poors and others on the etrects and in school. We can attribute the growth of violence to a number of social factors, including the escalation of gratuitous violence on television. Intrapsychic and interpersonal issues also play a role.

Paul Jay Fink, M.D., examines the epidemiology of violence and discusses changes in societal attitudes over the last several decades that have led to uninformed and inadequate parenting. Such parenting has sustained and worsened child abuse and deserves examination as a factor contributing to violence in our society. Dr. Fink will point out that psychiatrists have a role to play both in developing public policy and in earing for abused and abusing patients.

Since 1984 Dr. Fink has been Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia and Medical Director of the Belmont Center for Comprebensive Treatment. He is also Professor and Deputy Chairman of the Department of Paychiatry at Temple University Health Sciences Center in Philadelphia, Dr. Fink is a Past President (1988-89) of the APA and currently serves as a Trustee. Chairman of the Council on Economic Affairs, and a member of the Committee on Managed Care. He is a member of the American Medical Association's Psychlatry Residency Review Committee and President-Flect (1993-94) of the American College of Psychiatrists. In April of 1992 he was appointed by Mayor Rendell to the Philadelphia Board of Health, Dr. Fink is Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Short-Term Psychotheropy and sits on the Editorial Advisory Boards of Clinical Psychiatry News and Physician News Digest, He co-edited a recent book, The Stigma of Mental Illness, and has authored or co-authored more than 120 publications.

The APA awarded Dr. Fink the Seymour D. Vestermark Award in 1982 and the Francis J. Braceland Award for Public Service in 1990. He has received numerous national and local honors, including the Bowis Award of the American College of Psychiatrists (1988), and the Pennsylvania Public Health Association Award for Service in Public Health (1991). In 1992 the National Alliance for the Mentally III recognized Dr. Flok as an exemplary psychiatrist.

Dr. Fink received his medical degree from Temple University School of Medicine, completed his residency at the Philadelphia Psychiatric Center, and postgraduate training at the Institute of the Philadelphia Association of Psychoanalysis.

Dewitt C. Alfred, Jr., M.D.

Our Heritage, Our Futures Comments on Medical and Psychiatric Education

Chp.: John O. Gaston, M.D. Co-Chp.: Carlo J. Baril, M.D.

Dr. Solomon Carter Fuller (1872-1953) is believed to be the first African-American physician fully credentialed as a psychiatrist, neurologist and neuropathologist. More recently, in the late 1960s and early 1970s, the founding of several organizations reflected the increasing involvement of African-Americans in psychiatry: the Committee of Black Psychiatrists of the American Psychiatric Association, the Black Psychiatrists of America, and the Solomon Carter Fuller Institute Dewitt C. Alfred, Jr., M.D., reflects on African-Americans' heritage in the field of psychiatry and discusses factors relating to minorities that will influence the future of American psychiatry, including trends in medical and psychiatric education and in psychiatric services and research.

Dr. Alfred is the founding Chairman and Profeasor of Psychiatry at Morehouse School of Medicine, Chief Psychiatrist at Morchouse Medical Associates and Clinical Professor of Havehiatry at Panory University School of Medicine. A member of the National Mental Health Advisory Council in the United States Depart. ment of Health and Human Services. Dr. Alfred was recently appointed to a second five-year term on the Georgia Board of Human Resources and serves as a member of the Board's Executive Committee and Chairman of the Board's Committee on Mental Health, Mental Returdstion and Substance Abuse. A Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, he has held several offices with the Georgia Paychiatric Association, including Secretary and President.

Dr. Alfred served on active duty for over nine years with the Medical Corps of the United States Air Force, departing in 1971 with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. His schievements were recognized with several military decorations, including the Logion of Merit. He received his medical degree from Howard University Collège of Medicine in Washington, D.C., and completed residencies in psychiatry at Washington University in St. Louis and at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C.

LECTURE 15

11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Exhibit Hall C, Exhibit Hall Level, Convention Center

Gary S. Becker, Ph.D.

The Economics of Habits and Addictions

Chp.: Kenneth B. Wells, M.D. Co-Chp.: Reuven Ferziger, M.D.

Gary S. Becker, Ph.D., Professor of Economics at the University of Chicago, received the 1992 Nobel Prize in economic science for his application of economic calculus to the analysis of human decision making in areas where behavior had been previously thought to be habitual or irrational. Dr. Becker is a Senior Fellow of the Hoover Institution in Stanford, California and an Associate in Economic Research at the National Research Center in Chicago, His doctoral dissertation, supervised by Milton Friedman and H. Gregg Lewis, became the book The Economics of Discrimination (1957). In it, Dr. Becker elaborated a theory of nonpocuniary motivation which he applied quantitatively to racial, ethnic, and aimilar forms of discrimination. In the late 1950s, Dr. Becker turned his attention to the economics of education, assembling data on the cost of education and on incomes of people with different levels of education. His analysis was presented in the monograph Human Capital: A Theoretical and Empleical Analysis, With Special Reference to Education (1964). His concept of "human capital," which refers to the skills and training of individuals that increase their productivity in an economy, has become part of the economic rhetoric of the Clinton administration.

Dr. Becker developed a view of crime as a rational decision in which the criminal weighs the costs and risks of his action in his essay "Crime and Punishment: An Economic Approach," first published in the Journal of Political Economy (1968). His book Economic Theory was published. in 1971. A Treatise on the Family (1981) described the family as a "small factory" that produces "basic goods" such as meals and child care. Dr. Becker used this framework to explain as predictable behavior the decline in birth rates and increase in divorce rates during the past two decades. Since 1992, he and a colleague have been studying addiction with the aim of constructing a rational model of decisions involved in addictive behavior. Dr. Becker received his doctoral degree in economics from the University of Chicago.

F7 Slacker

(97 minutes) 1992

Director: Richard Linklater Distributor: New Yorker Films

16 West, 61st Street New York, NY 10023

Slacker was filmed on a shoestring by Richard Linklater, who dropped out of school to work on an oil rig, and then dropped out of oil rigging to just "sort of hang around." Hanging around is the essential modus vivendi of the slacker (as in "cut me some slack").

Linklater's first feature, made with the financial and acting support of his fellow offbeats (few participants are professionals), takes place in and around the University of Austin's north campus. The slackers are mostly in their late 20s, not so fresh out of school. Their means of support are slender, often parent-based. They rarely rise before noon. Their dress is sub-grunge and their major sustenance, cigarettes and brew. They mainly frequent old movies, tacky diners and bars. They talk, talk, talk about the perilous state of the world and their heads, and the Kennedy assassination.

This dizzy essay on downward mobility defies convenient classification beyond that of a cult classic. It's hilarious, scary, and in the end strangely affirmative. Some salty language.

V21 Debut

(60 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: The Cinema Guild

1697 Broadway, Suite 802 New York, NY 10019

This cinema-verite documentary explores the realities of life as a classical musician through the story of Hexagon, a newly-formed chamber ensemble. In 1987, six young virtuoso musicians, despite hectic schedules and against difficult odds, decided to form a wind and piano sextet. Within four months of their first meeting they had won a contract with Young Concert Artists (YCA), a management firm well-known in the classical music world for discovering emerging talents. The documentary chronicles Hexagon's challenging first year and a half, from the group's seemingly casual first rehearsal to its high-pressured launching into the mainstream of the classical music scene. The video follows each of the six musicians as they try to juggle the demands of making a name for themselves in the highly competitive arena of chamber music. These are just a few of the many intriguing issues explored by Debut, which is also filled with the glorious music of Mozart, Ludwig Thuille, Camille Saint-Saens, and a new work by Lowell Lieberman commissioned by the group.

V22 Magnificat

(50 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Bullfrog Films

372 Dautrich Road Reading, PA 19606

The spirit of Bach's most joyous work is captured in an extraordinary contrast of styles. Magnificat features an outstanding traditional version of the "Magnificat in D," performed by Tafelmusik and the Tudor Singers, crosscut with an electrifying jazz version featuring Bobby McFerrin, Ann Mortifee, and the New Swingle Singers.

Discussant: Edward K. Rynearson, M.D.

VIDEOTAPE SESSION 12 12 noon-2:00 p.m.

Room 113 A, Street Level, Convention Center FIREARMS AND VIOLENCE

Chp.: Edward A. Mason, M.D.

V23 Living With the Gun (56 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This is a fast paced, shocking exposé on the prevalence of guns in American society. Educated estimates say there is an arsenal of 200 million firearms in this country, of which 120 million are handguns. Since weaponry from hand grenades to sophisticated machine guns is easily available, the police look back nostalgically to the days of the "Saturday Night Special." Focusing on Los Angeles, we hear from members of the Police Department and follow them in action. Many are Vietnam veterans, and they see the warfare on the streets as similar to the combat they left behind. Trained to disarm rather than to kill, they admit that in the heat of pursuit they lose sight of such distinctions. We see how members of the community arm themselves for self-protection. A jeweler is determined to protect his shop although he has been shot five different times. He takes pride in his marksmanship and goes nowhere without his gun. Homeowners engage consultants to advise on protection. In this videotape, no one feels safe at home or in the streets.

V24 A Kid Kills (30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: PBS Video

1320 Braddock Place Alexandria, VA 22314-1698

Should kids who commit adult crimes suffer adult consequences? Through a probing case study of a double murder committed by a 15-year-old boy in Boston, Frontline reporters reveal the many sides of today's violent crimes committed by juveniles. The video explores how teens raised in environments overwhelmed by poverty, crime, indifference, and rampant materialism turn to violence as a way to survive.

Gloria Faretra, M.D.

Psychiatric Leadership and Children's Services: A Shared Past, a Challenging Future

Chp.: Michael J. Vergare, M.D. Co-Chp.: A. Anthony Arce, M.D.

Psychiatrist administrators who led the initial development of mental health services for children and adolescents worked to define child psychiatric ilineases, initiate specialized treatment programs, and train staff. They helped integrate multiple systems affecting children and families, advocated for children in an adult-dominated specialty, and provided vision, guidance and inspiration for successors. Psychiatrist administrators in child and adolescent services now face a wide range of challenges, including demands for accountability and cost control, and disputes about the validity of child paychiatric diagnoses, about paychiatry's understanding and management of violence toward and by children, and about the value of residential care. Gloria Faretra, M.D., discusaca stratogios psychiatrist administrators may use to adapt to the rapidly changing health care environment, while maintaining their professional identity as psychiatrists.

Dr. Paretra is Executive Director of Queens Children's Psychiatric Center in Queens, New York, and Associate Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. Her work as a researcher, clinician and administrator has been recognized with several awards, including a Special Presidential Commendation from the American Association of Psychiatric Administrators, for which she served as President in 1982-1983. Dr. Faretra is a Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association and a Pollow of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and the American College of Mental Health Administration, She has served on the American Psychiatric Association's Committee on Administrative Psychiatry and was a consultant to APA's Council on Children, Adelescents and Their Families. The author of several papers and book chapters on child and adolescent psychiatry, Dr. Faretra is currently editor of the Journal of the American Association of Psychiatric Administrators and is a member of the Editorial Board of Psychiatric Quarterly. She received her medical degree at Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, D.C., and completed her residency in child psychiatry at Hellevue Hospital in New Ynd City

A Reading From the Recent Work of Joyce Carol Oates

Chp.: Wayne A. Myers, M.D. Co-Chp.: Rabert L. Klitzman, M.D.

For the past 25 years, Joyce Carol Oatos has published novels, short stories, poetry, plays, litorary criticism and essays. Ms. Oates has created a fictional universe populated with apparently ordinary American families whose relationships are ambiguous and intense, their experiences often wrenching and sometimes violent. Critic James Atlas said of her writing: "The engine of Oates' immense talent is powered by a fecund imagination and an immense knowledge of literature."

John Gardner called Ms. Oates "one of the great writers of our time." She has twice been nominated for the Nobel Prize in Literature. Other honors include the Rosenthal Award from the American Academy-Institute of Arts and Letters. a Guggenheim Fellowship, the O'Henry Prize for Continued Achievement in the Short Story, the National Book Award for her novel Them, and in 1978, membership in the American Academy Institute. She is the Roger S. Berlind Distinguished Professor of the Humanities at Princeton University.

Ms. Oates' most recent novels include American Appetites (1989), Because It Is Bitter, and Because It Is My Heart (1990), I Lock My Door Upon Myself (1990), The Rise of Life on Earth (1991), Heat: And Other Stories (1991), Black Water (1992), Foxfire: Confessions of a Girl Gang (1993), and Where Are You Going? Where Have You Been? Selected Short Stories by Joyce Carol Oates (1993).

Born in upstate New York, Ms. Oates received her B.A. from Syracuse University and her M.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

(60 minutes) 1992

Director:

Mickey Lemle

Distributor: Direct Cinema Ltd.

P.O. Box 10003

Santa Monica, CA 94103

Compassion in Exile is an intimate portrait of Tenzin Gyatso, the 14th Dalai Lama of Tibet, whose 30-year, nonviolent struggle on behalf of his people earned him the 1989 Nobel Peace Prize. It is also a moving look at the brutal treatment endured by the Tibetan people at the hands of the Communist Chinese, who since 1950 have sought to eradicate the Tibetans' culture and religion. Speaking with unprecedented candor, the Dalai Lama describes his upbringing and key moments in his life, while his countrymen bear witness to their personal ordeals. Featuring never-before-seen footage that reveals the mystery and beauty of Tibet, Compassion in Exile is at once a testament to the humility and gentle wisdom of a great spiritual leader and a heartfelt plea for the salvation of a people.

(57 minutes) 1992

Directors: Jed Riffle and Pam Roberts

Distributor: Roxie Releasing

3125 16th Street

San Francisco, CA 94103

When Ishi, who came to be known as the "last wild Indian in North America," suddenly appeared in rural Northern California in 1911, the country was stunned. His tribe was considered extinct, destroyed in bloody massacres carried out by Whites during the 1860s and 1870s. Ishi had lived in hiding for 40 years with the few remaining members of his tribe. As the sole survivor of his tribe, he had refused to surrender. For the young UC Berkeley anthropologist Alfred Kroeber, Ishi represented a chance to study an unacculturated Native American. Yet through his dignity, sense of self and amazing lack of bitterness toward those who had destroyed his people, Ishi transformed those around him. His story embodies the strength and resilience of California's indigenous people.

V25 Simple Courage: An Historical Portrait in the Age of AIDS

(53 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This inspiring video will make people look into their hearts as they face the growing problem of AIDS in our society. Simple Courage documents the treatment of leprosy victims, in Hawaii, in the 19th and early 20th centuries. American colonizers looked upon the disease as a curse from God, punishment for immoral sexual behavior. More than 8,000 sufferers, mostly native Hawaiins, were banished to an isolated peninsula and practically abandoned. One man, however, in a simple act of courage, took it upon himself to bring comfort to these hopeless people. He was Father Damien, a Catholic missionary from Belgium, who spent sixteen years caring for the "untouchables" until he himself succumbed to the disease. He transformed their prison into a place of decency and respect. Using archival footage and moving interviews with survivors from the 1930s and 1940s, Simple Courage shows the emotional pain of banishment added to the ravages of the disease. This story serves as a reminder of society's moral obligation to treat the sick with compassion.

V26 Belinda

(29 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Appalshop Film & Video

306 Madison Avenue Whitesburg, KY 41858

After complications following the birth of her second child. Kentuckian Belinda Mason became infected with HIV from a blood transfusion. Although Mason states she would rather have been remembered for being a fan of singer Conway Twitty and for spending time watching TV with her granny, this devoted wife and mother became a national spokesperson for individuals with AIDS. Her poignant story reveals how her rural Baptist community supported her, and contrasts her situation with the ostracism the Ray family faced in Florida. Sustained by her faith and a wonderful sense of humor, the redhaired former journalist also made speeches and wrote articles encouraging greater social acceptance of persons with AIDS. Generally sharp footage indelibly portrays an inspiring role model whose priorities influenced how she lived and helped others until her death at 32 years of age.

V27 Silverlake Life: The View From Here (99 minutes)

Producers: Jane Weiner and Doug Block

Distributor: Zeitgeist Films

247 Centre Street, 2nd Floor New York, NY 10013

This documentary would play essentially as a modest home movie were it not for its harrowing subject — one man's tragic, inexorable succumbing to AIDS. Silverlake Life is a highly personal film which traces the journey toward death of filmmaker Tom Joslin and his companion of 22 years, Mark Massi, both of whom are stricken with AIDS. Largely videotaped by Joslin and Massi themselves and completed by their friend, director Peter Friedman, the film captures the everyday realities of living with AIDS, and emerges as a heightened mix of optimism and despair as two remarkable people share moments of simple joy and profound sorrow. Although shattering at times, Silverlake Life is as much a paeon to life as a chronicle of death.

V28 Moyers: Facing Hate with Elie Wiesel (58 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Mystic Fire Video

P.O. Box 1092 Cooper Station New York, NY 10276

When he was 15, Elie Wiesel witnessed his family's demise in the Nazi death camps. Since then, he has struggled to understand hatred and its role in world affairs. In the process, he became a prolific writer, human rights leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner for his work in furthering social justice. In this interview with Bill Moyers, he examines the logic of hatred as expressed in literature, religion, history and personal experience.

V29 Beyond Hate

(88 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Mystic Fire Video

P.O. Box 1092 Cooper Station New York, NY 10276

A young Black man in Los Angeles is beaten by police officers; a woman loses her family to Northern Ireland's religious war; Arab and Israeli children enact a centuries-old conflict. They are witnesses to the power and effect of hate that fuels personal, national and international crises. Offering their insights are Nelson Mandela, Vaclav Havel, Jimmy Carter, Elie Wiesel, the advisor to the Tiananmen Square hunger strikers, Li Lu, and a startlingly reflective Crips gang member from south central Los Angeles.

Discussants: Bennett Simon, M.D., Roberta J. Apfel, M.D.

PRESIDENTIAL SYMPOSIUM 2:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m. Room 114, Street Level, Convention Center STIGMA AND THE CELEBRITY

Celebrity Panel: Suzanne Somers, actress and president of the Suzanne Somers Institute; Mariette Hartley, actress and Honorary President of the Suicide Foundation of America; and Art Buchwald, syndicated columnist and author.

Moderator: John S. McIntyre, M.D.

Participants: Paul Jay Fink, M.D., Past President APA; Laurie M. Flynn, M.A., Executive Director, National Alliance for the Mentally Ill; Susan Dime-Meenan, Executive Director, National Depressive Manic-Depressive Association; John A. Smith, Chief Executive Officer, National Mental Health Association

This session will bring together people who have suffered the stigma of mental illness and become celebrities in spite of it. There will be a great deal of interchange, with an opportunity to explore the pros and cons of using celebrities to destigmatize mental illness, alcoholism, substance abuse and suicide. We recognize that stigma is the most deleterious and destructive force in trying to bring appropriate and equitable care to the mentally ill. We know that stigma affects the families and friends of people with mental illness and undermines the confidence and well-being of anyone who has had this problem. Notwithstanding the fact that a large percentage of Americans have a serious mental illness at some point in their lives and each of them has a family that is affected by the illness, this panel presents an extraordinary array of very special people.

Chp.: Kenneth Paul Rosenberg, M.D.

V30 Why Am I Gay? (56 minutes)

Producer: Kenneth Paul Rosenberg, M.D.

Distributor: Home Box Office

American Undercover Series 1100 Avenue of the Americas

New York, NY 10036

Why Am I Gay? is a collection of four vignettes in which gay men and lesbians tell when they first realized they were "different" and how they chose, privately and publicly, to deal with it. Between the stories are brief comments by psychiatrists, scientists and academicians who argue that sexual orientation is determined at conception and is not something that is learned or unlearned. Why Am I Gay? is a complicated, controversial and fascinating hour that succeeds, to varying degrees, in its ambitious, two-pronged mission. It looks at the medical and sociological reasons why men and women are gay and lesbian, and it shows what life is like for homosexuals in a heterosexual society.

V31 Last Call at Maud's

(75 minutes)

Producers: Paris Poirier and Karen Kiss

Distributor: The Maud's Project Phone: 310-392-1239

Paris Poirier's Last Call at Maud's at once bids fond farewell to a cherished San Francisco landmark and documents a social revolution. Warm without being overly sentimental, this consistently entertaining and engaging film invites its interviewees to range far beyond bar room reminiscences to tell us what it was like to be a lesbian in postwar America.

V32 Kiev Blue

(28 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

When Heather MacDonald, an American filmmaker, went to Kiev to film a story about the homosexual population there, her first challenge was how to locate them. Lesbians and gay men have taken great pains to avoid detection, having lived with the threat of Article 121, which criminalizes homosexuality. As the videotape shows, Heather's determination to make contact succeeded, and nine men and women took the great risk to reveal their stories to an American audience. This videotape cannot be shown in Eastern European countries or former Soviet republics. These articulate men and women speak about their lives, fears, encounters with blackmail, government harassment and family rejection. They speak of chilling encounters with a Major Kosenko and the MVD, who use gay informants blackmailed into his service. One of their greatest frustrations is their inability to recognize and meet with their counterparts. Only in Moscow and St. Petersburg is there the beginning of an openly gay culture.

V33 Bill Moyers: Healing From Within

(50 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Ambrose Video

1290 Avenue of the Americas New York, NY 10104

Shown on PBS in March 1993 to critical acclaim, this videotape is the third one from that five-part series. Mr. Moyers reports on the work of Jon Kabat-Zinn, who teaches meditation to people from all walks of life, who are suffering from pain due to diverse medical problems. While his clinic is located in the heart of a modern hospital at the University of Massachusetts, his techniques are derived from a very old form of Buddhist meditation. Mr. Moyers also shows the work of David Spiegel, M.D., Professor of Psychiatry at Stanford. Dr. Spiegel conducted a pioneering study that demonstrated that group psychotherapy may prolong the lives of women in an advance phase of breast cancer as well as improve the quality of their lives.

Discussant: David Spiegel, M.D.

V34 Tibetan Medicine: A Buddhist Approach to Healing

(29 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Mystic Fire Video

P.O. Box 1092 Cooper Station New York, NY 10276

Tibet's first woman physician, Dr. Lopsang Dolma, shows how medicines are made from animal, vegetable and mineral substances and how acupuncture and moxibustion (burning the herb moxa on the skin to drive healing energy deep inside the body) is used during her daily rounds as a practicing physician. Tibetan Medicine explores the relationship of physical health to magnetic and other forces in the environment, and shows how Tibetan medicine heals both the physical and psychic being by treating the patient rather than just the

CROSSING CULTURES THROUGH FILM: PHILADELPHIA AND THE AMISH

Chp.: Irving Schneider, M.D.

F10 Witness

(113 minutes) 1985

Director:

Peter Weir

Distributor: Films Incorporated

5547 North Ravenswood Avenue

Chicago, IL 60640-1199

Australian director Peter Weir's first American film. Witness, proved to be a success both critically and commercially, garnering rave reviews from most who saw it and receiving eight Oscar nominations. Weir, who is perhaps best identified by the atmosphere of mysticism and spirituality that runs through his films (Picnic at Hanging Rock, The Last Wave), has managed to beautifully synthesize his Australian roots and insight with the expectation of entertainment that Hollywood holds. The film opens with a thematically important shot of land - the wind blowing through the tall, swaying wheat fields as, over the horizon, Amish farmers of Pennsylvania's Lancaster County appear, as if they are rising up from under the earth. The story begins as Rachel (Kelly McGillis), a pretty but plainly dressed Amish housewife, is traveling into Philadelphia with her young son, Samuel (Lukas Haas). While Rachel and Samuel await the arrival of their train in the noisy hustle of the crowded Philadelphia station, the youngster wanders into the men's room. Once inside Samuel hears a commotion. He peeks through the door of his stall and witnesses a man getting his throat slit. Scurrying from one stall to the other to avoid the detection of the killers. Samuel finally emerges safely and reports the murder. Later during questioning by John Book (Harrison Ford) at the police station, Samuel identifies McFee (Danny Glover), a top narcotics officer, as the killer and trouble follows.

Therapy for individuals with bipolar disorder can be optimized by recognizing diagnostic differences among the subtypes of the illness and addressing the individual therapeutic needs. Effective therapy for the variant forms of the disorder often requires the combined use of medications and psychotherapy tied to the form and stage of the illness. The recent advances presented in this symposium will spawn new ideas for the improved care of patients with bipolar disorder in your practice.

NAFTA and Psychiatry: Challenges and Opportunities

Chp.: Fernando J. Milanes, M.D. Co-Chp.: Enrique S. Garza-Trevino, M.D.

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) will progressively reduce restrictions on the exchange of services among its signatory countries. The economically based treaty is likely to have social and cultural consequences. Dr. Ramon de la Fuente Muniz examines from a Mexican view point, some anticipated effects of the treaty on the health field, particularly psychiatry and mental health. He discusses asymmetries in health indicators, health care systems, and professional practices among the signatory countries and explores the possibility of the countries reciprocally recognizing their training programs and specialist certifications.

Dr. de la Fuente la Founder and General Director of the Instituto Mexicano de Psiquiatria, one of the Mexican National Institutes of Health, and Emeritus Professor of Psychiatry in the School of Medicine of the Universidad Nacional Autónoma da México, Currently a member of the Advisory Committee on Mental Health for the World Health Organization, Dr. de la Fuente was Director of Mental Health in the Mexican Ministry of Health from 1977 to 1980, and was Founder and first President of the Mexican Psychiatric Association and the Mexican Council of Psychiatry. He has written four books and more than 120 articles and book chapters. Dr. de la Fuente received his medical degree from the School of Medicine of the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México and completed postgraduate studies at Clarkson Hospital in Omaha, Nebraska, and New York University and Columbia University in New York City. He received his psychoanalytic training at the Graduate School of the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México.

Psychiatric Education and the New Health Care System

Chp.: Robert E. Hales, M.D. Co-Chp.: Stuart C. Yudofsky, M.D.

The approaching transformations in the United States health care system will affect medical education as well as medical care. The relative attractiveness of various specialties to medical students will change, and relationships will shift among psychiatrists and other physicians and health care providers, in the social and economic structure of psychiatric practice, and the relationship between teaching and other professional activities. Both medical student and residency education will be affected, and the profession's traditional autonomy in controlling its educational programs may be challenged. Robert Michels, M.D., discusses recruitment and selection of candidates for professional education, development of curricula, and clinical and didactic experiments and evaluations from the perspective of pressures for change and strategies for response.

Dr. Michels is the Stephen and Suzanne Weiss Dean and Professor of Psychiatry at Cornell University Medical College and Provest for Medical Affairs at Cornell University. A Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association and recipient of the Association's 1993 Saymour D. Vestermark Award, Dr. Michela is Past President of the American Poard of Psychiatry and Neurology, the American College of Psychiatrists, and the American Association of Chairmen of Departments of Psychiatry. He is a member of the Board on Mental Health and Behavioral Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences and serves on the Board on Professional Standards of the American Pavehoanalytic Association and the Board of Directors of the Hastings Center. The author of more than 100 scientific articles, Dr. Michels is a member of the Editorial Boards of the New England Journal of Medicine, the American Journal of Drug and Alcohol Abuse and the Journal of the American Psychoanalytic Associ iation, and Chairman of the Editorial Board of a major textbook, Psychiatry. He graduated from Northwestern University Medical School and trained in psychiatry at Columbia University and the New York State Psychiatric Institute and in psychoanalysis at the Columbia University Paychoanalytic Cantar.

Sex, Suffrage and Suffering: Women, Society and Psychiatry

Chp.; Susan J. Ficator, M.D. Co-Chp.; Paula G. Panzer, M.D. The rights of women have greatly advanced in the last century. An unprecedented number of women candidates ran in the last U.S. election, although only six percent of those elected to office were women. In most Western and Northern countries. only better educated women have benefited from those positive changes. Many women still struggle with daily family and home responsibilities, such as the lack of effective birth control and general accordary status. In most developing countries, women still carry the major burden of hard labor and child care. AIDS is taking an increasing female tell, and proud matrilineal accieties have disappeared. Within the field of medicine, research into women's health issues is not well funded and often not even considered. Much psychiatric theory and research is based on findings for males, despite the predominance of female putients. Women complain of miadiagnosis, mistreatment and even abuse by psychiatrists.

In her presentation, Judith H. Gold, M.D., will discuss the consequences of women's lower social, political and economic status that practitioners encounter in the symptomatology of their patients and in the daily lives they describe.

Dr. Gold has a private practice in paychiatry in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada, She was the 1992. 93 President of the American College of Psychiatriats, the first Canadian and the second woman to head that organization, and Past President (1981-82) of the Canadian Psychiatric Association, the only woman to have held that position. Dr. Gold is a member of the Executive Council of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. She has served on many committees of the APA and is currently Editor of the Clinical Practice Series for the American Psychiatric Pross, Inc. From 1978-87 she was an Associate Professor at Dalhousic University in Halifax, where she continued an earlier international study of factors affecting the mental health of university students.

Dr. Gold has written many articles and book chapters and has edited several books, including Divorce as a Developmental Process. Recently she co-edited Beyond Transference: When the Therapist's Real Life Intrudes and Premenstrual Dysphorias; Myths or Realities, Dr. Gold received her medical degree from Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Schizophrenia and Outsider Art

Chp.: Christian L. Shriqui, M.D.

Martin Ramirez, Adolf Wölfli and Carlo Zinelli sport many years in psychiatric hospitals. Despite these restrictive circumstances, they created artistic works of great power that show a high level of technical mastery. Martin Ramirez emigrated from Mexico to California between 1900 and 1910, when he was in his late teens or early twenties. He eventually lost the ability to speak and became indigent in Los Angeles. In 1930, he was hospitalized then transferred within the year to DeWitt State Mental Hospital, where he remained until his death in 1960. After 20 years in the hespital, Ramirez began to make drawings and collages using graphite, colored pencils, crayons, and meticulously torn magazine illustrations. His drawings range in height from two inches to nine feet and often make impressive use of perspective to create the illusion of deep contours.

Adolf Wolfli, born in Bowil, Switzerland in 1864. was orphaned before his tenth birthday and reared in a series of foster homes. In 1890 he was sentenced to two years in prison for the attempted molestation of two young girls. In 1895, after a third incident of alleged molestation, he was committed to the Waldau Psychiatric Clinic in Berne, where he stayed until his death in 1930. Walfli experienced terrifying hallucinations and was often placed in isolation during his first ten years in the hospital. He began to draw after about four years in the hospital. His earliest preserved works are symmetrical pencil drawings on newsprint that combine images, words and musical notations. In 1908 he began an epic autobiography composed of poetry, music, and about 3,000 illustrations. At the time of his death, the Untinished, partly fantastic work comprised more than 25,000 pages. He also produced some 800 loose-leaf drawings.

Carlo Zinelli, born in 1916 in San Giovanni Lopatoto, Italy, was sent away from his family at age nine to work as a farm laborer. He developed interests in music and painting after moving to Verona, where he lived until he was conscripted into the army in 1936. The first signs of paychiatric disturbance appeared while Zinelli was in the army: he attacked his captain and was discharged in 1941 after examination at a military hospital. After the war, he suffered from an increasingly severe persecution complex, visual hallucinations, and speech disorders, and in 1947 was committed to the San Giacomo Pavchiatric Hospital in Verona. In 1957 the hospital set up a studio where Zinelli painted every day for the next 14 years. Using a fine brush, he painted repetitive silhousttad forms of plants, animals, begts, houses, and mechanical human figures, eventually adding strips of color and nonsensical letters and words. After the hospital and the studio closed in 1971, Zinelli was briefly transferred to another hospital, where he painted only sporadically. He was eventually released to his family, and died of tuberculonia in 1974.

The art of Martin Ramirez, Adolf Wolffl and Carlo Zinelli will be discussed by Elsa Longhauser, Director of the Goldie Paley Gallery at Moore College of Art and Design in Philadelphia; Phyllis Kind, Director of the Phyllis Kind Gallery in New York City; and Elka Spoerri, Curator of the Adolf Wölfli Foundation at the Kunstmuseum in Berne, Switzerland.

Collected works by Ramirez, Wölfli and Zinelli are on exhibit during the Annual Meeting at the Janet Fleisher Gallery, located at 211 South 17th Street in Philadelphia. The exhibition, entitled "Schizophrenia and Outsider Art: An Introduction to the Artistic Genius of Martin Ramirez, Adolf Wölfli and Carlo Zinelli" will run from Monday, May 23 through Thursday, May 26. THIS SESSION WILL BE AUDIOTAPED.

Compiled with a sense of historical context and a keen sense of wit and absurdity, Teodoro Maniaci and Francine M. Rzeznik's new documentary chronicles the deployment of politics, religion, medicine, and psychiatry to "cure," discourage, and stigmatize male and female homosexuality. The film includes vintage footage from the 1950s and 1960s, as well as an overview of the activities of the major force in the "curative movement," Exodus International. Also included are interviews with Exodus' co-founders who, though "ex-gay," fell in love during the development of the organization and have since renounced it to become "ex-ex-gay."

P.O. Drawer P Boulder, CO 80301

The camera follows Larry Harding, Ph.D., as he talks about his past life, his education, raising a family and his job while in the Civil Service. Then manic-depression changed his life. Larry communicates his understanding of his own illness, and the viewer learns from Larry as he describes the difficulties he experiences day-by-day.

V37 John's Not Mad (30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Here is a powerful documentary portrait of John, an adolescent who suffers from a severe case of Tourette's Syndrome. This neurological disorder causes him to make involuntary sounds, including a constant stream of profanity. He feels these words and sounds are forced out of him, beyond his ability to control them. As we see in the film, daily life is very difficult once he leaves the confines of his home. People who pass him in the neighborhood feel that John is verbally insulting them, since they do not understand his illness. Normal adolescent friendships are almost impossible to sustain because of his alienating behavior.

Dr. Oliver Sacks, who appears in the film, has spent many years studying this syndrome. He describes its history and treatment and lends insight into John's symptoms. It should be noted that most people with this disorder are not as severely affected as John, who represents the extreme end of the spectrum of Tourette's Syndrome.

The Boards Videotape is a 93-minute instructional video to assist psychiatrists preparing for their Part II Oral Examination for the boards in psychiatry. This videotape is based on a board review course that has been conducted at the Columbia University department of psychiatry for the past several years. It includes annotated lectures, an interview of an actual patient, and a "mock examination." It presents a systematic and comprehensive method for conducting the interview and for preparing for the examination.

The Concept and Phenomenology of Mental Disorders in Pharaonic Egypt

Chp.: Melvin Sabshin, M.D. Co-Chp.: Michelle O. Clark, M.D.

A culture's interpretation of the universe and people's place in it constitutes the mold in which its modical theories form. The monistic, mystical culture of pharaonic Egypt made no distinction between diseases of the body and those of the mind. Mental illness was attributed to bodily ctiology and treated both physically and psychotherapeutically through magico-religious methods. No known physician's title in pharaonic times suggests specialization in mental diseases, although psychic and mental symptoms are mentioned in many clinical observations recorded in ancient papyri. One papyrus from 1900 BC, long before Hippocrates, links behavior to uterine displacement. Ahmed M. Okasha, M.D., discusses the evolution of concepts of montal symptoms and their treatment within the world view of ancient Egypt.

Dr. Okusha is Professor and Chairman of the Department of Neuropsychiatry of the Faculty of Medicine at Ain Shame University in Cairo, The author of more than 140 articles and 17 textbooks In English and Arabic, Dr. Okashu is the Honor ary Editor of the Expetian Journal of Psychiatry and a member of several Editorial Boards, including those of the British Journal of Psychiatry, L'Encephale, and the Arab Journal of Psychiatry. The New Developmental Perspective: Dynamic Neuroscience

Chp.: John M. Oldham, M.D. Co-Chp.: Michelle Riba, M.D.

Improvements in functional brain imaging and the growing appreciation of the interplay between genetic and experiential factors in regulating brain development provide a foundation for integrating psychodynamic and biological psychiatric perspectives. Psychodynamic theory emphasizes the salience of life experience in determining mental processes, whereas biological psychiatry stressca stable, intrinsic, neurobiologic determinants of mental illness. The convergence of these two major perspectives is supported by recent insights about the causes of schizophrenia, Alzheimer's Disease and conduct disorder. Joseph T. Coyle, M.D., discusses these discoveries and their implications for a scientifically grounded approach to preventive interventions.

Dr. Coyle is the Eben S. Draper Professor of Psychiatry and Neuroscience and Chairman of the Consolidated Department of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School. His research in the areas of developmental neurobiology, mechanisms of neuronal vulnerability, and psychopharmacology has been honored with several awards, including the Johns Jacob Abel Award from the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, the Gold Medal Award from the Society for Biological Psychiatry, the Foundations' Fund Prize for Research in Psychiatry from the American Psychiatric Association, and the William R. McAlpin, Jr., Research Achievement Award from the National Mental Health Association.

Author of more than 400 scientific articles and editor of four books, Dr. Coyle is Editor in Chief of the Harvard Review of Psychiatry, the Editor of Acta Paedopsychiatrica and the International Journal of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, and sits on the Editorial Boards of several journals, including the Journal of Psychiatric Research, Archines of General Psychiatry, and the Journal of Neuroscience. He is a member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, serves on the National Advisory Mental Health Council for the National Institute of Mental Health, and is a Past President of the Society for Neuroscience, Dr. Coyle received his medical degree from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore and completed his residency in psychiatry at the Johns Hopkins Hogoital.

Vancouver, BC, Canada V6K 4L9

In this edited videotape, Peter, a 34-year-old Vancouver general practitioner with AIDS, discusses several issues: the deterioration in his health since his original interview two years earlier (shown at a previous APA meeting); his feelings of guilt and resignation about enforced dependency upon others; his empathy for the elderly and others with chronic illness; reflection on his feelings of anxiety and depression about being so ill; his ideas about and resistance to pain control; quality of life matters; refusal of further drug treatment for cytomegalic viral disease of his bowel; and his feelings about death and dying, especially the importance of being able to talk to his family members, his life-partner and his caretakers. Peter died six weeks after this interview.

V40 Domestic Violence: Which Way Out (30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

With domestic violence a growing problem in our society, one community's successful counseling program is becoming a national model. Bellevue, Washington, developed a system in which first-time offenders can forego criminal charges and conviction in exchange for undergoing intensive treatment. This approach has resulted in a repeat offense rate of only four percent among those completing treatment.

For people like Bill Edmundson, just completing group therapy, the program has made a major difference. Had he not had the opportunity to understand the causes and consequences of his action, "I could have seriously hurt somebody," he acknowledges. This documentary shows it is not only men who abuse. A family counselor discusses his own situation in which he was the victim of his wife's behavior.

Often the judicial system does not protect the victim. With the courts backlogged with cases, abusers may remain at large while their victims live in fear.

F12 Knock on Wood

(99 minutes) 1954

Directors: Melvin Frank and Norman Panama

Distributor: Films Incorporated

5547 North Ravenswood Avenue

Chicago, IL 60640-1199

The years have been sadly unkind to the films of Danny Kaye. Immensely popular after World War II, Kaye is today all but unknown to audiences brought up on Wayne's World. In romps like Court Jester and The Inspector General, he practiced a unique pastiche of sophisticated parody, borscht-belt slapstick/schtick, and in patter songs by his lyricist wife Sylvia Fine, verbal pyrotechnics worthy of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Knock on Wood distills the essence of Kaye's antic art. He plays a neurotic ventriloquist who is fast becoming his dummy's dummy. While being treated by a lovely psychoanalyst (Mai Zetterling), he falls afoul of master spy Torin Thatcher and a plot to heist the requisite secret weapon. The narrative is strewn with one outrageous turn after another. Inter alia Kaye foils Balkan assassins with names like Brodnik and Papanek, is manhandled by a recalcitrant sports car, and outwits cops and bad guys by hurling himself onto the stage of a Russian ballet (arguably the drollest send-up of that art ever filmed). Gloriously suitable for general audiences.

V41 The Gemini Inheritance: The Mystery of Identical Twins (28 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

The Gemini Inheritance delves into the genetic aspects of twinhood and the extraordinary medical discoveries that have resulted from close observation of the twin population. Dr. John Burn, geneticist, noted that identical twins were not always clones of one another. He found that in one out of 25 sets of twins, one twin had a heart defect. His research led him to the conclusion that it was the actual process of twinning, the splitting of the left and right balls of cells, that caused the heart of the right twin to malform.

What this video does uniquely well is show the excitement and dedication of a research scientist who is personally involved with the parents and children that he studies. Dr. Burn found that muscular dystrophy was another birth defect of high incidence among identical twins. We see him attending to Jenny who inherited the disability although her identical twin Katie did not. Muscular dystrophy is carried by women but usually affects only boys. Dr. Burn deduced that Jenny was the twin on the right side and did not inherit her father's healthy chromosome. Again, it was the twinning process that led to the defect. Dr. Burn's research has advanced prenatal diagnosis of these birth defects.

V42 Twinsburg, OH: Some Kind of Weird Twin Thing

(23 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Filmmakers Sue Marcoux and her identical twin, Michelle, live 3,000 miles apart. They do not have rhyming names, never dressed alike, and have a history of conflict. After not speaking for a year, Sue invites Michelle to a reunion at Twins Days, a twins convention in Twinsburg, Ohio, near their childhood home, where over 2,500 identically dressed sets of twins converge annually. Self-styled, anti-twins and cynical, Sue and Michelle nevertheless see this festivity as an opportunity to repair their relationship.

Twins Days is a free-wheeling weekend of marching bands, talent contests, carbon copy fashions and double helpings of food. There are twins in baby carriages and elderly twins on canes. Against this jubilant background, Sue and Michelle resurrect their past, confronting the ambivalence of forging separate identities. This documentary chronicles their continuing struggle to balance the intimacy of a shared childhood with the adult need for individuality.

Distributor: University of California

Extension Media Center 2176 Shattuck Avenue Berkeley, CA 94704

This eye-opening documentary on homelessness is unique in that it focuses on solutions. It shows what is working and what is merely perpetuating poverty. The video explores a wide spectrum of programs, including those of traditional inner-city storefront missions, of government social service agencies, and of the Union of the Homeless, a nationwide activist group made up of the homeless themselves. This story is told by the people involved in the streets, the missions and the shelters, and concludes with a dramatic occupation of abandoned housing in Oakland, California, by the Union of the Homeless. Narrated by Julian Bond.

Forensic and Policy Implications of the Transracial Adoption Debate

Chp.: Robert T.M. Phillips, M.D. Co-Chp.: Michelle O. Clark, M.D.

The adoption of black children by white families continues to provoke discussion, as evineed by keenly contested legal cases, recent scholarly commentaries, broad coverage in the lay press, and legislative pronouncements on the topic. There is still considerable disagreement about whether the integrity of a given family unit is best consolidated by following tradition and ensuring that the family has a single racial identity. The subject evokes such passion that scholarly attempts to explore the issue have been largely ignored.

Ezra E.H. Griffith, M.D., describes the spectrum of views on transracial adoption. At one end are those who would prohibit transracial adoption under any circumstances; at the opposite end are those who believe that adoptions should be colorblind. Still others promote a compromise position in which racial homogeneity within families is preferred if a minority child can be placed quickly in a family with similar racial characteristics.

Amidst these arguments forensic and child psychiatrists and other mental health professionals are often asked for their views. Their testimony often does not reflect accumulated knowledge or the application of scientific principles. Many mental health professionals are unaware of their own views about whether families should be racially homogeneous.

Dr. Griffith reviews developments in the continuing debate, highlighting the latest research findings, the status of laws governing transracial adoption, and recent political efforts seeking to modify the present policy. Such knowledge is a prerequisite to formulating a solid forensic opinion on this issue.

Dr. Griffith is Director of the Connecticut Mental Health Center and Professor of Psychiatry and African and African-American Studies at Yale University. He serves on Connecticut's gubernatorially appointed Paychiatric Security Review Board and has been a consultant to the Office of the Public Defender and the State's Attorneys in Connecticut, Dr. Griffith is Past President of the American Board of Forensic Psychiatry and of the Black Psychiatrists of America. He currently chairs the Committee on Cultural Psychiatry of the Group for the Advancement of Paychiatry and is a member of APA's Commission on Judicial Action, Dr. Griffith hus written extensively on cultural and forensic psychiatry and is co-author of Suicide and Ethnicity in the United States, published in 1990. He received his medical degree from the University of Strasbourg.

V45 Sadako and the Thousand Paper Cranes (30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Informed Democracy
123 Woods Street

123 Woods Street Santa Cruz, CA 95062

Sadako and the Thousand Paper Cranes is a true story of a 12-year-old Japanese girl who developed leukemia as a result of the atomic blast at Hiroshima, and her attempt to recover her health by folding a thousand paper cranes. Narrated by Liv Ullman, this videotape consists of over 300 pastel drawings depicting her courageous struggle.

Discussant: Perrin L. French, M.D.

V46 SA-I-GU (April 29): From Korean Women's Perspective

(39 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Crosscurrent Media/NAATA 346 Ninth Street, 2nd Floor

San Francisco, CA 94103

Sa-I-Gu (April 29) explores the embittering effect the Rodney King verdict rebellion had on a group of Korean-American women shopkeepers. It underscores the shattering of the American dream, while taking the media to task for playing up the "Korean-Black" aspect of the rioting. These immigrant women, rendered voiceless and invisible by mainstream media, suffered more than half of the material losses in the conflict. Sa-I-Gu provides a perspective that is essential to discussions on the Los Angeles riots, ethnic relations and racism in the United States.

Discussant: Luke Ik C. Kim, M.D.

V47 Who's Going to Pay for These Donuts Anyway?

(58 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Crosscurrent Media/NAATA

346 Ninth Street, 2nd Floor San Francisco, CA 94103

Who's Going to Pay... provides clear evidence of the profound effect of the Japanese-American internment on generations of individuals. It chronicles Tanaka's personal search for her father, whom she has not seen since age three. She finds him in a halfway house for the chronically mentally ill in Los Angeles' skid row. As a young man, he had been arrested by the FBI for opposing the internment and diagnosed as schizophrenic with paranoid tendencies.

Discussant: Joyce Seiko Kobayashi, M.D.

V49 Chaos, Science and the Unexpected (46 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library 124 East 40th Street

New York, NY 10016

This beautifully photographed science film makes visible the abstract concepts of what is predictable and what is random in nature and explores the state called chaos that lies at the borderline between these two extremes. David Suzuki draws upon experts in computer science, mathematics, meteorology, physics and biology. Their reports reveal surprising facts about our universe.

We hear from Benoit Mandlebrot, who first linked geometry with the computer age in his study of "fractals." Fractal geometry describes diverse natural phenomena as consisting of simple geometric shapes repeated over and over again, in small scale and large scale. Thus, we are shown how the shape of a huge oak tree is repeated even in the veins of the leaf. The film addresses the "Butterfly Affect," an idea that is sweeping through many branches of science. The breathing of a butterfly, the theory goes, can change the path of a storm because minute initial differences can escalate dramatically over time. Through the use of supercomputers, the Newtonian view of the clockwork universe is being challenged.

V50 Memory: The Past Imperfect (45 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

Memory is at the heart of everything we do and affects how we function as human beings. It is a complex system with some extraordinary capacity and some unexpected foibles. This production explores many aspects of memory: long- and short-term memory; hypnosis as a method of recalling the past; the phenomenon of amnesia; the memory of very young children; and the veracity of eyewitness testimony.

Memory does not work like a videotape recorder. There is the acquisition stage, the retention stage and the retrieval stage. At each stage, memory is subject to influences, but the retention stage is especially vulnerable.

Several experts share their findings. We hear from psychologist Alan Baddeley of Cambridge University, who has been studying various aspects of "working memory." Dr. Elizabeth Loftus describes her work as an expert in eyewitness testimony. Psychologist Carolyn Rovee-Collier of Rutgers University describes her research on babies' memories.

Discussant: Lenore C. Terr, M.D.

V51 Speak-Up, It's So Dark (86 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: First Run Features

153 Waverly Place, Sixth Floor New York, NY 10014

Jacob, a Jewish psychiatrist, and Soren, a Nazi skinhead, meet on a train under dramatically hostile circumstances. Soren has just been beaten up during a demonstration. Jacob attends to Soren's wounds and tells him to come to his office the following day. This is the beginning of a series of shock-like encounters that radically affect the lives of both Soren and Jacob. Jacob's relatives were killed at Auschwitz, and he becomes deeply involved in the issues raised by his meetings with Soren. He feels rage and fear at Soren's denial of the Holocaust, but he also feels a compelling need to understand and influence his protagonist.

Although Soren continues to associate with neo-Nazi groups, he gradually becomes less certain in his beliefs. Inwardly, he is almost being torn apart by his hatred and fear. Slowly it dawns on him that he must do something about this if he is to save his own life and if he is to avoid committing acts he cannot control.

CROSSING CULTURES THROUGH FILM: NATIVE AMERICANS AND CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES

Chp.: Bernard M. Morenz, M.D.

F14 Black Robe

(101 minutes) 1991

Director: Bruce Beresford

Distributor: Samuel Goldwyn Company

10203 Santa Monica Boulevard

Los Angeles, CA 90067

Black Robe is about a journey undertaken by a Jesuit missionary with Algonquin guides in the winter of 1634. The Jesuit's objective was to reach the Huron Indians up river and spread the word of Christianity. Black Robe is an earlier historical chapter regarding meetings between Native Americans and the "white man" than the more popular Dances with Wolves. Although less romantic, Black Robe is no less engaging a film than Dances with Wolves.

Black Robe is set in a primeval northeastern Canadian wilderness with abundant lakes, rivers and wildlife. The photography is breathtakingly beautiful. The movie succeeds in portraying both an accommodation of and a clash between cultures. No one in the film emerges as a hero. Neither the Native American nor European culture is portrayed as innocent, noble or superior. The film depicts brutality, savagery, depravation, kindness and understanding, as well as sexual intimacies among the Native Americans and the Europeans. Unusual for most films about Native American cultures, Black Robe underscores how disease introduced by the Europeans had a devastating effect on some of the Native American tribes. Beresford's direction (Tender Mercies, Driving Miss Daisy) is respectful and empathic toward these people caught up in momentous first contacts. Beresford shares his awe of these courageous souls who were witness to the beginning of apocalyptic changes for both animals and humans in North America with the arrival of the first Europeans.

Herbert Pardes, M.D.

How Do We Practice, Teach and Research After Health Reform?

Chp.: Jerald Kay, M.D. Co-Chp.: Troy L. Thompson II, M.D.

Health care reform has made health care a central political and policy issue in the United States. Doctors, hospitals, academic centers and professional associations have experienced a level of anxiety about their future unparalleled in the history of U.S. health care.

Herbert Pardes, M.D., discusses how health and mental health care will function in the coming era. He addresses issues important to consumers, such as how much physician choice there will be and whether the reforms will reduce the quality of American medicine. He also addresses key issues, such as parity for coverage of mental disorders and whether reform will reduce recruitment into psychiatry and hurt interdisciplinary relations.

Dr. Pardes is Vice President for Health Sciences, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. He is a Past President of the APA, and currently chairs APA's Council on Research. Dr. Pardes is a member of the Dean's Administrative Board of the Association of Medical Colleges and the Institute of Medicine. He is President of the Scientific Board of the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression.

Dr. Pardes was Director of the National Institute of Mental Health during the Carter Administration and the first part of the Reagan Administration. He has testified extensively before Congress and has acted as a consultant to the Congressional Office of Technology, NIH and ADAMHA. In addition, he has played a strong role in collaborations with China, India, Egypt, Israel and the former Soviet Union and in representing NIMH and APA in their relationships with the World Health Organization.

For his aggressive advocacy on behalf of patients and their families. Dr. Pardes has received numerous awards. Recent honors include Distinguished Service Awards from the American College of Psychiatrists (1990) and NAMI (1991), the William C. Menninger Memorial Award from the American College of Physicians (1992) and the Dorothea Dix Award from the Mental Illness Foundation (1992).

L'Ombre du Doute (A Shadow of Doubt) is a psychological thriller. Alexandrine, age twelve, a polite and timid child, is apparently the only witness to a crime that she can hardly bring herself to describe. Yet, just a few words are enough to alarm her parents, her teacher, the police, the judiciary. When a child is beaten or abused, it cannot escape its torturer: firstly because it loves that person, whether it is its father or mother and then, because of this love, it necessarily becomes the accomplice of the violence that exists within the family. Why does Alexandrine make horrible accusations about her father only to retract them later? Whom should we believe? The word of a child or that of a distraught father who will do everything in his power to save his family?

V52 A Day at a Time (60 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Here is the astonishing portrait of an extraordinary family where four lively children grow in a warm, loving environment. What sets this family apart are that their beautiful twin girls, Aba and Anastasia, are severely disabled with cerebral palsy. Yet this is a triumphant film, not a sad one. The power of love has turned an almost unimaginable situation into an affirmation of life.

The twins are eagerly engaged in school, community, summer camp and church. Mary, their mother, manages to find great joy in her chaotic life of juggling everyone's needs. While the day revolves around caring for the wheelchair-bound twins, one sees a normal dose of sibling rivalry from the healthy older brother and baby sister who also expect their mother's attention.

Mary, born in Dublin, uses her tenacity and charm to assure that her children receive all the medical and educational benefits to which they are entitled. She is a woman in constant motion, bathing, dressing, feeding and taking pleasure in seeing the twins attractively dressed. Her husband, Gerardo, of Hispanic background, is a quiet and private man who opens his heart to the viewer as he allows this personal story to be recorded on film.

Discussant: Beryl B. Lawn, M.D.

V53 Sexuality and Spinal Cord Injury: The Patient's View (20 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Douglas Rothgaber

CPPI Penn State P.O. Box 850 Hershey, PA 17033

In this 20-minute videotape, patients and their partners describe their sexual rehabilitation after severe spinal cord injury. They discuss how questions of sex began to emerge immediately after injury, and the importance of experimentation with sex after injury with an understanding partner. In a candid, open, and sometimes humorous style, the patients themselves serve as our teachers.

Discussant: Paul A. Kettl, M.D.

V54 Danny: A Story of Persistent Vegetative State

(29 minutes)

Producer: Richard E. D'Alli, M.D.

Distributor: Richard A. Collins

Arizona Health Science Center Biomedical Communications

Tucson, AZ 85724

This videotape reviews the last four days in the life of a young man with brittle diabetes who remained in a Persistent Vegetative State (PVS) following resuscitation from cardiac arrest. The video was intended to stimulate discussion of patient and family treatment issues in a case of PVS among physicians in training and practice, nursing personnel, social workers and other involved health care providers.

The tape is in three segments: first, the patient's history as told by his family and doctors; second, a brief review of PVS and the ethical issues pertinent to the case; third, the resolution of the case.

The story is presented in documentary style, which permits the participants to work through their experiences again. Noteworthy is the skill and sensitivity exhibited by the attending neurologist in his work with the family.

Discussant: Richard E. D'Alli, M.D.

11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Room 114, Street Level, Convention Center Donald F. Klein, M.D.

Suffecation False Alarm Theory of Panic Disorder

Chp.: James C. Ballenger, M.D. Co-Chp.: M. Katherine Shear, M.D.

Hypersensitivity to carbon dioxide has been proposed as a cause of panic. Donald F. Klein, M.D., discusses a broader model that subsumes the carbon dioxide hypersensitivity theory. The model proposes that many spontaneous panic attacks occur when the brain's suffication monitor erroncously signals a lack of useful air, thereby triggering an evolved suffocation false alarm. This maladaptive trigger produces sudden respiratory distress followed swiftly by brief hyperventilation, panic and the urge to flee. In this model, carbon dioxide hypersensitivity is due to the defective suffocation alarm monitor. To support such a model, Dr. Klein examines other indicators of potential suffocation and their relation to panic.

Dr. Klein is Professor of Psychiatry at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, Attending Psychiatrist at the Presbyterian Hospital, and Director of Psychiatric Research and the Department of Therapeutics at New York State Psychiatric Instituté. He is President of the American Society of Clinical Psychopharmacology and of the National Foundation for Depressive Iliness. A Life Fellow of the APA, he has served on numerous APA committees and task forces.

Dr. Klein has been a consultant to several federal agencies, including the FDA, the Center for Studies of Narcotic and Drug Abuse, NIMH, the Office of Technology Assessment, and the National Institute of Aging. As a Senior Science Advisor to ADAMHA from 1989 to 1990, he was active in establishing the Medication Development Divisions at the National Institute of Drug Abuse and NIMH.

Dr. Klein co-authored the first textbook of clinical paychopharmacology, Diagnosis and Drug Treatment of Psychiatric Disorders, in 1969. This book played a major role in the move toward systematic objective diagnosis. The author of 14 books and more than 550 other publications, Dr. Klein sits on the Editorial Boards of several journals.

Among his recent honors are the Society of Biological Psychiatry's Gold Medal Award (1990), the Heinz E. Lehman Research Award from the State of New York (1991), and the Paul Hoch Distinguished Service Award of the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology (1991).

Dr. Klein received his medical degree from the State University of New York College of Medicine, and completed his residency in psychiatry at Creedmoor State Hospital in Queens Village, New York.

V56 On the Edge of Being: When Doctors Confront Cancer (45 minutes)

Producer: Ruth Drazen

Distributor: Cernex Pharmaceuticals

1-800-824-2896

Six physicians and a nurse who personally confronted cancer agreed to be interviewed in an effort to close the gap between care seeker and care giver. Their stories are profound and unsettling. An encounter with lifethreatening disease transforms people and those around them. Unlike family members or patients, physicians must make their way through the deeply distressing emotions of illness over and over again, and yet they are rarely taught the skills to do this. This videotape attempts to address this issue by focusing on communication skills, pain management and coping skills.

RESEARCH CONSULTATION WITH 11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Parlor C. Second Floor, Wyndham Hotel

3 Jack D. Barchas, M.D., on Neuroregulators and Hypotheses of Mental Disorders and Substance Abuse

This format provides an opportunity for psychiatrists to obtain consultations around problems in research from outstanding senior researchers. Participants should come prepared to present a specific problem in research, whether it's one of research design, methodology, subject selection or data analysis, etc., which could be presented briefly to the consultant. This session is limited to 30 participants on a first-come, first-served basis.

F16 Lonely in America (96 minutes) 1990

Tirlok Malik Director:

Distributor: Apple Productions, Inc.

205 West 95th Street, Suite B

New York, NY 10025

Tirlok Malik's Lonely in America is a romantic comedy about a young man from India who comes to America and sets out to find meaningful work and relationships. The film touches on universal immigrant experiences and explores, in a touching and humorous way, the conflicts created when one tries to accomodate and acculturate to American values and morels. It may be easier to accept the American dream than become part of the American culture.

V58 Mood and Anxiety Disorders

(30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Gerald T. Rogers Productions

5215 Old Orchard Road, Suite 990

Skokie, IL 60077

Major depressive illness and anxiety disorders are two of the most common diagnoses in the treatment of dual disorders. The first vignette focuses on Leo, a recovering alcoholic who has successfully maintained sobriety for a period of time, but still finds that he has difficulty adjusting to life. His lack of energy, appetite loss, insomnia, even suicidal thoughts require special treatment. He is diagnosed as suffering from depression. The second vignette portrays Mary's struggle to calm her "nerves," using a combination of pills and alcohol. Her anxiety has led to increased chemical dependency and requires medical attention. Both vignettes focus on aspects of treatment, which include possible medication and therapy.

V59 Personality Disorders (28 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Gerald T. Rogers Productions

5215 Old Orchard Road, Suite 990

Skokie, IL 60077

The second program examines two complex personality disorders: antisocial behavior and borderline personality disorder, featuring deeply embedded or rigid personality traits. The first of two vignettes follows Jack, a man who's both chemically dependent and displaying signs of an antisocial behavior disorder. Forced into treatment, he must learn to modify his behavior and confront negative personality traits. The second vignette focuses on Julia, an alcoholic with a borderline personality disorder, as she copes after leaving psychiatric treatment. She too must examine her behavior in order to avert a relapse.

F17 Dr. Strangelove or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb (93 minutes) 1964

Director: Stanley Kubrick Distributor: Films Incorporated

5547 North Ravenswood Avenue

Chicago, IL 60640-1199

Intended as a sort of Grand Guignol comedy, combining anti-establishment theories and an underground indictment of the U.S. government and its policies, Dr. Strangelove transcended the campus snicker and art house smugness with caricatures so bold and wild that it became the first significant film of the absurd, one where everyone had a black laugh, no matter the level of perception. Stanley Kubrick's comic masterpiece is more relevant now than ever. The President of the United States and the Soviet Premier join forces to save the world from nuclear destruction.

Turnabout (30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library 124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This engaging video interweaves themes of aging, creativity, and homosexuality in a unique Hollywood memoir. Here is a portrait of three gifted men who enjoyed a lifelong artistic collaboration in the renowned Turnabout Theater. They were: Harry Burnett, a world famous puppeteer; Forman Brown, a composer, lyricist, and writer; and Roddy Brandon, the business brains of the enterprise. Along with the story of their show business success is the story of their quiet cohabitation in an era when few individuals were openly gay. They did not "come out" until they reached their mid 80's. The two surviving partners are now in their 90's, their humor and perceptions as sharp as ever, as they look back upon the richness of their lives.

V61 The Grand Generation

(30 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library 124 East 40th Street

New York, NY 10016

From Academy Award-Winner Paul Wagner comes this warm portrait of six elderly Americans whose vigor belies their age. Three are folk artists, one a baker, one a political activist, and one a bayman on the Chesapeake. Though they remember the past, they still relish the present and live it fully.

Rosina Tucker, a 102-year-old African-American, was a union organizer and civil rights activist. Rosina is still engaged in these causes, and her face lights up as she recites the poetry that inspired her. Alex Kellan knows how to navigate a 50-mile gale and knows where to find the best crabs. He considers himself as professional as any doctor or lawyer, only his education came from the sea. Moishe Sacks recalls his pleasure as a baker, with his hands an extension of the dough he kneaded.

V62 Live the Jazz: Music Revitalizes the Elderly African-American Issues

(60 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library 124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

Picture a nursing home full of frail, apathetic elders with nothing but time on their hands. Then inject a dose of live New Orleans jazz performed by musicians who are no youngsters themselves. What you have is a prescription for beating the blues, as nursing home residents twirl their parasols New Orleans style and dance together.

Live the Jazz applauds equally the enthusiastic elderly audience and the performances of some of New Orleans great musicians: Frank Federico, Danny Barker, Pud Brown, the late Chester Zardis and Louis Nelson. When one sees these older jazz musicians jamming and swinging like people half their age, one realizes that music has a way of erasing the ravages of time. By stimulating memories and renewing the spirit, music helps elders transcend pain and isolation.

V63 Just Black

(14 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library 124 East 40th Street

New York, NY 10016

Most of us at one time or another are faced with an official form requiring us to check the applicable ethnic designation. What box does a person check if his or her parents come from different racial backgrounds?

In this provocative documentary, we meet several articulate young men and women of mixed racial heritage. Each has one Black parent, and a White, Asian or Hispanic second parent. They share with us their struggle to establish, acquire, and assert a racial identity. Their experiences lead one to question whether there is room in America for a multiracial identity.

Interviews presented reflect the research of anthropologist Francine Windance Twine. Her searching questions on dating, family relationships, friendships and childhood experiences reveal a wide range of reactions to having a dual heritage. As these young people speak of their hopes and frustrations, they all reveal the tension of having their multiracial background overlooked and being classified as having only one racial identity.

V64 The Call of the Jitterbug

(35 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

In the early 1930s a dance craze swept the nation. Some called it the Jitterbug, some called it the Lindy Hop and some called it Swing dancing. Its center was Harlem's Savoy Ballroom. Here the musical giants, such as Count Basie, Benny Goodman and Cab Calloway played, while legendary dancers like Al Minns, Normal Miller and Frank Manning danced.

It was the first art form that broke through the color barrier. At the Savoy, blacks and whites danced together, probably for the first time in America. Interviews with musicians and dancers, plus lively vintage footage, bring back the sights and sounds of this bygone era. The performers remember how dance was an antidote for the economic depression outside. Others recall bitter moments on the road where prejudice denied them a place to eat or spend the night.

V65 Didn't We Ramble On: The Black Marching Band

(14 minutes)

Producer/

Distributor: Filmakers Library

124 East 40th Street New York, NY 10016

This joyful video will delight people of all ages. It shows how the spirit and soul of the West African people have been passed down, generation by generation, through the black marching band. As long as 700 years ago, the Yorubas had musical processions at funerals to celebrate the passage of the spirit into the next world. By the 17th century, African musicians were seen in Turkish marching bands and their skills were admired by the monarchs of Europe. In the United States, black fife and drum bands played during the revolutionary war to keep up the spirits of the troops.

In modern times, the tradition of the Black marching band continues on the football fields of America. Dizzy Gillespie proudly introduces us to the skillfully orchestrated maneuvers of the Florida A&M Marching Band. He points out that this contemporary band is the direct fulfillment of an ageless ancestral idea. In New Orleans today, a jazz procession is an integral part of the funeral observance. No matter how rich or how poor, the deceased is celebrated with a grand and festive send off. Even the children have learned to use the music of their bodies and dance to the spirit within. They will pass this tradition on to their children.

AMERICAN PSYCHIATRIC

American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry Volume 13

Edited by John M. Oldham, MD, and Michelle B. Riba, MD

n this 13th volume in the Review of Psychiatry series, editors John M. Oldham, MD, and Michelle B. Riba, MD, continue an ongoing commitment to making this series a vital reference for the practicing clinician. More than 50 contributors share their expertise in the areas of the history of psychiatry in America, biological markers, ethics, psychotherapy with children and adolescents, and sleep disorders.

Following the successful format of past volumes, each section includes a foreword and afterword by the section editor(s) that summarize key points, and each chapter features an extensive bibliography. These volumes are top sellers at the APA annual meetings and all year long.

Foreword to American Psychiatric Press Review of Psychiatry, Volume 13. John M. Oldham, MD, and Michelle B. Riba, MD.
